Report Yanks Take Town in Germany; Enter Holland

FINN-RUSSIAN ARMISTICE ENDS ALL HOSTILITIES

War's Halt Ordered by Mannerheim.

BULLETIN.

HELSINKI, Sept. 4 (Monday) —(AP).—The Finnish government announced this morning that hostilities between Finland and Russia would cease at 8 a. m. (1 a. m., Chicago war time). The cease fire order was issued by President Carl Gustav Mannerheim as commander in chief of the Finnish army, a war bulletin said.

LONDON, Sept. 4 [Monday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio early today charged there were "distortions" in the peace proclamation made Saturday by the Finnish premier, Hantti Hackzell, and that actually his statement had not complied with Russian demands on Finland as a basis for establishing an armistice.

"Hackzell did not say that Finland was breaking off relations with Germany, when the breaking off of relations by Finland with Germany is in integral part of preliminary conditions of the soviet government," said the broacast as recorded by the soviet monitor in London.

"Only after this, come soviet-Finnish negotiations for an armistice," the broadcast added.

Finns' Status Uncertain.

The latest expression of the Russian attitude threw a veil of uncertainty over Finland's status in her attempt to get out of the Nazi camp.

[A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm, Sweden, quoted the Finnish news agency as saying that Finland had formally broken off relations with Germany. The word "diplomatic" was not mentioned.]

Moscow broadcast a statement yesterday that Russia was prepared to help the Finnish army disarm the Germans if they did not get out of Finland by Sept. 15.

Unconfirmed reports reaching the Tidningen, Stockholm newspaper, said the Germans had begun to withdraw, using the Finnish port of Oulu, near the northern end of the gulf of Bothnia.

[A Reuter report from Stockholm last night said the German commander in chief in Finland had assured President Carl Gustav Mannerheim that German troops would withdraw from Finland before Sept. 15 without incident.]

The Moscow broadcast yesterday, carrying a statement by the soviet foreign commissariat, said the Finns had agreed as a pre-condition to peace talks to oust or intern German troops by that date and withdraw their forces to the 1940 Russian-Finnish border.

Reds Tell of Peace Overture.

The peace overture, Moscow said, was transmitted to soviet ambassadress, Alexandra Kolantay, in Stockholm by G. A. Grippenberg, Finnish envoy, and suggested a cessation of hostilities on the southern sector to permit the Finns to withdraw to the 1940 border and the Red army move up to that line.

The statement did not disclose whether these conditions had been fulfilled, but they were contained in an announcement Saturday night by Premier Hackzell voiding the agreement between former President Risto Ryti and the Germans and asking the Nazis to get out of the country by Sept. 15 as a first step to peace.

The Moscow statement said the Finns were told that the pre-conditions had "been agreed to by the British government and in no way objected to by the United States government."

Envoys Prepare to Leave.

Reports from Helsinki by way of Stockholm last night said it was understood that Berlin had requested Toivo Kivimaki, Finnish minister to Berlin, to leave Germany and that the German legation staff of about 15 would leave Helsinki on Thursday or Friday.

It was understood that Mannerheim, as Finland's first soldier, had not wished to stab his German allies in the back but had charted a course that would permit the Germans to withdraw under peaceful agreements.

Politics? Finds Paris Split as in Pre-War Era

Move to Paris

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's provisional government has moved from Algiers to Paris. It had its first reunion last night with arrival from Algiers, by way of Cherbourg, of 11 commissioners whose posts are similar to those of cabinet members.

At the meeting, during which De Gaulle presided, were all members of the government except Gen. Georges Catroux, commissioner for North Africa, and Jean Hubert, commissioner without portfolio.

PARIS, Sept. 2 [Delayed]—Freed for a week, the first rapture—unrestrained, wild, carefree—has begun wearing off as Parisians are trying to settle down to problems revived by their liberty. Paris was united in enthusiasm at its deliverance, but now that the tumult and the shouting are dying down the people begin looking at one another and often accusingly. Amidst this background of individual accusation as to what role each played during the German occupation—memories of which are still fresh and sometimes very bitter—there are other cleavages of a more permanent nature.

Who Will Hold Power?

With these broad outlines lie all sorts of complications and contradictions to such an extent that they sometimes become the determining factor in the same way that the extreme left and the extreme right are often in the same camp against the moderates, and the main issue between these extremes becomes a question only of who will excercise totalitarian power and for whose benefit.

The future of France itself may be decided in solving these contradictions.

Outwardly Paris is very much the same as usual. It has suffered little from bombing. But evidence of the war is obvious to any one when he first enters the city Cars, buses and street cars are nonexistent.

"Revolution Fodder."

Mingled with the throngs are American and other soldiers but still in no great numbers.

But on street corners stand youths in a motley of uniforms or no uniforms at all save a tricolor armband with the letters F. F. I. They have rifles, tommyguns, revolvers, and knives.

One observer commented that these lads are the "outward evidence of what is seething below the surface" and they make good revolution fodder. Just what happens in France may depend upon just how the provisional government deals with them. It has been suggested that they be incorporated in the regular army and disciplined for now they make arrests at will.

JAPS FLEE DAVAO SKIES: M'ARTHUR

Announces New Raid on Philippine City.

GENERAL HDQ. SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 4 [Monday] (AP).—Announcing a record 130 ton raid on Davao, principal city of Mindanao Island in the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur today said:

"It is apparent that the enemy's air force has been driven away from fields in southern Mindanao, further to the north and west."

Escorted American bombers hit Davao Saturday, 24 hours after a 110 ton raid on the same target in which 38 Jap planes were destroyed, all but one on the ground.

Record Fighter Flight.

Only three Japanese planes rose to intercept Saturday's assault. All were shot down by escorting Lightning fighters which flew a record distance in this theater, a 1,400 mile round trip. All American planes returned to their bases.

The attackers unloaded heavy demolition bombs on the port area and shipyards at Davao and near-by air fields at Lasang, Licanan, and Sasa.

Heavy units bombed coastal installations in the Talaud Islands, 200 miles south of Mindanao. Medium bombers attacked shipping, shipyards, and warehouses in the Limbeh area of Celebes.

Halmahera, southern guardian of the Philippines, was bombed. Fighter-bombers hit the Ceramboeroe area to the south.

The Davao raid started from newly built American air bases at Sansapor, at the extreme tip of New Guinea.

JAPS WARNED OF OFFENSIVE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokyo radio warned the Japanese people yesterday that "huge" operations against the Philippines, Formosa, and the Bonin Islands were imminent, that there would be a "diversional operation" from the Aleutians and that the Japanese mainland would be subjected to sustained air attacks from China.

The impending Pacific operations, said the broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission, would be on a "large scale in comparison with past operations."

Another Tokyo broadcast monitored by NBC said the Japanese diet would convene in extraordinary session Wednesday when Prime Minister Koiso would "clarify" his policies.

Tells How Battling Americans Barred Nazi Flight Near Mons

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 1ST ARMY TROOPS AT THE BELGIAN FRONTIER, Sept. 3.—It started out to be a pleasant jaunt into Mons, large Belgian city which was captured late yesterday by an armored spearhead. But south of the border and north of Maubeuge our columns ran into a hard fight with swarms of Germans trying to break thru to Germany.

Doughboys supported by some tanks have been battling all day with the Germans and now, at 4 p. m., the road to Mons is being opened.

Inside Mons burning ammunition occasionally explodes and American tanks blast open a path, but the city otherwise is comparatively quiet. In the smoke darkened streets lie German bodies, dead horses, smashed and burning German tanks and trucks and other equipment.

Few Nazis Get Past.

Except for small groups, the German force that tried to break out to the east, did not succeed, altho one body with 200 vehicles raced east thru Maubeuge last night. Instead, the Germans have lost most of their vehicles and had many casualties.

A few moments ago 350, headed by a colonel and four other officers, were put under guard in an abandoned moat in the city park just outside Mons.

About an hour ago that moat had been our headquarters. At that time, for half an hour, every one thought we would have to fight for our lives. In a last ditch attempt the Germans had swept out of the forest of Laniere, northeast of Maubeuge, and tried to fight their way into the town.

Infantry men who had been rolling up toward a border crossroads where heavier fighting had been going on jumped off of trucks and deployed under cover of a road bank. Generals, colonels and others had been in a three story brick home at the side of the road. But when they looked out the top window and saw what appeared to be several companies charging across the field, the headquarters suddenly were moved into the moat.

Surprise for Nazis, Too.

The Germans had their surprise, too. Early this morning they were pinned for a while in the forest by French Forces of the Interior [F. F. I.] armed with rifles and tommy guns.

Then one of our infantry columns rolled thru trying to reach our armor at Mons. At the crossroads eight miles south of Mons, at Bais, Beaudon, the Germans trying to cross to the east barred their path and the fight started. It spread on back to the outskirts of Maubeuge, where our jeep ran into it.

While the doughboys with their tank support kept most of the enemy hemmed in west of the road around the forest and near the village of Feignies, sweeps of P-38s roared down to dive bomb and strafe the Germans and their vehicles.

Germans Peril Command Post.

Our own artillery still was strung out in the convoy and coming up. All that the doughboys had for support was their tanks. Then somebody saw the Germans breaking thru four fields away and headed toward our command post.

A half-track mounting multiple .50 caliber machine guns stopped at a corner and took the Germans under direct fire. From a line of houses enemy rifles began cracking and bullets winged overhead to splatter against the stone wall of the moat.

Yanks Get the Upper Hand.

A staff sergeant who had come down the road by jeep from the fighting at the crossroads rolled down the slope to report. He said our men were holding all right and were taking prisoners now by platoons.

By this time our moat command post had become a strongpoint. We had an artillery battalion in position, halftracks mounting machine guns and ack-ack [anti-aircraft] guns depressed for direct fire, and skirmish lines of doughboys. But by this time, too, other doughboys, sent on a flanking move by Lt. Col. Chuck Horner, Doylestown, Pa., had moved in behind the Germans, whose game was up.

LYON WON, BUT MAQUIS STILL FIGHT TRAITORS

U.S., French Troops Take Over City.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LYON, France, Sept. 3.—Lyon was still in the throes of a mighty welcome to the liberating Maquis tonight. Amid cheers there was furious street fighting in the section of the city west of the Rhone river.

All the Germans have fled—the last of them in the darkness this morning—after blowing up bridges and wrecking storehouses, but the Fascist milice [militia] remained barricaded in the Carlton hotel and were waging a last fight as the patriots closed in for reprisals on their traitor countrymen.

Tank Convoys Move in.

American and regular French forces were moving into the city with their long lines of tanks and truck convoys. They received as enthusiastic a reception as did the Maquis during the day.

As suspected, the Germans had used Lyon as a hinge to extricate some of their forces from the Rhone valley and thence to the northeast, and once the enemy had got out what he could he fought no more for Lyon.

But there remained vengeance to be taken by the patriots against the milice who had collaborated with the Gestapo. In the center of the city, west of the Rhone, the Maquis furiously hunted down the traitors and their fighting, reminiscent of the worst days of Marseille and Toulon, surged around the Carlton hotel.

Barricaded in Hotel.

The hotel had been the German headquarters and the milice barricaded themselves there, firing from bedroom vantage points in a last depairing conflict, many of these fascist minded Frenchmen preferring to die at their guns rather than before execution squads.

There were other centers of milice resistance, too, around the Place Carnot and the Church of Notre-Dame-de-Fourviere. Machine guns staccatoed, rifles cracked and grenades arched down in ripping explosions as the civil war raged. The streets west of the river were deserted as those citizens who did not have weapons to join in the fight hid in their houses.

The Germans in retreat blew up more than 20 bridges across the Rhone and Saone, beginning yesterday morning. The only one partially intact was the President Wilson

BERLIN BROADCAST WARNS HOME FRONT AGAINST WEAKENING

LONDON, Sept. 4 [Monday]—(AP).—In one of the frankest Nazi broadcasts ever directed to home listeners, the Berlin radio declared today that "every German must be warned at this hour that the slightest sign of wavering or weakness now will present the enemy with victory."

"We are fighting for our bare existence and the choosing is not on our side. Weaklings will probably flag under the strain which is now being exerted on us. But the strong must keep the banner flying.

"The enemy is flooding us with a veritable thunderstorm of propaganda which may bring confusion and conflict in the homeland. He is out to split the nation and its unity.

"We must be warned against such agitation, which is bound to increase every hour as the enemy continues to blow his trumpet about victories at the front.

"It is our job to work and to continue to work, as only that can bring us victory."

The broadcast came amid continued silence by Adolf Hitler, who Libson had reported, planned to appeal to the German people yesterday to fight to the last ditch in defense of the "holy soil" of the reich.

Starving Pisa Silently Hails Its Liberators

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 5TH ARMY IN PISA, Italy, Sept. 3.—The starving citizens of ancient Pisa, wrested from the Germans less than 24 hours ago, huddled in the doorways of their shell pocked homes today and watched Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army streaming thru in pursuit of the Nazis.

There was little cheering. Pisa had suffered too much for that. Three thousand of her residents were killed on Aug. 31, 1943, in an allied air raid. Later the Germans turned flame throwers on men who refused to report to forced labor battalions. And for the last 40 days Pisa has been without light, water or food.

People Stream Back Home.

This writer, the first American correspondent to enter, rode to Pisa this morning along a highway that was a paradox of war—unblemished concrete bordered on each side by palatial homes and apartment buildings that has been ground to ruins by shelling.

Altho Pisa had been free only a few hours the road was crowded with returning refugees.

Within the city the people eyed us soberly. But when we took a wrong turn they sprang out and stopped us. An old man explained that the Germans had mined the road.

In the five hours we spent in Pisa we heard mines exploding, adding to the destruction. Once we passed a hand cart bearing a young girl with a shattered right foot. Peasants pulling the cart said she had stepped on a German shoe mine, designed to blow off a foot without killing the victim.

Leaning Tower Undamaged.

Reaching the Arno river, we learned the Germans had demolished all four toll bridges. Then we headed for the historic Piazza del Duomo, mecca for tourists. Here stand the famous leaning tower and the beautiful cathedral designed in 1063. The tower seemed untouched by the war.

The tower and the cathedral bore signs in German, "Artistic building, do not damage," but the cathedral walls had been scarred by mortar shells and a bullet hole was in one of the famous bronze doors.

Seven hundred bombed and shelled out civilians had been living in the cathedral for a month.

Archbishop Gabriele Vettori and other leaders said the civilian daily bread allotment of about seven ounces a person was stopped by the Germans 40 days ago. When the archbishop attempted to send trucks owned by the church out to the countryside to bring in food, German soldiers requisitioned them. About the same time, two aqueducts bringing water to the city and the plant supplying electricity were partly destroyed.

American army engineers said they would have one aqueduct operating within about six days and a convoy of trucks is bringing in food enough to feed 30,000 people for three days.

Charge Nazis Burned 80.

Civic leaders said the Germans burned to death 72 men and eight women with flame throwers. Four months ago the 80 fled to the forests of Molina di Cuosa near here when the Germans ordered all men to report for forced labor. A German platoon surrounded the camp in the night and put the flame throwers into action without giving the victims a chance to surrender, the leaders said.

They also charged that SS [elite guard] agents entered the home of a wealthy Jewish family and killed all six of the family and four servants with grenades and pistols.

Lt. Gen. Clark came into Pisa this afternoon and spent an hour inspecting the city.

REACH CAPITAL IN 5 HOUR DASH FROM BORDER

British Tanks Meet Little Opposition.

PICTURES FROM BELGIUM.

WITH BRITISH TROOPS ON THE BELGIAN FRONTIER, Sept. 3 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British 2d army crossed the Belgian frontier shortly after 9 a. m. today and by 2 p. m. British armored cars were rolling into Brussels.

A tank-led vanguard stormed thru feeble German defenses into Belgium in the Tournai area just two hours less than five years after Britain declared herself at war with Germany.

Speed Dazes Civilians.

Everywhere along the route the British troops were greeted by crowds delirious with joy and dazed by the speed of the liberating army's arrival.

"We knew you were coming but we didn't expect you for days," civilians said repeatedly.

The British tanks were literally smothered with fresh plucked flowers until the long column of battle grimed armor looked like Pasadena's famed tournament of roses.

IN GERMANY, CLAIM

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 4 [Monday]—(AP).—American troops stormed into Germany and captured their first town, neutral reports said today, as other allied armies ripped thru Belgium and into Holland, crushing remnants of a broken German army.

A Stockholm report said American tankmen had captured Peri just inside the German frontier near the junction of Germany, France and Luxembourg. Farther to the north in a sweep thru the Low Countries United States 1st army units took Mons, 30 miles from Brussels.

There was no confirmation at supreme headquarters that the Americans had crossed into Germany or of a German report that they were now fighting in Holland.

Plunge Thru Meuse Valley.

Armored columns of Americans plunging up the broad valley of the Meuse reached Namur, 35 miles inside Belgium and within 55 miles of Prussia yesterday while 125 miles to the south Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d army pushed thru Metz and Nancy toward the German frontier 35 miles away.

According to latest reports both American and British troops were closing in on Brussels, capital of Belgium.

The Germans, nowhere on the scattered battlelines, were making any determined effort to stem the racing armor and there was no indication they were planning to use the Maginot line as a defense.

British and Canadian forces swung two more bridgeheads across the Somme, east and west of Abbeville, which was being mopped up, and reached Ailly le Haut and Clocher, four miles beyond the river, and Grand Laviers, about two miles northeast of Abbeville.

No Word of Coastal Towns.

Supreme headquarters had no official confirmation of reports that allied forces had captured Le Touquet, Boulogne, Calais, and Dunkerque.

[Axis reports said American troops had reached the Maas [Juliana] canal, which is actually inside Holland in the Maastricht appendix jutting down between Germany and Belgium.]

As the battle for France apparently ended and the fight for Belgium appeared nearing its end the BBC in a London broadcast recorded by the FCC said "the Belgian government, now in London is to return to Belgium in a few days."

[Supreme headquarters generally

was silent for "security reasons on the rapid advances of allied forces but it appeared the showdown battle for Germany was on.]

With allied armies drawing closer to Germany the Germans were reported pouring troops into the Siegfried line [west wall].

[A Berlin radio report placed allied units only a few miles from Aachen, border town and stronghold in the Siegfried line.

Wheels to Northeast.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' United States 1st army, which crossed the Belgian border only Saturday, wheeled abruptly northeast and sent tanks northeast to Namur, on the route over which Hitler's legions sped four years ago in the conquest of France and the Lowlands.

Namur is 33 miles southwest of Liege, great fortress anchor in Belgium's Albert line which the Germans cracked in the campaign that they boasted would seal Europe's fate "for the next 1,000 years."

Now, four years later, they were fleeing along the same road faster than they came, offering nothing but sporadic resistance to Hodges' spearheads.

Rush On from Tournai.

The British 2d army rushed on from fallen Tournai, six miles inside Belgium, down the last 46 miles to Brussels.

[A front line dispatch on Saturday indicated that Tournai had fallen to the Americans. It was not clear whether the two armies met there.]

Gen. Patton sent patrols below Metz across the Moselle river—last major barrier before the Siegfried line—and a front dispatch said advance units were operating in the area of Metz and the old Lorraine capital of Nancy. Ten tons of maps were dropped from planes to the 3d army.

Metz is 24 miles from the Saar border, where the French early in the war jumped off from their Maginot line and made a small penetration into Germany near Saarbrucken.

[The German radio admitted the loss of Toul on the Moselle river west of Nancy. Radio Atlantik, a clandestine German language station, said German heavy gun batteries in the German Westwall went into action Sunday morning as American tanks crossed the Moselle river at several points.]

Tank Battle at Longwy.

American columns streamed northward, west and east of Sedan, and the Germans reported a "fierce" tank battle at Longwy, two miles from the border of the duchy of Luxembourg.

Before these onrushing forces, the Germans were marching columns of troops into the Siegfried line.

A stand in these now outmoded defenses, stretching from the Swiss frontier northward to the Netherlands, was Germany's last hope of holding off the allies for the next four to six weeks of good fighting weather, when heavy autumn rains can slow or bog the mobile allied armies.

The only strong enemy resistance was reported in the center by hopelessly cut-off rear guards on the old World war battlegrounds of Cambrai, St. Quentin, and Compiegne, as far as 90 miles behind a front which now stretches some 300 miles from Abbeville to Nancy.

1st Army Takes Charleroi.

In the drive on Namur, the 1st army captured Charleroi.

This route, which cuts north of Liege and Aachen, offers the best way into Germany thru the lesser defenses of the Siegfried line. Thirty-eight miles east of the frontier here lies the German industrial city of Cologne, familiar to the United States army of occupation in the last war.

The entire channel coast was cleared from the Seine to the Somme, with the exception of the port of Le Havre, where the Germans were putting up resistance.

The Americans meanwhile won their first Breton port with the capture of the garrison on the Isle De Cezembre.

Germans Pin Hopes on Inner Defenses

Natural Screen

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Allied victories in August have driven the Germans back to their inner fortress of the reich. Their resistance must develop along a series of mountains and rough wooded hills which form a fairly continuous defense zone from Switzerland 240 miles northward to Aachen, on the German-Belgian border. These, with the outmoded Siegfried line, are the Germans' last barriers.

The natural screen which offers the Germans a chance to employ mines, demolitions, and stubborn defenses as they have in Italy is formed by the Vosges mountains, a formidable barrier from the Swiss border to the Saar, and the Hunsruck mountains between the Moselle river and the Rhine in southern Prussia.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Sunday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded in New York by the Associated Press said:

"In north France the enemy attempt to cross the Somme near Abbeville was foiled. Fighting was particularly heavy yesterday [Saturday] north of Douai, northeast of Rethel and north of Sedan.

"The garrison of the Brest fortress yesterday repelled all American attacks. The enemy had to refill by fresh troops his formations which have been badly shattered in the last few days.

NAZI CHANNEL GUNS BLAZE AT DOVER REGION

FOLKESTONE, England, Sept. 3 (AP).—German long range batteries, getting in their last licks before being overrun by the allies on the north French coast, shelled Dover and the southeast coast of England today, while big explosions across the channel indicated the Nazis either were demolishing harbor facilities or blowing up ammunition dumps.

Heavy explosions were seen in the harbor areas of Boulogne and near Cape Gris Nez, as if the Germans were destroying installations before fleeing this one time center of the robot bomb coast.

[A French Forces of the Interior bulletin said Patriot forces already had liberated the most important points in this region, CBS reported.]

London and southern England, enjoying the longest lull in robot bomb attacks since the first launching of the Germans' V-1 vengeance weapon, hoped against hope that the day of the robots was finished. At 8:30 p. m., British time, the blessed lull had lasted 52 hours.

HOUR OF LIBERTY STRIKES, GEN. IKE TELLS BELGIANS

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 3 (AP).—As the allied advance rolled into Belgium and toward Holland, Gen. Eisenhower today sent three messages to the Low Countries. He told the Belgians their hour had struck, warned the Germans in Belgium against atrocities, and cautioned the Dutch not to attempt any mass uprising at this time.

Headquarters announced the appointment of commanders of forces of the interior in Belgium and the Netherlands. Prince Bernhard is chief of the Netherlands force and Maj. Gen. Ivan Gerard heads that of Belgium.

Gen. Eisenhower told the Belgians:

"Listen attentively to the instructions and warnings you will hear from BBC and the American broadcasting station in Europe. Read and circulate widely as possible the leaflets distributed by the allied air forces.

"Supreme Moment" Arrives.

"This is the supreme moment. Fulfill your task loyally. If all play their part, the liberation of Belgium will be quickly achieved."

He told the Belgian resistance forces:

"Your orders are now to protect, not to sabotage factories, mines or other industrial installations. Safeguard these, especially stores of petrol, oil and lubricants, against destruction by the enemy. All those facilities will soon be needed by the Belgians and their allies."

Belgian railway, waterway and other transport personnel were advised that every delay to enemy transport assists the general paralysis of his movement. "But as soon as your area has been liberated, be prepared to start up again the transport facilities for the march to Germany."

Hollanders were instructed to continue to disrupt German transport.

Warning to Germans.

In a broadcast to the Germans, Eisenhower warned the Germans that Belgian forces of the interior were fighting as an army under his command and said every effort would be made to trace the authors of any atrocities committed against the patriots.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, in another broadcast, told the Dutch:

"The hour of liberation is very near. Every loyal citizen will have his task to perform. Until you receive precise instructions from the supreme commander, remain disciplined."

[A British broadcast last night said the Belgian government in exile in London would return to Belgium within a few days.]

Prince Bernhard, in a broadcast to the Dutch underground, said the forces of the interior would wear armlets bearing the word "Oranje."

HERE IS SECRET OF YANK SPEED: 5 SHOTS, 4 TANKS

Bazooka Accuracy Aids 90th Division.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Sept. 3.—This resume of the activities of the crack 90th division in the last three weeks will give you a good idea of why the American drive toward the German border has progressed with such fantastic speed. And this record, no doubt, has been more or less matched by a number of other outfits.

5,000 Rolling Victims.

The 90th, originally the Texas-Oklahoma division, has marched more than 200 miles in the three weeks, much of that distance on foot.

It has captured more than 15,000 prisoners and destroyed more than 5,000 field pieces, enemy tanks, and other vehicles, not counting thousands of horse drawn transport.

Among acts of heroism and skill may be mentioned that of a bazooka team consisting of Pvt. George Caldwell, Moreland, Ga., and Pvt. Walter Giebelstein, Bennett, Ia., which destroyed four Nazi medium tanks in less than 10 minutes while the Germans were trying to break out of a trap near Falaise.

He Nearly Misses One!

The Nazi tanks, one after another, broke thru a hedge and tried to reach and overrun an American machine gun. Giebelstein firing and Caldwell loading, knocked out all four with five shots from their bazooka. The second tank thru the hedge required two shots to finish it off, the first one being a little high and ripping the clothes off a German standing in the open turret. One round finished off each of the three others.

In a message congratulating his men on their fine record, an officer said it demonstrated that swift movement, added to flanking tactics and fire superiority, confuses the enemy, hampers his use of mortars and artillery and makes him a comparatively easy victim.

Philippines This Year, Head of Legion Believes

Emporia, Kas., Sept. 3 (AP).—Comdr. Warren Atherton of the American Legion told Kansas Legionnaires in session here today that "military men with whom I have advised believe we will be back in the Philippines this year."

REDS SEIZE 40 TOWNS ON ROAD TO YUGOSLAVIA

Romanians Claim Gains in Transylvania.

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP). — Russian troops, driving west and north of the captured Ploesti oil fields toward Yugoslavia and Transylvania, captured 40 Romanian towns and villages today, Moscow announced in a brief bulletin.

In capturing Rasvadu, the Reds approached within 135 miles of Yugoslavia.

South of Bucharest, 30 miles below Ploesti, other soviet columns hurled the last German remnants across the Danube in a 37 mile area between captured Oltenita and Giurgiu, giving the Russians a firm hold on nearly half of the Romanian frontier opposite Bulgaria. Fifty-five towns in all were seized during the day.

German broadcasts reported bitter fighting in the southern and southeastern Carpathian mountains, where soviet troops and pro-allied Romanians have attacked the Germans, and inside Transylvania.

Romanians Report Gains.

Berlin said a Romanian Alpine battalion that had crossed into the part of northern Transylvania annexed by Hungary in 1940 was wiped out. This apparently referred to fighting near Sfantugheorghe, three miles inside Hungarian held Transylvania and 18 miles northeast of Brasov.

A Romanian bulletin said the pro-allied Romanians, eager to regain all of Transylvania, had captured several localities near Sfantu Gheorghe. eral localities near Sfantugheorghe. Other engagements were under way in the Dituz and Bistrita river valleys to the northeast.

Bucharest also said that Romanian forces had sunk 10 German river boats on the Danube.

Tell of Fierce Battles.

Berlin told of fierce battles northeast of Warsaw, and said German troops had mopped up the old city inside the Polish capital, where Polish underground warriors have been fighting for more than a month.

A bulletin from Gen. Bor, Polish underground leader in Warsaw, said both the Germans and the Poles were suffering heavy losses, but claiming the Poles had rewon three main streets in the center of the city.

Russian troops last were reported within nine miles northeast of Praga, eastern suburb of Warsaw.

EX-CONVICT SHOT BY POLICE HERO AS A BURGLAR

Leo Szablewski, 36, an ex-convict, was shot and seriously wounded early yesterday by Sgt. John Mangin of the detective bureau. Szablewski was surprised attempting to force a window in the home of Mangin's sister-in-law, Mrs. August Nasso, 7841 Eberhart av.

Sgt. Mangin, a Tribune hero award winner who lives next door to Mrs. Nasso, saw Szablewski pick up a chair in the Nasso yard and walk to an areaway between the two houses. The policeman followed and caught the prowler on the chair attempting to jimmy a window. Ordered to surrender, the ex-convict threw the chair at Mangin. Mangin shot him in the right hip.

HONOR CAPTAIN WHO KILLS 18 IN MOUNTAIN FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—Posthumous award of the congressional medal of honor to Capt. Arlo L. Olson, infantry officer who led his company thru 13 days of constant fighting in Italian mountains was announced today by the war department. The medal will be given Sept. 16 to his widow, Mrs. Myra Olson of Baton Rouge, La., at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

Olson, who during the 13 days killed 18 of the enemy himself, started out the trek with a night crossing of the Volturno river on Oct. 13, last year, in the face of heavy machine gun fire. The captain remained out in front of his advancing company until he finally fell, wounded fatally.

The citation accompanying the medal said he refused medical aid until all his men had been cared for, and died as he was being carried down the mountain.

THIEVES LOOT AUTOMOBILE.

Thieves stole a man's coat and a woman's purse valued at $35 out of an automobile at 16th st. and Michigan av. yesterday, Frank Strusik, 4240 S. Washtenaw av., notified police.

RUSSIANS DASH BULGAR HOPE OF BARGAIN PEACE

Rise! Austrians Told

LONDON, Sept. 4 [Monday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio today called on Austrians to revolt. It said: "Hitler's doom is near. Now your hour has come to help the united nations. Austrians, rise like one man against the Nazis . . . hit hard and swiftly. Sabotage everything that has anything to do with the German war effort. Every one of you should join the resistance movements and thereby hasten the victory which is around the corner."

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP). — Russia blasted any dream of a bargain basement peace in the Balkans by calling Bulgaria to account today for aiding in the exodus of the Germans and repeating accusations that Turkey was maintaining a double dealing neutrality.

These warnings in the soviet press came as it was said reliably in Moscow that nothing less than a Bulgarian declaration of war against Hitler would satisfy Russia.

Russia's military position in the Balkans grew increasingly strong. Red army tanks south of Constanta, Romania, were only 46 miles overland from Bulgaria's Black sea port of Varna and had outflanked the Bulgarian Danube town of Silistra by occupying Ostrov on the south bank of the Danube five miles eastward.

Path to Yugoslavia Barred.

If the Bulgarians offered passage to the Red army it would be possible to thrust across the northwestern corner of Bulgaria into Yugoslavia almost in a matter of hours.

There were increasing indications that Red army strategy was based on a twofold plan to trap all remaining German garrisons in the Balkans south of Nis, Yugoslavia, and to establish a solid front with Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans for a concerted drive to the Hungarian plains and on into southeast Germany.

Tass, the official soviet news agency, said Bulgarian officials had been giving Nazis help in fleeing from Romania to other sectors of the Russian front. Pravda, Communist party newspaper, reported Turkey was continuing relations with Germany under a neutrality of the Argentine type.

The Tass report, datelined Bucharest, said German troop trains daily were passing thru Sofia in a northwesterly direction and "so-called Bulgarian neutrality is being widely used by the Germans; with Bulgarian authorities assuming a favorable attitude."

The Russian warning gave Bulgaria's new government under Premier Constantine Muraviev its first chance, and probably its last, to come to terms quickly with the allies in Egypt, or face the next logical move—renewal of air bombardment and military occupation of the country.

There was no substance to rumors that Hungary, too, was asking the allies for an armistice.

CAPTURED GERMAN CHIEF BLAMES NAZIS FOR LUBLIN HORROR

MOSCOW, Sept. 3 (AP). — Maj. Gen. Gilmar Mozer, former German commandant at Lublin, Poland, admitted in a signed statement published today in soviet newspapers that "hundreds of thousands of prisoners, including women and children," were killed at the notorious Majdanek concentration camp.

Mozer, claiming he was barred by German army order from investigating the camp, said that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler had visited it and that its operations were directed by the German government.

Now a soviet war prisoner, Mozer called on all soldiers in his Lublin command to help expose the "atrocious crimes" committed there.

ALLIED PUSH RIPS WIDER HOLES IN ITALIAN FRONT

Americans Drive Ahead Beyond Pisa.

ROME, Sept. 3 (AP).—Allied troops tore wider holes in the Nazi Gothic line across the Italian peninsula today in furious fighting, cleaning the last Germans from the eastern anchor at Pesaro and storming beyond Pisa in the west.

British 8th army troops capitalized their success of two days ago when they hacked a gaping 20 mile hole in the German line. The breach was enlarged considerably, a bulletin said, and after the Germans were routed from the Adriatic defense bastion at Pesaro, the British surged on to within three miles of Cattolica by last night.

Canadians, in their "most successful" fighting against crack Nazi parachute troops, sent armor ahead and overwhelmed key heights at Tomba di Pesaro and Monteluro, both beyond the Gothic defenses.

Four Miles Beyond Pisa.

The American 5th army had plunged four miles beyond Pisa by daylight.

To the west of the Canadians, Britons stabbed 2,000 yards northwest of Monte Gridolfo.

A headquarters spokesman said the German 71st division virtually had been smashed. The British were battling fresh Nazis northwest of Mondaino.

The United States 5th army west of Florence continued gains in the hill country north of the Arno river in a vigorous advance, but encountered extraordinary mine fields, wire obstacles and tank traps.

From the east and southeast the 5th army threatened the high Pisano hill mass.

Thru the low area east of Pisano United States armor drove forward rapidly and entered Orentano, eight miles north of Pontedera. By dusk last night they were only two miles south of Altopascio, five road hub and gateway to the city of Pistoia.

Other Americans Advance.

Twelve mills more to the east other American infantry columns were half a mile south of Vinci on the road leading from the south into Pistoia. All along the line the Americans reported gains of from three to five miles in depth.

East of Florence the resistance in the area surrounding Calvano and Calvenella became steadily fiercer, but advance combat patrols entered Sesto beyond the Arno and found it clear of Nazis. They pushed on to Signa.

[Sunday's German war bulletin said:

"In Italy, the enemy, with the extensive use of artillery and tanks, continues his large-scale attack along the Adriatic coast on a 20-kilometer [13½ mile] front. Fighting was particularly bitter on the coastal road northwest of Pesaro where enemy ships also intervened. Our divisions yesterday also prevented an enemy breakthru."]

FREED AIRMAN RELEASES YANK INTERNEES SONG

ROME, Sept. 3 (AP).—When Staff Sgt. Joe B. Smith of North Birmingham, Ala., hopped from a Flying Fortress after being evacuated from Bucharest, Romania, he burst into the "Song of the Internees," written by allied flyers shot down over Ploesti.

The song is a candid steal from "Wabash Cannonball," an American folk song. Smith served as a dormitory chief and mess sergeant during his internment.

The following enlisted men [ranks unobtainable] and of flyers were among the American airmen evacuated from Bucharest: Rudolph J. Puzman, 2405 S. Hamlin av., Chicago; Bert E. Kibler, Barry, Ill.; Robert M. Bluhm, Clayton, Ill.; Patrick M. Carroll, Madison, Wis.; Clemens N. Stoll, Watertown, Wis.; Harold E. Shireman, New Albany, Ind.; Russell H. Preihs, 1620 N. Keating av., Chicago; Lt. William S. Robinson, Beloit, Wis.

ROBBED OF $150 BY FOUR.

William Alex, 8024 Harvard av., told police yesterday that he was robbed of $150 in front of his home by four men riding in a sedan with covered license plates. One of the men, he said, held a gun while another robbed him.

CONFIRM REPORT NAZIS AIM ROBOT BOMBS AT PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 3 (AP).—The French air ministry corroborated the report that German flying bombs fell in the Seine basin—within a radius of about 40 miles from Paris—yesterday morning.

The announcement said there were some casualties and slight damage. It was not permitted to specify where the bombs fell, but no famous sites were hit.

NAZI AIR WAVES RECEDE WHEN ALLIES ADVANCE

Enemy Radio Stations Off Air One by One.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—British radio fans are able to mark the progress of allied advances thruout Europe by the elimination from the air waves of one nazi radio station after another.

The stations in Luxembourg and Calais, from which the Germans formerly broadcast news in English, closed down as the allied troops approached. Radio Brussels has been off the air since Friday when a German announcement bade the listeners farewell.

Take Over French Radio.

Both of the big French medium wave transmitters of the French radio network which broadcast to France have been taken over by the allies as have the shortwave transmitters which addressed listeners abroad.

In Libya the Germans lost the station at Tripoli and in Italy the stations at Bari and Rome, from which they broadcast propaganda to the Arabic world. They have only two provincial stations left in Italy.

Lose Stations in Russia.

Whereas before Stalingrad the Germans held 12 important Russian radio stations, they now have virtually ceased broadcasting to the soviet. Among the radio centers which the Germans lost to the advancing Red army were Stalino, Kharkov, Kiev, Minsk, Lwow, and Dorpat.

Report French Execute Communist Collaborator

New York, Sept. 3.—The French radio at Montpellier in a broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission said today that Fernand Valat, former Communist deputy from southern France, had been condemned Aug. 25 for collaborating with the Germans and had been "executed immediately."

Hungry French Line Up for Food

Good natured Parisians wait in line to get food promised by allies. British army trucks brought food and flour into French capital.

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Herd of cattle is driven along Paris street on way to slaughter house where animals will be butchered. Food shortage that occurred in wake of guerilla fighting in French capital.

BULLDOZER DAMS RIVER OF FLAME SAVES VILLAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—An American bulldozer dammed a river of fire and helped save an English village from destruction, it was revealed tonight. The bulldozer was brought into play after an aviation gas store buried in a nearby hillside recently was cracked by an enemy raider, releasing a flood of flame over a half mile of countryside. Details of what was described as one of the most spectacular fires ever known in this country were disclosed when Home Secretary Herbert Morrison issued an order of the day commending the officers and men of the national fire service, who fought the blaze for 21 hours, for their "admirable firemanship."

From the cracked aviation dump a torrent of burning gas, flowing about 1,000 feet a minute, swept down a hillside into a valley and finding its way into a stream threatened to destroy the village. Fire fighters threw up a water screen between the river and the houses, preventing the village from being engulfed. Then the bulldozer was called in and despite the risk its American driver threw up dams diverting the blazing waterway from the village. The dams broke more than once under the pressure from the oil and water but were repaired by hand by the firemen.

So great was the heat that firemen had to be continually smothered under a spray of water to reduce the temperature. By working without a break until the flames finally were extinguished, the bulldozer and fire fighters not only saved the village but also protected other gas reserves.

FLYERS SHOWER NEW DELUGE OF BOMBS ON BREST

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP).—Five great waves of American war planes, under orders from Supreme Commander Eisenhower to bomb Brest until the last remnants of the Germans holding the French Atlantic port were killed or surrendered, blasted the city's fortifications and defenses today and tonight with more than 1,700 tons of bombs.

Gen. Eisenhower said "bomb and keep bombing until Brest surrenders," and the United States heavy and medium bombers lambasted the port city's gun positions, anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft batteries, artillery emplacements and concrete shelters hour after hour.

Some 500 Fortresses and 150 Marauders roared over the Germans who have been under siege for four weeks at the naval base of Brest.

Hit Targets in Germany.

Up to 500 Flying Fortresses struck at enemy targets in western Germany and the Ludwigshafen area, deep inside Germany, and from Italian bases heavy American bombers battered Nazi rail and communication centers in Yugoslavia and Hungary, hampering mass German retreats from the east.

Nazi air fields in Holland received a going over late in the afternoon by big R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes.

Marauders dropped nearly 4,000,000 leaflets on German troops pocketed between the allies and the sea in the Pas de Calais-Gent area urging the Germans to surrender and including safe conduct passes.

The heavies which smashed at Hitler's forces fleeing the Balkans thru Yugoslavia destroyed 82 locomotives and much other transport and equipment.

Capt. Joseph K. Mitrovi, 7117 East End av., Chicago, a Mustang pilot, told how he flew in a formation which surprised a German motor convoy and machine gunned enemy troops fleeing for shelter.

On the other French battle fronts, airmen continued mangling attacks on German transport. Their effectiveness was increased by the use of a new 260 pound fragmentation bomb.

The air service command said the new bomb would not replace the 20 pound anti-personnel missles, but would supplement them by throwing larger fragments.

Despite bad weather yesterday, the United States 9th air force's fighter bombers flew about 150 sorties against the German army near the French-Belgian border, and reported destroying 99 motor vehicles, 63 railway cars, two tanks, two gun positions, 14 locomotives, five buildings, and two horse drawn vehicles.

Corsica based Thunderbolts had a field day over northern Italy and along the Italian-French frontier, destroying six locomotives and strafing more than 100 railroad cars fully loaded with motor transport and enemy personnel. One of the trains destroyed was a 30 car troop train, which was pounced on near Serravalle, north of Genoa.

Vimy Ridge Memorial to Canadians Undamaged

VIMY RIDGE, France, Sept. 3 (AP).—Canada's gleaming white memorial on Vimy Ridge, standing in tribute to the great Canadian victory here in the first World war, was found undamaged. Not a bomb or shell had fallen near it.

141ST REGIMENT SINGLED OUT FOR RIVIERA HONORS

Vets of Italy Campaign Take Beachhead.

BY SID FEDER.

WITH THE 141ST REGIMENT ON THE FRENCH RIVIERA, Aug. 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—This regiment can be credited with one of the neatest and toughest assignments of the invasion of southern France.

Lt. Martin Tully.

Units among these veteran doughboys already have been cited for distinguished action. They were among the troops who took the brunt of the Rapido crossing, stormed a vital hill above Cassino monastery, captured strongly held San Pietro, and opened the gap in the German lines at Velletri during the Italian campaign.

President Roosevelt cited the 3d battalion for its Salerno stand, and the 2d battalion received 5th army commendation for its work as an assault echelon at San Pietro. And more honors are expected for the establishment of the right flank beachhead in this invasion and the retention of it while an entire division came in behind.

Lands Right After Troops.

I landed with the colonel commanding the 141st and with Maj. Roswell K. Doughty, Walpole, Mass., and the rest of the regimental staff, less than 15 minutes after the first troops landed on the beaches on D-day. The regiment was given two beaches to take and clean out. One of these was 80 yards wide, the other 800 yards across.

The regiment took them and permitted two other regiments to land behind immediately afterward. One of these other regiments took this front door to the Riviera after being repulsed on another beach near San Raphael.

A battalion under Lt. Col. William A. Bird of Barberton, O., sprinkled with a number of officers seeing their first combat action, had the risky job of hitting the 80 yard beach. The first two waves came in without opposition, but when the third wave hit, Germans opened up with machine guns from both sides of the beach.

Clean Out Nazi Nests.

By this time troops under Capt. James McNeil, Austin, Tex., and Lt. Martin Tully, 9344 Pleasant av., Chicago, had circled the German nests and soon cleaned them out. Meanwhile, on the other beach, forces under Lt. Col. James Critchfield, Pine Valley, Cal., and Maj. Carthel Morgan, Amarillo, Tex., charged in.

In less than 15 minutes the leading assault waves under Captains Roy Santilles, Donaldsonville, La.; Ralph Nattans, Columbus, Ga.; Lieutenants Lyle Crook, Mason City, Ia., and Reuben Parker of Murray, Ky., dashed over the initial high ground overlooking the beach.

2,000 Prisoners Taken.

They captured the high ground and in 24 hours 850 German prisoners were rounded up. In the next 24 hours the total rose to 1,600, and at this writing more than 2,000 were in the net. The assault on the beaches had been carried out in the face of fierce artillery fire from huge enemy coastal defense guns turned inland.

Two of the weariest doughboys in this campaign are Pvt. Herman Jobe of Connorsville, Ind., and Corp. Roland Mueller of San Antonio, Tex., respectively the jeep driver and radio operator for the commanding colonel, who dashed all over the beachhead surveying the progress of the operation.

WEDDING RING TAKEN.

Mrs. Gerald Morton, 6442 Normal blvd., asked police yesterday to search for thieves who stole a wedding ring and $33 from her home.

CAN'T GET AT NAZIS THEY RUN SO FAST, YANKS COMPLAIN

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN SOUTHERN FRANCE, Sept. 3. — Some of the most disappointed lads in the rapid progress of the allies thru southern France are members of an American chemical mortar outfit. The Germans have been going back so fast that this unit hasn't been able to get within range very often to use its weapons and it has been employed several times to transport gasoline to other troops.

"Some war," complained Pvt. Roy Greene, Olney, Ill. "I might as well have stayed at home and worked in the filling station." Pvt. Lloyd Simonson, Racine, Wis., allowed as how he was glad to see so much of France but wishes he could bivouac long enough in one town to remember its name.

Sgt. Michael Chendorain, Bridgeport, Pa., squad leader, summed up the whole situation, "We've drunk more rounds than we've fired."

ACADEMY OUSTS TWO OF FRANCE'S '40 IMMORTALS'

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Sept. 3.—Under a law 309 years old, the names of Abel Bonnard, Vichy's minister of national education, and Abel Hermant, who wrote pro-German articles in the collaborationist press, have been stricken from the list of the 40 immortals who compose the membership of the French Academy.

"The two Abels," as they were called, both fled with the Germans and leading collaborators from the liberating armies.

Their suspension, an action rare in the history of the assembly, was by unanimous vote by the 11 academicians now in Paris.

WRITER SEES YANKEES HOLD NAZIS IN TRAP

Fight Near Mons Halts Break-Out Drive.

ing feats of supply, forward elements of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' armored spearhead raced across the Belgian frontier at 4 p. m. today and tonight were rolling on. The crossing was made just south of the small Belgian village of Bonnet.

Five hours earlier one of Gen. Hodges' big infantry columns sent reconnaissance troops over the border at Cendron, seven miles northeast of Hirson, near the forest of Signy-le-Petit. Near there the Belgian border, after running east and west, turns sharply north until about eight miles below Mons when it goes west again, accounting for the time gap between the two crossings.

Drive In on Wide Front.

Actually the 1st army spearhead is driving into Belgium on a wide front with heavy tank units moving in several columns as the point. Flanking and supporting this weight of tanks are motorized doughboys, artillery and other tanks racing to keep pace with the central column.

This northward sweep, which found the 1st army spearhead changing direction by 90 degrees after first heading for Sedan, is cutting right across the path of many German regiments trying to escape possible encirclement. The enemy's columns have been butting into our flanks, sliding across the rear of some units, and even meeting others head-on.

Other Germans are racing in the same direction to get out of France and into Belgium. Not infrequently the heads of some of our armor columns have been running into the tail of the enemy's columns.

Stiff Rearguard Actions.

Sometimes German troops, retreating in great disorder, yield many prisoners. Others, particularly crack SS [elite] outfits, have been giving battle in stiff rear guard actions, which so far have only slowed the advance of a few columns. Many other Germans have been by-passed and remain behind in small pockets, capable of annoyance until cleaned up by infantry which is following closely behind the armored thrust.

All day we drove trying to reach the front. The advance had been so rapid that half the time the fast moving Yanks had no time to leave proper road markers and we seldom knew who was where as our jeep rolled down main roads or followed detours around bridges, which engineers were rebuilding.

The problem was to find the fighting and then get back in time to write so that our copy could catch a cub plane back to 1st army headquarters and our transmitter.

Play by Play on Radio.

Midafternoon found us arriving at a mobile armored headquarters with just about time enough to turn around and drive back. But radio solved the problem, giving us a play by play account of the border crossing from a general himself, tall and handsome and a veteran tank fighter.

As usual he was up with the foremost tanks and scout cars. Calling him by radio, his chief of staff said: "Your friend with the whiskers and some of the other boys are standing by here, waiting to hear so that they can go back. Do you hear me?"

That was at 3:52 p. m. At 3:53 he answered by radio:

"Tell the beard to stand by. It should be any minute. I'll give him the flash." Three minutes later he called again, telling us to stand by and that 'I'll greet you in a few minutes."

The chief of staff at once called into the transmitter: 'Priority all stations. Stay clear of net. No 'roger' is necessary." "Roger" is army terminology for message understood. Then promptly at 4 p. m. the general's voice came over clear and strong, "Forward elements have crossed the line. I've just passed on. We are still moving forward."

It was particularly fitting that this honor should fall to these armored men, many of whom are from Chicago and the midwest. Since helping to bust open the St. Lo break-thru on July 26, they had been fighting forward almost without letup. In fact, the only time they didn't fight was when they had to drive like mad from the Argentan-Falaise gap down to the Seine river to lead the drive across on the south of Paris.

Headquarters Fights.

Since then they have been out in front, sending the first Americans into Chateau-Thierry and Soissons. They have been going so hard that six times in the last week their headquarters turned itself into a miniature combat command, taking on Germans and taking 125 prisoners. Five of those engagements were in the last three days, according to the chief of staff, a "long john" who used to play a lot of polo.

On top of that they had to change direction in midstream. Two days ago they were heading hell for leather in several columns for Sedan when the order came thru to turn north. That meant this mass of armor as well as all the supporting infantry had to wheel 90 degrees and take off in another direction. An hour and a half after receiving the order, armored columns were on the road to Brussels. Small wonder the Germans don't know where they are going to be next.

Run Into Medical Outfit.

Yesterday one of our armored medical outfits was installed at the rear near Marle when 40 trucks loaded with Germans drove up the road. The Germans saw us, turned around, and drove right back. The armor immediately notified the infantry to clean 'em up.

Today as we drove along the main Brussels road we saw a reconnaissance party from infantry headquarters stopped by the road. An officer ruefully said he had just found 200 Germans where he planned to set up his command post. He had left his scout car there to occupy the Germans while waiting for some doughboys to arrive.

Farther on we found a harassed tank military police officer trying to borrow passing trucks to cart his prisoners to the rear. His outfit had captured 500 yesterday and 125 this morning, most unusual for any tank force. They came, he said, from every type of German unit.

Burned Out Vehicles.

All along the route of the armored advance lay heaps of burned out German tanks and other vehicles. There were very few tanks, however, since the Germans had been withdrawing them earlier, according to residents of La Capelle, who said the Germans had been rolling thru there for nearly a week with the best and newest equipment getting priority.

In Avesnes, crowds lined the streets, watching the Americans go by. The only damage appeared to be the village church which had caught fire from an exchange of shells between the Germans and us. Firemen in blue uniforms and brass helmets were pumping water from their red horsecarts, trying to save some of the building.

But the people stood by cheering the Yanks. In reality it was a farewell for a short way up the line the 1st army was passing into Belgium.

9 DIE IN CRASH OF BOMBER AT NIAGARA FALLS

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—Nine persons were killed today when an army bomber crashed on the Niagara Falls municipal airport shortly after taking off. Lt. Harvey Steinberg, administrative executive to the army air forces resident representative at Bell Aircraft corporation, said the bomber was en route from Harvard, Neb., to Newark N. J. There were no survivors. Names of the victims were withheld.

SQUIRREL BITES BOY; DAD FIRES; 2 WOMEN SHOT

They Forgive Him, but Police Bring Charges.

The squirrels that inhabit the tree tops around the home of Frank Seibert, 27, at 1818 Henderson st., have always bothered Seibert with their chattering and scampering over the roof, but yesterday one of them went too far. It bit his son, Thomas, 4, on the lip after he offered it a peanut.

Seibert took Thomar to the Martha Washington hospital, where anti-rabies treatment was administered. Then he came home, unlimbered his 12 gauge shotgun, and went looking for the squirrel.

He saw a squirrel up in a tree. He took aim and fired.

Two Women Wounded

The squirrel flicked its tail and darted off thru the branches, but from across the street came twin cries of pain. Two women, on their way to church, had been shot.

Seibert dropped the shotgun and ran over to the women, who identified themselves as Mrs. Marie Eisenhut, 40, of 1952 School st., and Miss Louise Birglechner, 34, of the same address. He took them to the hospital.

There it was found that Mrs. Eisenhut had been struck in the thigh with a single pellet. Miss Birglechner had been hit by two, one on the chin and the other on the bridge of her nose, squarely between her eyes.

Police Less Lenient.

The women accepted Seibert's apologies, but police, summoned by a half dozen neighbors alarmed by the shotgun blast, were less lenient. They booked Seibert for discharging a firearm within the city limits.

Seibert had pretty definite ideas on the subject of squirrels in general as he drove back from Damen avenue police station, and they weren't helped by what he saw when he got there. Thomas had coaxed another squirrel—or maybe it was the same one—down from a tree and was feeding it more peanuts.

'You Look Like a Burglar,' She Says; and Finds He Is

"My, you look just like a burglar," Mrs. Marie Holly, 2009 W. Marquette rd., told a man she met leaving the rear of a building at 1906 W. 67th st., when she arrived to visit friends yesterday. The man made no answer. Later she learned that burglars took some clothing, a portable radio, and a sewing machine from the apartment of Elzie Alexander in the building.

U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, Sept. 3 (AP).—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York celebrated mass today for several hundred air men and WACs and urged them "to pray for a real, lasting peace—peace with justice." His listeners sat on rough, wooden bomb crates in a huge hangar as he spoke before an altar set up on a trailer used to haul salvaged parts of wrecked Flying Fortresses.

LIQUOR CUSTOMERS ROBBED.

NAZIS SLOWLY QUITTING ITALY, SAYS COL. LANZA

May Give Up Greece and Aegean Area.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

All reports indicate that the Germans are evacuating Italy, hard pressed in the last few days by attacks that have ripped holes in the Gothic line.

The Germans in Italy are commanded by Marshal Albert Kesserling. He seems to be taking no chances. He has been threatened by the possibility that the 7th United States army in south France, or part of it, might turn east, cross the Alps and descend into the upper Po valley. So the Americans have met resistance in the Alps separating France from Italy.

It would not be surprising to find soon that the Germans have left Italy and gone back to the Alps.

Meanwhile, there continues to be a lack of information as to German movements in the Aegean sea and in Greece. The German need for divisions seems to be so great, that it is hard to believe Germany will continue to hold this distant area of little economic value. As no attack is being made on the Aegean Islands or on Greece, a withdrawal could be made in an orderly way. Flyers have reported in the last few days that it apparently was underway.

Lose 30 Divisions in Romania.

German losses in Romania appear to have been heavy—about 30 divisions. These have been cut off by the Russian advance, which is no longer meeting resistance from the Romanians.

The Russians are advancing southwest into Romania. For the moment they have not seriously attacked the Carpathian mountain line. This has given the Germans and Hungarians a little time to reëstablish themselves. How well they have been able to do this will not be known until the line is attacked.

The Russians are still attacking around the vicinity of Warsaw, but are making slow progress. They are attacking also in Estonia and made rapid advances until the last few days.

By weakening her armies in France and Italy, Germany gained enough troops to come close to stabilizing her Russian front until Romania deserted the axis cause. This opened the south sector of the front. The situation in this area is still changing, with the advantages apparently all on the side of the Russians.

Red Offensive Expected.

In view of Germany's manifest difficulties, it can be expected that the Russians will renew their offensives all along their vast front.

Up to Aug. 23, when Romania changed sides in the war, the Germans had undertaken some limited offensives in Russia. While not entirely stopped, there are declining. This may be due to the necessity of withdrawing troops to send toward Romania. In another week the measures taken by the Germans to meet their latest and most serious crisis will be more apparent.

Report Yank Troops Enter Little St. Bernard Pass

GREAT ST. BERNARD PASS, on the Swiss-Italian Border, Sept. 3 (AP). — American troops, Italian Patriots said tonight, entered the Little St. Bernard pass last Friday. The unconfirmed report said French forces took over the pass which leads into the Aosta valley several days ago. The great St. Bernard pass is now held by the Germans on the Italian side of the border.

FRENCH HONOR 1ST YANK SLAIN IN WORLD WAR I.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY, Sept. 2 [Delayed].—A ceremony honoring the first American killed in World War I. was held yesterday near Cormicy, a village not far from Reims. The American's grave, in a cemetery in which sleep thousands of French, was piled high with flowers and an American flag had been placed over it for the first time in four years.

800 Attend Service.

According to the name on the white cross, the American was John Schila Deming. Old residents of the town did not know where he came from but said he was a member of the French Foreign legion and, according to papers on his body, was an American. The entire population of Cormicy, perhaps 800 persons, turned out to honor Deming. The oldest rode in American jeeps, and the others walked two miles to the cemetery and back again, bearing huge bouquets which they piled on the grave.

Mayor Speaks His Thoughts.

An American officer expressed a hope that this would be the last war and paid tribute to Franco-American friendship. This was translated to the crowd, after which the mayor of Cormichy replied. The ceremony, he said, expressed in small part France's gratitude for her liberation, and he added that it was the first time in four years that he had been able to speak his thoughts freely.

Chaplain Garland G. Lewis, Wichita Falls, Tex., gave the benediction after an American helmet bearing the words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" was placed on the grave.

GLASS SUBSTITUTE DEVISED FOR BOMBED WINDOWS IN BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—To keep winter cold from bomb damaged houses the British have developed a toughened material of whitish celluloid as a substitute for window glass. It resembles a fine wire netting with the meshes filled in with a translucent substance. It lets the light in, keeps out the wind and rain and prevents heat from escaping.

Altho supplies are limited, it is planned to use this material to repair flying bomb damage if the raids go on. There is no official ban on glass, but it is difficult to obtain.

ROMANIANS URGE RECOGNITION AS CO-BELLIGERENT

Moscow, Sept. 3 (AP).—The Romanian peace delegation, urging the allies to recognize their nation as a co-belligerent, met informally with the American and British ambassadors today on the eve of the four-power armistice conference. An allied diplomatic source described the tentative armistice draft as "very generous."

Seven Romanian divisions are intact and are being sent into action against the Germans and Hungarians in Transylvania, the Romanians said.

LYON MAQUIS BATTLE ON TO SLAY TRAITORS

Fascists Barricaded in Hotel; Guns Blaze.

bridge, and it could hold only foot, not vehicular, traffic.

The enemy also burned or blew up storehouses filled with supplies and ammunition which he could not remove in time. The radio station was wrecked a week ago. But otherwise Lyons did not appear to have been damaged and public utilities were still functioning.

SLASH AT ESCAPE PATH

ROME, Sept. 3 (AP).—American and French troops of the 7th army took Lyon today after brushing thru light enemy forces, as allied war planes took a bitter toll of Nazi lives and equipment in the final phase of the battle for southern France.

Ahead of the advanced American and French forces raced a bedraggled and disorganized rabble of soldiers, the remains of the German 19th army.

An official announcement said, "American and French forward elements have entered Lyon" after overrunning a vain attempt by the Germans to slow down the allied pursuit at the outskirts of the city.

Slash Across Escape Paths.

While vanguards of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th army moved into France's third largest city other elements of the allied forces slashed across German escape routes from the area and it was possible that official information was far behind the swift movement of the troops.

One American column in a swift encircling movement was attacking an enemy escape route 35 miles northeast of Lyon in the vicinity of Bourg-en-Bresse.

The Germans also were in pell-mell retreat up the highway north of Lyon thru Macon, a little over 40 miles away. This route in the Saone river valley also was threatened.

Despite unfavorable weather, American flown British made Beaufighters made continuous strafing attacks on enemy motor transport columns fleeing north from Macon toward Dijon.

Subjected to Heavy Attacks.

Patch's headquarters announced the secret swing of American forces far up to the east and northeast of Lyon "could not be announced hitherto for reasons of security" and explained "in the later stages it took place while the enemy, retreating up the Rhone toward Lyon, was being subjected to destructive artillery and air attack."

In a delayed dispatch dated Aug. 30, Associated Press Correspondent Sid Feder revealed that four days ago American doughboys swept across the Rhone river on a bridge kept intact for them by well armed Maquis and thus slammed shut several back door escape routes, catching fleeing Germans between Lyon and Bourg.

Capt. Paul Pryor, Clinton, Okla., and Lieutenants Daniel Vaughan, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Neville Spencer, Sioux City, Ia., head the force slicing Nazi escape routes on this side of the Rhone.

The Germans were making a desperate effort to get some fragments of the 19th army back to Germany. They threw a screen of tanks, infantry, and mortars northeast of Lyon, striving to protect the road thru Bourg, Belfort, and to the German frontier along the northern border of Switzerland.

Only One Counter-Attack.

Americans, on the flanking sweep east of Lyon, also crossed a tributary of the Ain without opposition, then smashed the screening force and were reported fighting in several places.

The enemy was able to muster only one strong counter-attack, in the vicinity of Meximieux, 18 miles northeast of Lyon. It was repulsed swiftly by Patch's doughboys. There also was a sharp skirmish immediately east of Bourg.

French troops driving up the west side of the Rhone valley on a broad front swept thru St. Etienne, Montfaucon, Tournon, and St. Chamond as well as Werrieres on the river 30 miles south of Lyon.

Reach Frontier of Monaco.

In the southeast Americans advancing steadily along the Riviera yesterday reached the frontier of the tiny independent principality of Monaco and were within less than five miles of the Italian frontier.

[A bulletin from Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander of the French Forces of the Interior, said the F. F. I. had liberated Angouleme, 75 miles northeast of Bordeaux and all the south area of Doubs department, which adjoins the northwestern border of Switzerland.]

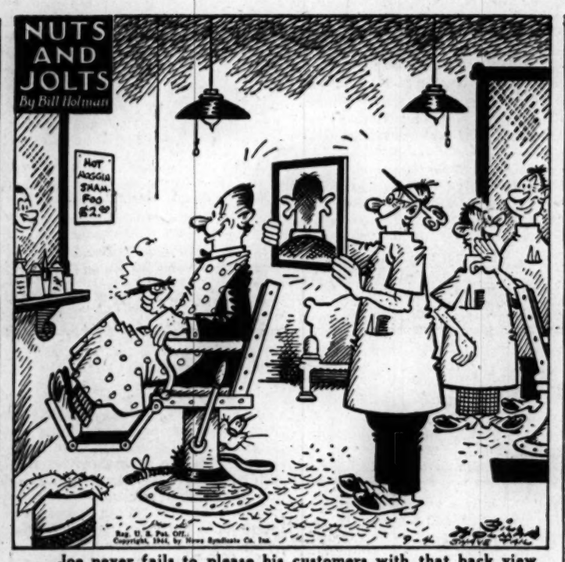
Another official statement said "the Germans now have evacuated virtually all of southern France from Lyon westward to the Atlantic." It gave no word, however, of the latest activities of a French task force which last was heard from heading for the Spanish border from Narbonne.



Joe never fails to please his customers with that back view photograph of his.

ENVOY DENIES SPAIN WILL GIVE HITLER REFUGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—Juan Francisco de Cardenas, Spanish ambassador, asserted today that "no one has ever contemplated providing a hiding place in Spain for the enemies of the allied countries."

His statement was issued in answer to a Moscow radio broadcast last Tuesday urging the Spanish people to oust the Franco government, and accusing that country of harboring axis fugitives.

The ambassador's language was interpreted as an advance denial that Spain would give asylum to Hitler and other leading Nazis who may try to flee when Germany falls.

"Spain has not been turned into a haven for French Fascists, the ambassador said. "Only a very small number of German customs officers, unable to reach Germany, have arrived in Spain and they have been interned in the concentration camp of Miranda de Ebro. Six German ships which arrived at Iasajes were immediately interned."

YANKS CLAMOR TO TAKE PART IN DAVAO RAID

Volunteers Top Quotas; Five from Chicago.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH AIR FORCE, Sept. 1 [Delayed]—For the first time, American bombers today raided the Philippines in the day time and in force, scattering hundreds of fragmentation bombs over three mighty air bases circling Davao, principal city of Mindanao Island.

Lt. Irving Signer.

Reports compiled at this advance base tonight—in a blacked out shack for the Japs now are attempting, futilely, a retaliatory raid—show that a dozen or more Jap planes were destroyed on the ground, runways pitted, and near-by stores and buildings damaged.

Many four engined Liberators participated in the biggest force of heavy bombers marshaled in the Southwest Pacific area since Hollandia's three dromes were knocked out in April. Two Liberators were shot down by anti-aircraft fire and others were damaged by fighters which attacked the bombers as they were leaving Davao.

Too Many Volunteers.

Today's raid was an adventure. Usually all this talk about flyers wanting to go on raids is something people dream, up but today's list was oversubscribed by volunteers. Every heavy bomb squadron in the raid put out the required number of planes and had at least one spare in case of take-off trouble.

From two strips, the Jolly Rogers and Kensmen, rival bomber outfits, rushed planes into the air at dawn, two every minute, and headed for the target. The Red Raiders, a former B-26 outfit now flying Liberators, followed.

In three hours the planes ran into the first weather front and had to break up into flights of four, five, and six. They beat their way into the clear only to run into a second front. And within an hour of the Philippines a third storm closed in. Planes wove gingerly thru the clouds.

Runs Into Gas Worry.

Lt. Thomas Russell of Hayti, Mo., got gas worries. His plane developed a leak and two hours out of Davao had used up half his gas. "Guess we'll have to ditch her on the way back," he said nonchalantly. "We are not going to miss this show."

One by one, each out of sight of the other, the flights of Liberators turned over Davao gulf. They found Mifgulf Island thru the clouds. Just beyond it was Davao. And then the miracle happened. The clouds around Davao lifted. The target lay naked.

Two ships zig-zagged off shore. The neat, paved streets of Davao sparkled in the noon sun—this was the first time Southwest Pacific area bombers have seen a city.

Bombs Rain on Strip.

It was just past midday when the first Kensmen flight soared over Licanan air field, north of the city, a beautiful four way field started by the Americans and finished by the Japs. Two more flights came out of the clouds within minutes. Bombs rained down on the strip. Flak [anti-aircraft fire] burst, safely away. The flights headed back to the gulf. The flyers smiled at the neat farms around Davao and joked about future camp sites. After the Guinea jungles this was going to be more like home.

There Zeros met them. Nine swooped down out of the clouds on one formation. A single Zero roared straight down on the third flight, diving straight thru the formation. Never since Rabaul, almost a year ago, had the bombers met such eager fighters.

Sky Battle Waged.

For 20 minutes the Zeros attacked. Twenty millimeter shells crashed into the flight deck of one Liberator, hitting the pilot in the hip and tearing a great gap in his side. The plane fell. Its wingtip slipped into the propeller of a nearby plane and the two almost crashed before the co-pilot took the controls.

In another plane a bullet tore off the tip of the nose gunner's nose while shrapnel fractured his skull. In another a bullet exploded in the waist gun's ammunition injuring both gunners. Another ship had its rudder controls torn away. Three Zeros trailing smoke vanished into the clouds and may have crashed.

Meanwhile the Jolly Rogers bombers attacked Sassa strip just inland from Davao while the Red Raiders went to work on the Matina strip south of the city. The Matina gunners joined with those from Davao itself to lay the heaviest barrage seen in months over the strip. But the first flight of six headed into the black hail—and got thru. Another six came a minute later.

Gunners Get Sights.

Then there was a lull. And the third flight attacked. By that time the gunners had gotten the sights. They laid in with a will. One Liberator blew up on the approach. Another lost one engine; then a second jettisoned its bombs in a futile effort to keep altitude but fell away heading for the gulf. Two weeks ago more than 100 planes were on the three strips. Today there were about three dozen out. One taxied down the strip and the bombs turned it into a brisk fire.

Down the gulf clouds closed in again. This time the flyers gave thanks. The commander radioed for the planes to find their own way home singly.

In 10 minutes a Liberator which had lost two engines broke in on the radio: "Ditching it. This is the last from us."

A Pilot Dies.

In the plane with the injured pilot the co-pilot lifted the injured man from the seat. "I'm a gonner, hit me on the head," the pilot moaned in agony.

"You'll be okeh," the co-pilot said. But he knew he was lying. He wadded cotton and pushed it into the hole in the pilot's side but the blood poured forth. He got out the oxygen and fixed the mask over the ashen face. Then he jabbed the pilot with a morphine needle. The pilot at last rested. For two hours the crew knelt over him. Then the oxygen gave out. Ten minutes later the man died. Later, back at the base, the doctor said all the oxygen in the world couldn't have saved him. "Nobody could live with a hole like that in him," he said.

They Are Geniuses.

Lt. Paul Hansen of Los Angeles, Cal., was pilot of the plane which lost its controls. It was his first mission. Like a veteran he got the plane onto the automatic pilot while his engineers, Sgt. Joe Hanna of Randolph, Me., and Arthur Jannsen of Decorah, Ia., found bits of stray wire and went to work. "We'll fly her home and then jump," Hansen said, "unless you guys are geniuses." Hanna and Jannsen must have been geniuses because they built new cables out of scraps and when the time came Hansen set the plane down as good as new.

Despite his head fracture the injured nose gunner stayed conscious. He got little sympathy when his plane landed. Sgt. David Luby of Brooktown, N. J., was tail gunner and he had asked to switch places with the injured man before the flight started. Pointing to his own pug nose, he said, "I told you so. You should have changed with me. Nobody could ever hit a nose like mine."

Chicagoans on Raid.

Among the flyers on today's raid were these Chicagoans:

Sgt. Eugene Sessler, 2426 N. Maplewood av.; Lt. Irving Signer, 1809 S. Trumbull av.; Lt. John Miller, 7330 Perry av.; Sgt. Robert Wieber, 3205 Cullom av., and Sgt. Paul Fleming, 5520 Drexel av.

JAPS END LIVES AS CHINESE GAIN NEAR BURMA RD.

First Suicides Reported on Salween Front.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 3 (AP).—Chinese troops, occupying enemy strongpoints within the encircled fortress city of Tengchung in Yunnan province, found the first cases of Japanese suicides on the Salween front, headquarters of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell said today.

One Japanese soldier shot himself and another hanged himself as the Chinese ringed the ancient walled city and stormed thru breaches blown in the walls by American planes.

At Sungshan, the Japanese-held mountain fortress astride the Burma road, America-supplied flame throwers were used against the enemy with telling effect, headquarters said, and in the last two days 147 enemy dead were counted in the area.

Burma Road Battle.

Japanese forces suffered heavy casualties at the Burma road town of Lungling, where they failed to relieve the besieged garrison, the Chinese high command said. Chinese counter-attacks restored positions around this second most important Japanese Yunnan base.

In the southern part of the city itself, the Chinese occupied several fortified buildings, including an enemy depot.

New Drive in Hunan.

The Japanese have opened a fresh drive in southern Hunan province, striking southwestward from Hengyang, and have reached a point 20 miles from the important town of Kiyang, less than 50 miles from the air base at Lingling near the Kwangsi border. American planes were supporting the Chinese in the Hengyang area.

This drive was east of the Kwangsi-Hunan railway, and some observers here said it might be aimed at a push along that rail route all the way to Kweilin, provisional capital of Kwangsi. Such a drive, if successful, might nullify the hold of the Chinese on the remaining stretch of the Canton-Hankow railway between lost Hengyang and the Japanese forward elements in Kwangtung province to the south.

Chinese Admit a Retreat.

Two converging columns from the north and east headed in the direction of Kiyang, 50 miles southwest of Hengyang and mid-way between Hengyang and the Kwangtung border. Severe fighting was reported in progress, but the Chinese admitted the enemy drove a full 25 miles southwest of Hengyang and were pushing onward.

Spearing outward from the Leiyang area, 34 miles south of Hengyang on the railway, Japanese columns attempted to continue a westward thrust, and were engaged about three miles from the town. This column apparently attempted to by-pass Changing, 37 miles south of Hengyang, and head for Kiyang 30 miles farther west, in a drive coordinated with the frontal assault.

In the maritime province of Chekiang, Japanese south of Lishui, regarded as a potential base for future bombings of Japan, attempted to cross the Wu river on which the city stands. This force, attacking from the south, was foiled in this attempt, the high command said, and fighting raged in the area.

ALLIES IN BURMA, CHINA NOW ONLY 50 MILES APART

10th of India Neighbor State Captured.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Sept. 3 (AP).—Allied forces driving the Japanese southward now control more than 20,000 square miles of North Burma, nearly a 10th of the country's total area. The allies have all but completed potentially useful lines of communication cutting across great barriers of the terrain from India to the China frontier.

Americans, British, Imperials, and Chinese have an east to west line looking southward down all the Burma valleys which form the natural lines of communication. They have gone a long way toward solution of what Admiral Louis Mountbatten, supreme commander in Asia, recently called a "logistical nightmare."

Chinese patrols are across the Irrawaddy river in Burma, southeast of the fallen Japanese base of Myitkyina, in the Kazu area, and these troops are only about 50 miles from the Chinese surrounding Tengchung in China's Yunnan province.

Pressure Keeps Up.

Pressure has been maintained against the Japanese in all Burma sectors, despite monsoon conditions. The slow, steady advances will be accelerated when fighting weather improves in mid-October.

Americans and Chinese will move logically into China when the routes over the Ledo and Burma roads are opened, and British and Imperials will go on with the job of freeing the rest of Burma from Japanese occupation by an undisclosed variety of tactics.

Allied liberation of Burma would alleviate the rice shortage in the eastern empire. The inhabitants of Ceylon now are on half measure rations.

Air Force Links Fronts.

The first direct link between the Yunnan Chinese and the allies was made recently when the 10th air force, exploiting Myitkyina's forward air bases, began a campaign to bring air cover and supplies to forces along the Salween front. This would relieve the 14th United States air force under Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault for heavy duties eastward in China.

The first handclasp may be expected shortly in the slowly succeeding effort to open any or all routes which may be improvised for use of jeeps or trucks from the west to the east. The allied controled line across Burma now runs from the outskirts of Tengchung to Kazu and thence beyond Pinbaw, 30 miles southwest of Mogaung on the Mandalay-Myitkyina railway. It then extends to troops reaching the Chindwin on a line east of Tamu on the Burma-India border and thence to a point 20 odd miles north of Tiddim, in the part of Burma which is directly south of India's Manipur state.

JAP MASSACRE VICTIMS MOSTLY GUAM NATIVES

40 of 46 Are Identified as Chamorros.

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUAM, Aug. 13 [Delayed].—Most of the 46 beheading victims found in freshly captured Japanese territory in north central Guam recently, have been identified as Chamorros [native islanders] it was announced today by Navy Comdr. Roger Perry, senior civil affairs officer for the island. His report was made to the intelligence section of the 3d amphibious corps.

Comdr. Perry and native men who viewed the bodies said that 40 of them clearly were those of Guamians conscripted into labor battalions by the Japanese. Of the remaining six, some were buried before identification could be undertaken and in the cases of the others some doubt of nationality remained.

Names of Some Known.

Of the 40 identified, several were designated by fellow natives by their full names. These were Jesus Mendiola, Vicente Quitiqua, Ramon Toves, Antonio Quidichay, Jose Taisipic, Jose Fernandez, and Francisco Pangelinan. Two were identified only as Joaquim and Antonio. Six others were definitely recognized as native laborers by sight alone, and the rest by such clews as physical structure, facial characteristics and type of clothing.

Enrique Taitano Cruz, 18, a former member of a conscript labor group, who made the identifications, said all but one were residents of the Yona area whom the retreating Japs forced to aid the enemy evacuation to the region of Yigo where organized resistance finally was destroyed by our advancing army and marine infantry.

May Be Navy Aids.

As one motive for "this atrocity" Perry's report suggests that the executioners feared the men might carry back information to our troops. He expressed his belief that most of the victims were members of the insular naval forces but said finger print identification was impossible because all local naval records were destroyed.

Cruz said the Japs impressed able bodied native men into military labor groups thru an organization known as Kai Kon Tai. These workers were kept under guard and forced to dig trenches, work on air fields, unload ships, and haul food, supplies, and ammunition at the front.

Found by Marines.

Several correspondents, including this writer, visited the execution spots soon after marine patrols had discovered them deep in newly taken jungle areas. We counted 46 bodies in four separate groups, most of them headless, the rest with deep neck cuts. In each case the hands were tied behind the backs and many of the victims' feet were bound also.

Comdr. Perry told correspondents two prominent Guamians, long missing, are believed to have been beheaded for having given aid to George Tweed, navy first class radioman, who hid out on Guam thruout the Japanese occupation and escaped to a destroyer during the preliminary bombardment.

They were the Rev. Jesus Duenas, about 32, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church in Inarajan, and his nephew, Edward Duenas, about 30, district attorney for the native civil court. Father Duenas was last seen alive July 12, the commander said.

"Maybe you'd better not include me in your poll. I don't know what I think about anything I haven't talked about to my husband."

Four Japs Praying in Church Captured by Yank

AT 7TH AAF BASE, Marianas Islands [Delayed]—(AP).—Sgt. Harry Bozarth, Trenton, N. J., decided recently to inspect a fancy building the Japanese had constructed on this island. He found four Japanese soldiers inside. His first impulse was to open fire. He hesitated a moment and then took the Japanese as prisoners. Asked later why he had not fired on the numerically superior enemy, the sergeant said: "I suddenly realized that the building was a Jap church and that the four soldiers were at worship. Somehow, it didn't seem right to shoot people in church."

'SHOT FROM SKY' TO INCLUDE NAVY SHOW TONIGHT

Tonight's program at the "Shot from the Sky" exhibit of captured enemy aerial equipment in Grant park will include a navy variety show, Katherine Warren and Jack Davis of the "Kiss and Tell" cast, and talks by army and navy combat officers.

The show, which is appearing here at command of Gen. H. H. Arnold, A. A. F. commanding general, has exhibits of axis fighter planes, fuselages, plane engines, tail assemblies, barrage balloons, guns and ammunition, parachutes, radio equipment, Link trainers, photo-murals, war paintings, and displays of the women's army corps and air combat crews. It will continue thru tomorrow night.

Last night's show included programs by the 346th army service forces band. The show is said by the army to be particularly interesting to war workers who can compare their own products with those made by the Germans and Japanese.

37 YANKS HURT AS TROOP TRAIN AND FREIGHT HIT

Norton, Kas., Sept. 3 (AP).—Thirty-seven soldiers and three trainmen were injured in the head-on collision of a troop train and a freight on the Rock Island main line near here tonight. There were no deaths.

Two soldiers received serious acid burns about the face, but their condition was not critical. The acid is believed to have come from batteries in the coach in which they were riding.

Officials expected the line, which is a main route between Chicago and Denver, would be tied up until sometime tomorrow.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Harry Rummel, 3134 S. Vermont av., Milwaukee, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

What has been one of your most amusing experiences with the public?

WHERE ASKED.

Ringling Brothers circus, Soldiers' field [asked of midgets].

THE ANSWERS.

Grace Doll, Sarasota, Fla.—Once in Los Angeles I went to a second show and when I came out it was around 11:30 or 11:45. I was all alone and as I walked out of the theater and into the street a policeman saw me. He said, "Hey, little girl, don't you know you should be off the street by 9 o'clock?"

Joseph Nawrath, Sarasota, Fla.—My most interested public consists mainly of children. I become very amused at them often. They ask me where I'm from [thinking that midgets come from a special land of tiny people]. When I tell them I have brothers and sisters that are like other people they don't believe me.

Daisy Doll, Sarasota, Fla.—My sister, Tiny, was in a hospital in New York and I went to visit her. As I left her room and was about to get into the elevator her doctor stopped me. He told me to get back into bed, so I led him into the bedroom. There he discovered there were two of us.

Harry Doll, Sarasota, Fla.—Once when I ordered a bottle of beer, the man said, "I'm sorry, young fella, you're too young." Then I told him I was 42. One thing that amuses me is to have youngsters around 15 or 16 say, "Hey, sonny, how old are you?" when I'm old enough to be their father.

Tiny Doll, Sarasota, Fla.—I was walking to the dressing room from the show as a woman grabbed me by the arm, and started walking off with me. I said, "Say, lady, I'm not your child." She looked down at me and exclaimed, "Oh, pardon me." Then she started looking for the child who had disappeared in the crowd.

URGES EQUALITY IN COMMANDS FOR AMERICANS

Service Journal Cites U. S. Strength.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 [Special].—A call for settlement of the perplexing question of command in separate war theaters at the forthcoming meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill was made today by the Army and Navy Journal, semi-official service paper.

After praising Gen. Bradley and saying Gen. Montgomery's "great military capacity and achievements have aroused the ardent admiration of the American people," the editorial recalled that in World War I. our armies kept their identities by insistence of Gen. Pershing.

Says It Wasn't Solved.

"Apparently at the conferences of President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill," said the service paper, "it was believed that by appointment of Gen. Eisenhower to the supreme command and by designating British officers under him as field commanders, the delicate question of command would be settled to the satisfaction of the British and Americans, but as was to have been expected, the question was not solved.

"Our greater strength, and we are greater on land, on sea, and in the air, calls for equality, and if the shoe were on the other foot that would be the demand of the British people."

The paper then detailed the divided authority all over the world, and declared: "At the forthcoming conference it should be expected that steps will be taken which will assure equality of command wherever justified, or, in other words, the entity of our forces.

American Dissatisfaction.

"The result would be clearer definition of authority, the elimination of American dissatisfaction, and the observation of a pattern similar to that of World War I. where Gen. Pershing, Field Marshal Haig, and Marshal Pétain collaborated independently but effectively under the supreme command of Marshal Foch.

"Surely these are desirable conditions upon which there can be no differences between the British and American peoples."

AWARD GIVEN R. A. F. MARSHAL.

New York, Sept. 3 [AP].—The Institute of Aeronautical Sciences today announced Air Marshal Harold E. Whittingham, director general of medical services of the royal air force, has been chosen to receive the John Jeffries award for 1944 for aero medical research.

6 PARATROOPERS BRAND STRIKERS AIDS OF HITLER

Condemn Walkouts That Curb War Output.

A charge that war time strikes in America" let victory wait at our doorstep" was made in a letter received by THE TRIBUNE from six paratroopers, who took part in the D-day invasion. Their plea was "help us by publishing this so that our countrymen may be rigidly influenced and our cause strengthened."

The soldiers condemn strikes in essential industries in these words: "To those of you who have ever participated in strikes at any time during this war, we soldiers overseas wish sincerely to express to you our disgust. We have taken into consideration your side, very minutely and with great thought. Our verdict is that strikers, from high to low, are aiding the Hitler cause."

No Strikes by Soldiers.

"What would you have thought if we paratroopers had decided at nine minutes to 1 o'clock on the morning of June 6 that we would stop and strike for more money and better working conditions?" the soldiers asked war time strikers. "We didn't strike, we jumped into battle with but two things in mind: first, to drive the enemy into submission; second, to come out with our lives intact and fit for battle again.

"It was tough. They threw all they had at us, including spare parts to their guns. We had more to sacrifice than you soldiers at home. Our lives were at stake, your security. We remembered the cause and we fought ahead."

The letter said that home front soldiers haven't stopped to think what strikes mean to sons, brothers, and husbands in battle, adding: "It means that the flow of blood quickens and casualties increase. It means that many will never again enjoy the democratic way of life. It means that you let soldiers taste death and you let victory wait at the doorstep."

We Cannot Stop, Say Warriors.

Knowing these things, the soldiers said they fought the harder: "We cannot stop, we will not stop. That spirit will have to dominate our entire war machine, if we are to be assured victory at the earliest.

"You can and you must find other means to settle high wages, or living wages, if that be the case. But you must not fail to support us at any time by stopping your work, your part in the war.

"This letter to you people may help us a lot. If you wish, you may call this a plea for your whole hearted support; or, if you choose to continue your strikes, you may call our letter a plea for a reprieve.

Nazis Report Jap Admiral, Shiro Takasu, Is Dead

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP). — The German propaganda agency Transocean reported from Tokyo today that Adm. Shiro Takasu, a member of the Japanese war council, died yesterday of illness. Takasu recently had returned to Tokyo from a war front, the broadcast said. He was made a full admiral in the Japanese navy last March.

DRIVING CAUTION IS ADVISED AS SCHOOLS OPEN

Children starting back to school tomorrow will give automobile drivers extra cause to be careful at all intersections in the city, the Greater Chicago Safety council warned yesterday.

Most children will be crossing streets between 8 and 9 p. m., noon and 1 p. m., and 3 and 4 p. m. on school days. Motorists can help safeguard the youngsters' lives by being especially cautious in these hours, the council said.

School children who ride bicycles can make it easier for motorists if they do not ride in groups on the street, blocking traffic the council suggested, and it asked the bicyclists not to zigzag or hitch rides by holding onto trucks, automobiles, or street cars.

MOTHER REPORTS SON MISSING.

Irving Park police last night were asked by Mrs. Irene Whittington, 3640 Pacific av., to search for her son, Charles, 14, who disappeared Tuesday.

BERWYN TAILOR FATALLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY CAR

Frank Hondlik, 74, of 2118 Gunderson av., Berwyn, a tailor, was fatally injured early yesterday when he was struck by an automobile near the intersection of Gunderson av. and Cermak rd. in Berwyn. Virgil Bagger, 24, of 6418 W. 26th st. in the village, the driver, was held in $2,000 bond on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Melquiades S. Hernandez, 29, a section hand for the Chicago and North Western railway, was killed last night by an automobile driven by Felix Tomaszewski, 1347 Division st., on the Northwest highway, near Arlington Heights.

Merchant Marine Fireman Dies in Railway Station

Moses Cabero, 59, New York, a fireman in the merchant marine service, died yesterday in the Dearborn st. railroad station of a heart attack while he was en route from California to New York.

Crippled Ex-Convict Held After Speed Arrest

Thomas Gill, 21, of 1948 Wilson av., an ex-convict, was being held last night for investigation by Town Hall police after his arrest for speeding at Montrose and Greenview avs. Searching his car, police said they found an empty shoulder holster and a loaded tear gas gun. Fingerprint records show Gill, a cripple with both left foot and arm missing, got a two year sentence for violation of the federal automobile theft law three years ago in Englewood, Colo.

CROWDS TO PACK TRAINS TODAY AT END OF HOLIDAY

Auto Traffic Heavy; Many Go on Outings.

Railroads faced new trouble yesterday in carrying home the thousands of persons who observed the Labor day week-end with train journeys.

Sunday trains had their normal heavy crowds, but passenger agents anticipated an above capacity rush today as Chicago visitors go back home and persons who left the city try to climb aboard inbound trains. Advice of railroads to postpone war time civilian travel was ignored by many, while service men on furlough would have filled day coaches and Pullmans without help.

Highways thru Chicagoland had the largest number of automobiles since gas rationing started, motorists said. Many families saved up gasoline coupons so that they could motor into the countryside.

Temperatures reached the 90's, but Lake Michigan was cold and the beaches were used mostly by 100,000 sun bathers. With warmer water, four times as many persons would have turned out, park district officials said.

Many Go on Outings.

The weather encouraged many families to take outings in parks and forest preserves and visit museums and other Chicago attractions for a stay-at-home vacation.

Depending upon the urgency of their war orders, about half of the Chicago factories are working their normal shifts on Labor day.

Telephone company officials said their long distance lines were unusually busy. Calls to and from soldiers and sailors in training camps constitute the bulk of the normal Sunday business, but yesterday the circuits were jammed, particularly from the west coast and the south.

West Pullman Celebrates.

West Pullman's 42d annual homecoming and Labor day celebration got under way yesterday in West Pullman park at 123d st. and Stewart av, with races, other sports events, and a parade of decorated baby carriages and tricycles.

More than 45,000 persons are expected to attend today's program, which will include a fireworks display tonight, John C. Fiddelke, homecoming chairman, said. The event is sponsored by the West Pullman Civic Club, Inc.

SOLDIERS FACE DEATH IF LABOR FAILS: GEN. IKE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—The United States observes its 50th official Labor day tomorrow with no official holiday pause in its war production, which inspired leaders of government, the fighting forces, and unions to high praise of the working man.

Gen. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the allied expeditionary forces, in a statement broadcast on the army hour said America's allies join American fighting men in "grateful thanks to the workers of America for having made this the best equipped fighting force in all history.

He added that the army is confident of victory because of faith in the people backing it up, but added: "Should we be compelled to stay our hand for a single day because of shortage in the arrival of the things we need for battle, the price inevitably will be paid in soldiers' lives."

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the army ground forces, said: "The supply chain between the worker and the front line fighter is a long one, but the soldier at the far end of this crucial link never forgets who is providing the propelling force at the other end. We must make certain that the chain never is weakened."

TRUCK THROWS OWNER; RETURNS AND HITS HIM

Pryor, Okla., Sept. 3 (AP).—Albert Marino's light truck went on a blitz of its own today and before it was stopped had put its owner in the hospital.

Trooper R. C. Arthur of the highway patrol gave a running account of the affairs as follows:

The truck, driven by 28 year old Marino, skidded on a curve and turned over, throwing him out, then jumped a ditch into a field. After making a circle it came out on the highway, struck Marino, returned to the same field, bumped into a stump, and stopped.

Radio Worker Loses Life When Hit by Freight Train

John Pragit, 30, of 2139 W. 52d st., an employe of the Zenith Radio corporation, was killed by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train at 52d and Leavitt sts. yesterday.

Decorate Iowa Gunner Who Flew on 25 Missions

Kearney, Neb., Sept. 3 (AP).—Sgt. William M. Miller, Muscatine, Ia., has been awarded the distinguished flying cross at the Kearney army air field for extraordinary achievement while serving as a tail gunner over enemy occupied Europe. The citation said Miller materially aided in the success of 25 missions in addition to warding off enemy attacks from his gun position.

PROSPECTS FOR THE PAX AMERICANA.

Joseph Morton of the Associated Press, watching a motorized Russian column enter Bucharest, suddenly realized that every vehicle that he saw was American made. Jeeps, "ducks," command cars, trucks, and even a pale blue Ford sedan had come from the assembly lines of the United States.

Mr. Morton no doubt could have seen much the same sight if it had been a Russian tank division filing past him, or a column of artillery, or if he had visited a Russian air base. Russia, of course, also makes all of these vehicles, planes, and weapons, but the Russian offensive from the east is just as much a product of American industry as the allied offensive from the west. There is one difference. In the west we are also furnishing the bulk of the man power. The Russians furnish their own man power, but their earlier military disasters, as well as the bitter resistance they have met and the closeness of some of the decisions they have won in the last year, demonstrate how futile a hope a Russian offensive would have been without the tremendous aid of lend-lease arms.

The United States of America is without an equal today in industrial power. Inasmuch as modern war depends completely on industrial power it is likewise the most powerful military nation in the world, not excepting the Russians.

Up to a certain point the American position today parallels that of Great Britain in the early years of the 19th century. The end of the Napoleonic wars found the British safe against invasion from the continent of Europe so long as they maintained the strength of their fleet. The same fleet made it possible for them to accomplish a great deal with a small army. They could land it at any point in Europe where it would be most effective. The British started the industrial revolution and for at least two-thirds of the 19th century no other nation could even approach them in mechanical progress. Their machinery was the most modern and their manufacturers the most alert for improvement.

After due account is taken of the present and future importance of air power, the insular position of the United States, on a continent where it has no neighbors who can do it military harm, is equivalent, at least, to the position of England as against continental Europe in 1815. Our navy is the most powerful in the world. Considering the carrier and air components, it is probably four or five times as strong as the next largest naval force, that of the British. We have demonstrated that there is no field of battle in the world on which we cannot intervene if we find it desirable. American industry is demonstrating on every one of those present battlefields that it holds the same preëminence that British industry held a century and a quarter ago.

The British position, meanwhile, is deteriorating. If any further proofs are necessary, the robot bombs established that the British island is almost as much a part of the continent of Europe, subject to the hazards of the wars that are bred there, as Manhattan Island is a part of the United States. Sometimes it seems, in fact, that the inhabitants of Britain have a more realistic view of their geographical connection than the inhabitants of Manhattan have of theirs.

With the maturity of air power the British fleet can no longer intervene with safety in the narrow seas of Europe. British industry and British finance made the fatal error during the last half century of regarding capital as endowed with vested rights instead of being the subject of calculated risks. Instead of striving to meet competition by greater efficiency, as the earlier British industrialists had done, they sought to eliminate competition by cartels and division of markets, which protected the inefficient and stifled the incentive to efficiency. That, as much as the efforts of American or German technicians, explains the relative decline of British industry.

No parallel is complete. The American continent does not cover, as England did once in war and still does in peace, the approaches to the greatest aggregation of consumers and producers in the world. The position of England as a fortress blocking the trade routes to Europe in time of war has been impaired, but the island is still the world's best corner for a store. Neither has the United States ever had a ruling class possessed by the arrogant superpatriotism of the British aristocracy, unceasing in the effort to advance its nation over all others and to maintain itself above all its fellow subjects. If we have lacked the external benefits of such a class, we have also escaped the internal burden that it imposes.

We also have assets that Britain lacked then and lacks now. We are a continental power, self-sufficient as to food and more nearly self-sufficient than any other nation in the raw materials of industry. Foreign trade is to us, within certain limits, a matter of choice and not a necessity of national survival. Imperialism we have escaped. We erased the stain of domestic slavery from our escutcheon three-quarters of a century ago, and if we are frank with ourselves, we must confess that economic advantages have been as powerful as morality in saving us from the stain of enslaving and exploiting colonial peoples.

The succession of the United States to the position once held by Great Britain is the most important fact in the history of this century, as yet less than half written. It explains why the British, recognizing that they can no longer manipulate a balance of power in Europe, and apprehending the day when they may find themselves a mere makeweight in that balance, to be manipulated by a stronger and better protected nation, evince their sudden enthusiasm for a world organization, patterned after the Holy Alliance, to bolster a tottering status quo. The lack of full realization of American strength is all that permits a colonial minded President and state department to play the British game without instant repudiation by the American people.

The United States can, if it uses its power wisely, give the world a Pax Americana fairer and more durable than the unsteady Pax Britannica ever was. It cannot do this, however, unless it throws off alien controls from its foreign policy.

RUBBER AFTER THE WAR.

Its work completed, the office of rubber director in Washington has been discontinued. Synthetic rubber is now being produced at the rate of 850,000 tons a year and shortly the output can be increased to more than a million tons. A technical problem of staggering difficulty has been met and solved. We now have an assured supply, adequate for the needs of the allied armies and the American people.

The Japanese no doubt expected that the seizure of the rubber plantations in the British and Dutch colonies would gravely cripple our armies in the years that lay ahead. The enemy had seen how our government had fumbled the task of building up a rubber reserve before the war began and counted on more of the same. They made the fatal mistake of discounting American industry. Under the leadership, first of William M. Jeffers and then of Bradley Dewey the technical skill and the organizing genius of the country were harnessed to the task, with the results we now know. Too much cannot be said in praise of these men to whom must go a large share of the credit for the accomplishment. Never before has anything like so large a chemical industry been created in so short a time.

The question of the nation's rubber supply after the war remains to be decided. The national welfare requires that never again shall we be subjected to the danger that has just been surmounted. In peace and in war we go about our business on rubber tires, as every one now realizes acutely. The most elementary regard for the nation's safety commands that the supply of the raw material from which tires are made be readily available at all times.

That consideration will weigh heavily in the decision to be made after the war. The New Dealers thru Mr. Wallace have said that we should scrap the synthetic industry and again place our reliance upon the Malayan plantations because otherwise the standard of living of the plantation coolies will fall. If they don't ship their rubber to us, they cannot afford to buy the quart of milk a day that Mr. Wallace says they should have.

This is the argument that the rubber barons have also been pressing in their negotiations in Washington. They wish us to forget how they deliberately sought to profiteer at our expense by raising the price and limiting the supply in the '20s. More especially, they wish us to forget that their plantation labor is scarcely distinguishable from slave labor. It didn't benefit from our purchases in the past and it won't in the future as long as the rubber barons control the plantations.

The American people now know the facts and will not forget them. The American people will not willingly buy rubber produced under such conditions. We now have a substitute that is made in American plants which pay American wages. The quality is good today and it will improve. That is the stuff that will go into our tires whether Mr. Roosevelt likes it or not.

FALA IN CONGRESS.

Rep. McCormack, Democratic leader in the house, has entered in the Congressional Record a formal denial that a destroyer was sent a thousand miles out of its way to fetch Mr. Roosevelt's dog, Fala, from the Aleutians. Rep. Knutson had previously reported the rumor.

What Mr. McCormack did not explain is the necessity for an explanation. Mr. Roosevelt is the first President in this nation's history about whom such a story would have had a moment's credence. He has often used United States cruisers as private yachts for his fishing trips. He has permitted his wife to jaunt about the world in military airplanes in time of war and gasoline shortage. Fala is a useful prop in the political campaign. In view of Mr. Roosevelt's record in converting government property to family uses, it was not at all unthinkable that he should have sent a destroyer after Fala. To have done so would have been less wasteful of government property and of the services of soldiers and sailors than the President's recent political trip which he pretended was a tour of inspection by the commander in chief.

No such story as the one about Fala and the destroyer would have been believed of any President from Washington to Hoover. Mr. McCormack had to deny it because Mr. Roosevelt's own record had given it a high degree of plausibility.

GOOD-BY, SUMMER.

The summer of D-day on the coast of Normandy, of racking suspense before victory's tidal wave, of vacations in town, of travelers seething in railway waiting rooms where the heat was a wet blanket to greetings and farewells, of hot spells that ran like chronic fevers, of war gardeners hosing away like firemen to defeat the drouth, of double rainbows over the lake, and balls of fire over northern Indiana—it's over and done with and carried away on the wings of the purple martins. In full retreat, like the Germans in France, it may carry a few stings in its tail, but the tropical summer of 1944 has told its story. Astronomers may claim that it lasts until the autumnal equinox, but when September comes and the Labor day week-end wanes, a new spirit comes over town and country in this latitude.

It has been our observation that people speak of the coming of fall with brighter eyes and gayer manner than they give to the other seasonal transitions, which are slower and less decisive. They know a good thing when it arrives, and are happy to snap out of the dullness and dawdling of summer. Poets may chant of the loveliness of spring [not around this end of the lake, brother!], but when autumn comes the ordinary fellow goes to work whistling.

Now come new shows, new books, concerts in their right places and right minds, football games, the world's series, better nights for sleeping, brisker days for walking, regular clothes, the fruits of the field, keener appetites, club dinners, political speeches, the harvest moon, and the seductive, uncertain phantom called Indian Summer. The year turns a corner and swings into the last and best stretch of its road.

Almost directly overhead on these early September nights is a fine arrangement of five bright stars in the constellation of the Swan. They form a large and almost perfect cross of the Latin type, called the Northern Cross. They have always been there, of course, but they are particularly reassuring now.

HOME THOUGHTS.

Scotland's hills are far away
Beyond Atlantic's roar,
And yet it seems with every day
My mem'ry keeps in store
The bank o' Clyde sae deep and wide,
Dunoon and Highland Mary,
Rothesay bay and Lochfyneside,
And glens o' sprite and faery.

A paddle-throb I hear afar;
The telltale smoke appears
To blur the hills at Arrochar;
The traffic shakes the piers.
The milling throng—I can't be wrong—
A fiddler strums an air.
He stops to sing a drinking song,
It must be Glasgow Fair!

Scotland's hills are far away
Beyond Atlantic's roar—
Would I could taste its salty spray
That makes me crave for more!

How to Answer Foolish Questions.

"Hello," said the pleasant voice thru the telephone, "this is the radio survey. Are you listening to your radio now?"

"Not right now," I replied. "At this moment I am conversing on the telephone." There is a slight, exasperated pause, and then:

"Were you listening to your radio before I left myself wide open for the oldest gag in the history of telephony?"

"O, excuse me. Yes."

"Well, we are attempting to ascertain the relative popularity of the radio programs which are being broadcast in this half hour period. Would you care to divulge the name of the program to which you were listening?"

"With pleasure. I was listening to Dave Rose, and he was playing 'Poinciana'."

"Dave Rose? Why, he isn't on the air now. He is in the army."

"If you please, madam, I was listening to Dave Rose."

"I say Dave Rose isn't on the air, and I know whereof I speak."

"Have you ever heard of a little invention called the phonograph? I was listening to Dave Rose playing 'Poinciana' on my radio-phonograph."

"Why, you, you . . . you . . . !" The pleasant voice slams the receiver into place.

WHAT TO DO WHEN "POLIO" STRIKES.

If a number of cases of infantile paralysis appear in the neighborhood, the most desirable consideration is to remain calm. No good will be accomplished by alarming the family and filling the minds of our youngsters with fear.

Should a tot become ill, we must decide whether it is "polio" or a mild disorder which will be all over within a day or two. There are probably many grades of this dread affliction. As with scarlet fever, we may find patients who recover promptly, and show no after effects, but who perhaps may be able to spread the malady—in serious form—to others.

Panic leads frequently to errors in diagnosis. Many a case has been dubbed "infantile" altho the infection is of quite another character. One trouble lies in the fact that symptoms are so indefinite. There may be fever, pain, and loss of appetite. But literally scores of other ailments will behave in exactly this fashion. The only safe thing to do is to put the youngster to bed at absolute rest. If possible, he should have a room to himself and be watched for the slightest indication of difficult swallowing. Edibles may be omitted until the temperature drops—that is, unless the child is hungry. Fluids can be given beneath the skin, directly into a vein, or via the rectum.

If embarrassment of respiration is observed, oxygen may be life saving. Should paralysis involve the nerve center which controls breathing, a mechanical respirator may be demanded. It is unfortunate that thus far no specific serum is available. Some help, however, has been reported following the injection of blood from recovered cases. Naturally, the instructions of the attending doctor will be obeyed implicitly.

Let us hope that the controversy over Sister Kenny's methods will not serve to blind us to her primary contribution — namely, the employment of hot packs in the early stages of the disease. Through their use, the victim is made comfortable and muscle tension is eased. She has taught us one thing at least—that many of our physicians have placed too much emphasis upon the application of splints designed to prevent contractures. At any rate, reflexes due to pain [the so-called muscle spasm] will yield to continuous heat.

The packs should be as hot as the sufferer can stand. They should be maintained unceasingly as long as distress is relieved by their use. They must cover every muscle involved. They may be dispensed with as soon as the stage of aching has passed.

Later will come muscle reëducation, which is the same as Sister Kenny's "mental awareness." Any one of a number of accepted methods may be pursued. One caution should be mentioned: the impaired structures must not be overworked. We can tire out these muscle bundles with too much treatment, whereupon recovery will be delayed. The object, of course, is to prevent wasting [atrophy] and to restore power as speedily as possible.

We can look upon heat and gentle massage as important agents in the convalescent program. We must not forget the possible role of vitamin B. There are numerous points of similarity between beriberi [B deficiency] and "polio."

CHILD BITES CHILD.

Mrs. C. writes: My neighbor's child bites her companions occasionally. She seems to do it when she is defeated in play. What causes this?

REPLY.

Assuming that she is not hungry, the exhibition is borne of desperation. It is the most insulting punishment she can inflict. Moral suasion is the answer—"It just isn't done on our street." Perhaps her playmates can be induced not to provoke her.

C AND F.

J. S. L. writes: What is the difference between a caruncle and a furuncle?

REPLY.

Any small, fleshy eminence is called a "caruncle." Some are normal, for example, the red dot at the inner angle of the eye. A furuncle is a boil—a skin infection.

RABBIT INFECTION.

D. S. writes: Could tularemia be contracted from the bite of a cat who eats wild rabbits?

REPLY.

Altho the possibility is remote, the feline may be able to pass on the infection.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

American Largesse.

Doris Fleeson, war correspondent for the Woman's Home Companion [of all things!], was in town last week, fresh from France and, earlier, Italy. She was telling of the French reception of the American army and how the howl went up on all sides, "Chew gum, Americain?" "With all America has to offer," she said sadly, "it seems too bad that we should be renowned only for moving our jaws." It certainly poses a beautiful post-war problem, this introduction of chewing gum into every land on the globe. Never again will there be in Italy, say, a serene, madonna-like face; it will always be in motion. Never again, in France, will there be that noted Gallic impassivity of countenance; the jaws will ripple, the mouth will fall open and shut like a clicking camera, the jawbone will be exercised until it juts out a firm and formidable thing. Never again, in New Guinea, will natives have their fine carriage; their bare feet will bounce everywhere on hardened clots of chewing gum, and their hips and shoulders will jiggle from side to side like an ancient, rocking Model T Ford. While back in the United States, land from whence this splendor sprang, immobilized jaws will sag from disuse, once bulging muscles will turn to fatty tissue, and our faces will look like those of benign shrimps—calm, flaccid, and pink. Anyway we look at it we see in this fertile ground for World War III.

In the Mail.

"How could you print the story about the navy handicapper having a system that really works?

"Coming from a long line of family horse bettors, I have crusaded against the demon track for years. 'We can't afford it. . . . IT'S just too silly because you can't beat them' . . . and so on. And I had begun to make a little headway with my preachings. But now you've fixed it. Five members of our little nest poked your article under my nose this morning. 'See, you can dope out a system that works.'

P. S. What's that gob's address?"

America Interpreted.

As is so often and so wearily the case, we again are indebted to our British betters, this time a London drama critic, for a true insight into the weird language spoken in the United States. The gentleman, whose initials are I. B. [for I'll Bite, perhaps?], made his contribution in sermonizing on epigrams and their disappearance from the stage. Too often, he said, the epigram has been replaced by the "crack." [He presumably meant the wisecrack.]

But the American stage, he added, has gone further than that of London in "substituting the rough explosion of the crack for the subtler penetration of the epigram. It markets a verbal article called the 'nifty.'"

Is that so?

Taken Pity On.

The troubles of John Raitt, the lusty baritone of the "Oklahoma!" cast, with a landlady who refused to permit his wife [a pianist] to have a piano in her apartment, were well aired recently by our Claudia Cassidy. The landlady then called Miss Cassidy and said she simply could not have tenants taking a few drinks and playing the piano, and Miss Cassidy closed the subject by saying she had heard of persons who played the piano cold sober. But a kindly soul in Evanston read of it, and came quickly to Mr. Raitt's rescue to offer him, his house, garden, and piano. The last we heard Mr. Raitt was racing out to the site, singing, "O, what a beautiful morning!" all the way.

Street Scene.

It happened right inside the door of one of the larger State st. department stores. A tiny bootblack, wearing as heavy a weight of dirt as of torn clothes, was shining a sailor's shoes. As he polished briskly, he whistled "Anchor's Aweigh."

"CONTROLED" FLOODS.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 28.—The Mississippi river is destined to become in not many more years a biological desert.

The river stage is regulated by manipulation of the dams. The river has overflowed its banks more frequently in the recent years causing considerable damage to property and fertile land, tho formerly cultivated is now inundated. Numerous claims against the federal government for such damage are pending. Vegetation indispensable for the propagation of fish life and food for wild fowl is seriously depleted. Flocks of ducks in flight maraud the corn fields for food. Lakes and inlet channels are progressively becoming swamps because of the deposit of silt. The vast acreage of river land designated as game refuges is being reduced to a negation. Animal life without wings or fins cannot survive on flooded islands; not even the amphibious frog. Pestiferous mosquitoes and other insects alone can survive. Perhaps the master planners of the New Order are cognizant of avocations synergized with their own.

C. F. Culler, coördinator area 10, La Crosse, Wis., appointed to promote commercial fishing as a war effort, says that he has received numerous protests because of improper control of the river stage thru manipulation of the dams, and asserts officials in Washington direct the regulation of the dams. It is a fact that many fishermen were compelled to seek other occupations because the prevailing high stages of the river made fishing unprofitable.

For some time during this past winter an abnormally low stage of the river was permitted thru regulation of the dams. Freezing wreaked havoc with the small fish in the shallow waters; also in other areas because of lack of aeration. Eye-witnesses say that the toll of dead fish was enormous. It is obvious that state conservation officials engaged in saving land-locked fish during the warm months should expand their activities to include the winter months. A. M. L.

NAMES FOR THE WARS.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Why should any Republican or Republican candidate, from Dewey down, ever refer to the last two wars other than as the Wilson war and the Roosevelt war? Let's put the babies in the laps of their true and only fathers and sing their mother, the "Democomm" party, to sleep with those well known lying lullabies, "He Kept Us Out of War" and "I Shall Tell You Now and Agyain and Agyain."

CONRAD S. ARNKENS.

PREACHING AND PRACTICE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—"Don't vote out experience," says Sen. Truman—"O. K.," says the commander in chief, as he gives the boot to Nelson and Wilson and puts the 36 year old Krug at the head of all-important WPB.

COMENOVEMBER.

WHY THE SECRECY?

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Reading of all the secrecy in which the Dumbarton Oaks conference is shrouded, should make every true American's blood boil. Why the secrecy? Why the exclusion of the press and of congress? What are the people going to be tricked into?

We don't want to join a second league of nations. We don't want world government. We don't want a world police force. We want our boys brought home at the conclusion of hostilities.

It is high time to heed the words of Washington: "Why quit our own, to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor, or caprice?"

PAULA JAGEMANN.

REP. DEWEY'S PLAN.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 30.—Let us hope that Congressman Dewey's [R., Ill.] post-war economic plan will not be ignored. If it is, when the United States returns from an armament economy to a government deficit economy, we will again give away huge sums of capital, sometimes dreamily called loans, to Europe. The amount of money given temporarily will bring a pseudo-healthy and rosy aspect to the economic situation; but the rosiness, to continue, will have to come from bleeding America's capital. This cannot be a perpetual operation on our part, and must necessarily end in another such crash as 1929. Dewey's plan can prevent this, and it should be adopted. Our current national debt is a big enough debt, and post-war economic blundering must not increase it.

WILLIAM KUBICEK.

INDICTED BY HIS PLATFORM.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 27.—I have just finished reading your editorial, "Franklin Roosevelt as Porfirio Diaz." I have re-read it with deep interest and feel impelled to congratulate you. As a southern Democrat, I contend that one of the greatest political documents yet written is the Democratic platform of 1932, and when I re-read it I find it is one of the most scathing denunciations of everything Mr. Roosevelt has done during his 12 years in office. Your editorial constitutes one of the most profound statements of issues confronting the American public I have read.

MINNESOTA G.O.P. SURE IT CAN WHIP 'HILLMAN'S GANG'

'America Is Yours; Don't Let Reds Run It,' Is Cry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 3.—Minnesota Republican congressmen have opened a fight against the amalgamated Democrat-Farmer Labor party and Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee which are attempting to liquidate them in the November election. Republican chiefs estimate their party will elect all nine members of the house. The only member they regard as in danger of defeat is Rep. Pittinger of Duluth, where the CIO is strong.

Sidney Hillman.

Earl Browder.

Rep. Andresen of Red Wing flew to his district from Washington a week ago and told an audience of farmers that the 1944 issue is clear for Americans. "America belongs to you. Why let Communist Browder, Sidney Hillman, and their satellites run it?" he asked.

Nationalism Evident.

In the election two years ago seven of the eight Republican congressmen from this state won by large majorities despite efforts of smear groups to purge them as pre-Pearl Harbor noninterventionists. The election result was interpreted as a demonstration that Minnesota is nationalist.

At present the state has nine congressmen, eight Republicans and Harold Hagen of Crookston, elected in 1942 as a Farmer-Laborite, but who now is nominee of the Republicans.

Analyzing the Minnesota situation, Rep. Andresen declared: "In Minnesota, as elsewhere, the state has been set for a coup by the Browder-Hillman $6,000,000 political combination to grab all congressional offices in an effort to secure a congress subservient to their dictation. They are attempting to purge and destroy a majority of the present congress because these duly elected representatives in your government refuse to bend to the dictators of the Browder-Hillman gang."

Blasts Political Racketeers.

Andresen in a speech at a farm picnic last Sunday, which is being given considerable circulation, denounced government by political racketeers.

"While American boys are fighting and dying to crush our treacherous enemies and secure a lasting peace," he said, "a few unprincipled racketeers in this country are staging a drive to get control over the nation's legislative and governmental machinery. If they succeed in their well financed scheme, 1944 will mark the end of 150 years of progress and opportunity.

"Communist Browder disbanded the Communist party and joined with Sidney Hillman of the PAC, as leaders in the drive to bring about a political revolution in the United States which would put them in complete control. Browder and Hillman are affiliated with a few unscrupulous political bosses from large cities who are accustomed to run things for their own personal gain. This is the gang that seeks to run America.

Warns of Veterans' Return.

"Believe me, when our boys return home, they want to find the kind of an America for which they have been fighting, and they will never tolerate the Browder-Hillman gang."

Two years ago Minnesota was a special target in a smear and purge campaign by eastern seaboard pre-Pearl Harbor interventionists who sought to drive out Republican congressmen who had voted against the New Deal as solidly as members from Michigan, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, and other midwest states. The congressmen said they had stood where President Roosevelt and Willkie stood in their 1940 campaigning. Seven out of eight won. Six of these rolled up larger percentages of the total vote than before.

Andresen, now serving his ninth term, did not even go home for the primaries, despite the smear attack. In the election he got 66 per cent of the vote.

PAC Invades Rural Areas.

This time, however, with Hillman's PAC operating in agricultural areas as well as industrial, Andresen will return when congress adjourns this month, to make an active campaign for the entire ticket, as will others.

The twin cities and Duluth are regarded as pivotal areas, and Republicans plan to concentrate upon them. The CIO is said to have some 39,000 members in Minnesota. The American Federation of Labor is said to have 120,000 members and the railroad brotherhoods 26,000.

Republican chiefs are counseling against any overconfidence altho the party is organized down to the precincts, as seldom before, to get out the vote. With Dewey and Bricker coming into the state in October, G.O.P. leaders say the prospects are that the state will be definitely in the G.O.P. column—national and state.

Today's papers carry results of a poll among state fair visitors, which shows Dewey leading Roosevelt every day so far by a substantial margin. Four years ago the same poll gave Roosevelt an edge over Willkie. This is largely a rural vote. Labor day may give a slant in the poll, on the industrial trend.

FEPC AND CIO SIGN PACT TO ELIMINATE RACE DISCRIMINATION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—The President's committee on fair employment practices and the war policy division of the CIO United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers have signed a working agreement designed to speed the "elimination of un-American discrimination."

The agreement, announced today by FEPC Chairman Ross and R. J. Thomas, UAW president, is the first negotiated between the committee and any union. Under the agreement, the union will coöperate in the settlement of complaints of discrimination involving any UAW officer or a plant in which the union has a local.

60,000 CASES AWAIT JUDGES; SIT WEDNESDAY

Sixty thousand law and equity cases are awaiting disposition on the calendars of the Circuit, Superior, Appellate, Probate, and County courts, which will open their 1944-'45 court year Wednesday.

To help clear the Circuit docket, four out of town judges will sit in Cook county. They are: Circuit Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, Edgar county; City Court Judge John J. Wallace of Calumet City; Circuit Judge William J. Bardens of Monmouth, Warren county, and Circuit Judge Henry J. Ingram of Peoria.

Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley said the Superior court judges could hear the cases assigned to them without outside assistance.

U. of I. Enrollment Permits Gain 766 Over Year Ago

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 3 [Special].—A total of 2,031 permits to new students to enroll in the University of Illinois in October have been issued by registration officials, it was announced today. This is an increase of 766 over a year ago.

2 Seized After Woman Tells of Being Raped

Desplaines st. police last night were holding two men in connection with the rape Saturday night of a 28 year old war worker who charged she was lured to the Union station garage, 320 S. Canal st., Saturday and attacked by one of them. Wayne Muhlenbruch, 17, 5855 Fillmore st., confessed the attack, police said, after his arrest in his home. Thomas Ajala, 40, of the same address, a mechanic at the garage, was implicated by the woman who said he had driven them to the garage and drove Muhlenbruch away after she had been assaulted.

THEY COULDN'T STOP OUR TEAM—says Lt. Bryce Gray Jr. AAF

★ "I was in training more than a year before I ever got into combat. And sometimes it was a slow grind. It was hard to understand how we'd ever need all the instruction, all the constant practice in teamwork operation, that the AAF pounded into our heads. But one day, over Perugia, Italy, I understood.

"We were after a railroad yard north of Rome. And just before we reached the target, Lt. Nelson went back into the bomb-bay to arm the bombs for dropping.

"The plane was bouncing around in rough weather. And as Paul worked over the bomb-load, a defective cotter-pin broke, causing a cluster of frag bombs to fall to the bottom of the bomb-bay.

"Bill Miller came down out of the top-turret to help rehang the bombs. But it couldn't be done. And we were approaching our objective with live bombs on the loose . . . bombs that might blow our whole ship to smithereens any second.

"Then John Curr got an idea. Working carefully and fast, he and Bill carried the 'hot' bombs back to the waist compartment . . . and when they heard 'Bombs away!' on the intercom, calmly salvoed them out the window.

"But down in the ball-turret, Mike Litvinoff was having his troubles too. While he was firing his guns, a plate holding the guide rods stuck; twisting the rods together, jamming the turret and cutting off his oxygen supply.

"And for the second time on that mission, it was team-work—and AAF training—that pulled us through. Curr fed oxygen to Litvinoff through an emergency line while the rest of the boys went to work with hammer and chisel to free the jammed turret . . . getting it cleared and retracted into the plane's belly just in time for us to make our landing back at base.

"To me, what happened that day was justification for all the long months of training every man on the ship had gone through. Because if anybody had bungled his job . . . if each man hadn't done the right thing almost instinctively . . . we wouldn't all be here to tell about it.

"It was training and teamwork that brought us back . . . the kind of training and the kind of teamwork that makes the AAF the 'greatest team in the world.'"

MEN OF 17...

If you want to fly on the "greatest team in the world", an AAF air combat crew . . . go to your nearest AAF Examining Board . . . see if you can qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve. If you qualify, you will receive this insignia . . . but will not be called for training until you are 18 or over.

When called, you will be given further tests to determine the type of training you will receive. If you are trained as a gunner or technician gunner, you will go into actual combat as a non-commissioned officer. If your aptitudes are outstandingly high, you will be trained as a bombardier, navigator or pilot, and upon successful completion of training, will be graduated as a Flight Officer or Second Lieutenant.

For pre-aviation training, see your local Civil Air Patrol officers. Also see your High School principal or adviser about recommended courses in the Air Service Division of the High School Victory Corps. Ask about the opportunities for college training through the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program.

Holiday Brings Return Home of Col. Dixon

BY JUDITH CASS.

ADDED to the pleasures of the Labor day week-end for families patriotically staying at home is the presence of members who long have been absent. Mrs. Arthur Dixon's Lake Forest home is rejoicing in the arrival of Lt. Col. Dixon following more than two years of overseas duty with the army air forces in Sicily and Italy. Col. Dixon went directly to the Huron Mountain club to join his wife and their daughters, Emily and Betsy, for a holiday, and the family returned to Lake Forest Thursday.

Miss Emily Dixon will leave shortly to enter Bradford Junior college. Plans for her debut this season depend upon her father's next assignment. Betsy Dixon attends the Ethel Walker school.

Also in Lake Forest over the week-end is Miss Patty Hare, who is with her sister, Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin II. Miss Hare is on vacation from her work in a war plant in Radnor, Pa. Lt. McLaughlin is in the South Pacific with the marines.

Here and There.

Mrs. Charles J. Gaspar and her little son have arrived for a month's visit with her parents, the William D. Truesdales, in Winnetka. Lt. Gaspar is stationed in Pittsburgh with the navy.

Mrs. Ditlef Knudsen and her two young sons, Ditlef Jr., and Trygve, are having a month's visit with her mother, Mrs. Jens A. Paasche, and Mr. Paasche. After a two week holiday at the family summer home in Bridgeman, Mich., they returned to the Paasche's Wilmette home. Mrs. Knudsen and the boys will spend the remainder of their visit there before returning to Montreal, where Mr. Knudsen is secretary to the Norwegian legation.

Miss Nancy Eckert is spending Labor day week-end at the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., en route to New York for a week before returning to Smith college for her junior year.

A Labor day week-end house party at the Lake Delavan, Wis., summer home of the James D. Harveys consists of out of town guests who are here for the marriage Friday of the Harveys' daughter, Jean, and Walter Ray Hepner Jr. Tomorrow one of Miss Harvey's bridesmaids, Miss Alice Utley, is giving a supper party for her, and the following day Miss Jane Leonard, another bridesmaid, will be hostess at a luncheon at the South Shore Country club. Also planned for this week is Mrs. Harold Gordon's shower.

After spending a two week wedding trip at the summer home of her parents, Mr. Hepner and his bride will return to the apartment which they have taken near the University of Chicago. He will receive his medical degree there and his commission as a lieutenant [j. g.] in the naval reserve in December.

Country Club Events.

Although Labor Day celebrations at the country clubs this year will lack the varied activities and gaiety of former years, the fairways still will be dotted with golfers vying for trophies and prizes. The Barrington Hills Country club will hold its 10th annual and unusual "Fruits of Labor" golf tournament today. Each competing player contributes a prize from his hobby or business to be won by fellow golfers. Trophies this year range from live stock to a hand carved doll bed.

The men of the Onwentsia club are competing in two week-end tournaments. The Byron L. Smith trophy is up for the winning today. A 54 hole golf tournament is in progress at the Exmoor Country club, along with competitions for the Fullerton cup and the Lorna Doone cup, which has been a coveted prize for 30 years. The club tennis championships will be decided today at the Exmoor, and a buffet supper will be served this evening.

Various golfing events today will be followed by a buffet supper at the Indian Hill club, and the men's and women's golf championships will be decided today at the Glenview.

A buffet luncheon at the Lake Geneva Yacht club today will replace the trophy ball of past years. The season's yachting trophies will be awarded to their winners. Men under 25 will play for the Charles R. Crane III. trophy at the Lake Geneva Country club today.

Wedding Ceremonies.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe L. Edmonds of Winnetka of the marriage on Aug. 19 of their daughter, Helen Frances, to Ensign Norman Robert Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Caldwell of Douglas, Ariz., at the Pensacola naval air base, where Miss Edmonds is stationed as a petty officer in the WAVES. Petty Officer Caldwell attended the University of Arizona before entering the navy, and Ensign Caldwell attended college in Flagstaff, Ariz. He is now stationed at the naval air base in Hutchinson, Kas.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Virginia Rae Rilling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Raymond Rilling of River Forest, to Lt. [j. g.] Edward E. J. Brueggeman, son of Mrs. N. Vernon Gee of Summit, N. J. and of Sgt. Carl O. Brueggeman of the army, on Aug. 6 in the Memorial chapel of the Pilgrim Congregational church in Oak Park. The bride attended Furman university in Greenville, S. C., Lt. Brueggeman studied at Columbia university.

Jerome Cowan Is Capable as a Movie Sleuth

"CRIME BY NIGHT."

A Warner Brothers picture, directed by William Clemens, featuring Jane Wyman and Jerome Cowan, and presented at the Garrick.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Yes, sir! Jerome Cowan is the hoss for my money! As a slick sleuth I take him in preference to all others, NOT excepting William Powell.

The guy is so completely and consistently relaxed and natural! He has you laughing with—and believing in him from entrance to exit.

The script is to blame for making him the perpetual lady killer—such as are most of the streamlined crime solvers. I won't hold against him that fact nor the one that he calls his pert secretary and assistant [Jane Wyman] "Candy Lamb." She really DOES fit the title.

The case before the cop de luxe and what goes with him is that of the murdered father-in-law of a gentleman who is battling with his ex-wife for custody of a child, and who seeks help because he knows he is a suspect.

After pocketing a neat retainer [you gather it's neat from Sam Campbell's pussy cat smile] ye detective leaps into action and makes fur fly. . . . Some rather interesting people become involved, including a dark femme [Faye Emerson] who coils her charms around the susceptible Sammy, thereby causing Secretary Bobbie to hiss and spit. [This is getting pretty catty, isn't it!]

Miss Wyman is cute as can be and Mr. Cowan did well as to other cast support and direction. Suspense? O, sure! Considdubble.

See you tomorrow.

Chicago Jewish Academy Opens Sessions Tomorrow

The Chicago Jewish academy, 3641 Douglas blvd., will open its third annual sessions tomorrow with an increased enrollment of 30 per cent. The academy, operated jointly by the Associated Talmud Torahs and the Hebrew Theological college, is announced as being fully approved for high school work by the Chicago board of education so that high school credits are transferable. It is designed to offer young people an opportunity to continue both Hebrew and English studies under favorable conditions.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 3.—Coincident with the announcement of Phyllis Thaxter's marriage to Capt. James Thomas Aubrey Jr. of Chicago, is the news that Phyllis, who has one picture under her belt—"Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo"—will star in "Tenth Avenue Angel." It was written especially for her, and Ralph Wheelwright will produce it. When I talked to Phyllis about her engagement, she said, "Now I know what people mean when they say they're floating on air. I am. I don't think I'll ever come down out of the clouds." . . . C. B. De Mille has engaged Borden Chase, who did "Airship Squadron 4," to assist in writing "The Flame," his Mexican opus. . . . Ginger Rogers and Producer David Hempstead are huddling over Ginger's next for RKO, but I believe she'll do "Week-End at the Waldorf" first. I know she has first divvy on that, and Arthur Hornblow wants her—as who wouldn't? . . . June Havoc and Helen Walker aren't fighting over "Brewster's Millions." They aren't friendly either. . . . Chili Williams, polka-dot queen, continues queening it at RKO.

Star Falls on New York.

Shirley Temple did it. She got twice as much space in the New York papers as Gen. De Gaulle, and had Mayor La Guardia scrambling for her autograph. . . . When Paulette Goddard finishes "Kitty," she'll not even wait to take her makeup off before flying to Burgess Meredith, who has a two week furlough in New York. . . . It's "Lady on the Train" with Deanna Durbin for Franchot Tone. . . . The third of that Jane Wyman-Ronnie Reagan triangle is just getting unhitched from his frau. . . . Pat Nerney is traveling in a circle—he's gotten to Judy Garland. . . . A friend of Tommy Dorsey's said, "If he and Pat air their divorce in court, it may look like a midwest dust bowl." . . . What a laugh! Bing Crosby, who always smokes a pipe, and Jack Benny, who's never without a cigar, both indorsing cigarets.

Pink Elephants for Her.

Maria Montez heard elephants were in fashion this year. So she decorated a white sweater with pink ones. . . . That nice Rosalind Ivan has a swell part with Charles Laughton and Ella Raines in "The Suspect." She'll play Laughton's wife. . . . June Vincent may be too ill to play opposite Allan Curtis in "The Fugitive." If that Curtis worked harder he could be another Humphrey Bogart.

Just for the Record.

Tallulah Bankhead still is on the wagon even tho France is free. After Dunkirk Tallulah said she wouldn't drink until Hitler was licked. She still means it. She added, "You'd think with all this agitation, I'm a confirmed drunkard." The big news about Tallulah is that she's going to be the greatest menace on the highway. After all these years she's learning to drive a car. This is as good a time as any to plead with authorities to keep speed down after the war. We've done it to save tires and wear and tear on cars. Isn't it possible to keep on doing it to save lives?

Living Century Plants.

The way not to feel old is to listen to Tom Brenneman's "Breakfast at Sardi's." When youngsters of 99 get up, as one did the other day, tell about their lives, and bring their babies along—one 75 and another 77, it makes you feel like a sap when you speak about age. . . . Mrs. Dorothy Hunnell wonders why the maid in "Mr. Skeffington" remained as young after years of service to Bette Davis, who aged to 80 at close of the picture. "Did she bathe in a fountain of youth—or did Mr. Westmore just forget about her?" Lady, you've got me! . . . Maxie Rosenbloom boasted to Billy Gilbert about his brother who speaks Esperanto—just like a native.

Glenview Catholic Parish Will Give 'Victory' Party

Some 4,000 guests are expected to gather on Friday night in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel for a "victory" party given under auspices of the Catholic parish of Glenview. Stage actors playing in the loop will provide the entertainment.

Goren on Bridge - - - By Charles H. Goren

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—Partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠ A J 8 5 ♥ K 10 7 6 ♦ 8 6 2 ♣ 7 3

What is your response?

A.—One heart, rather than one spade. This permits partner to show a four card spade suit at the level of one if he happens to have it. If you respond with one spade, partner may have a four card heart suit and fear to show it at the level of two.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠ A Q J 7 ♥ K Q 10 6 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ 6 4

What is your response?

A.—One spade. This hand differs from the preceding one in that it possesses sufficient strength to justify your bidding twice opposite a partner who was able to open the bidding. Since you will be able to show both suits yourself, you should do so in the normal order.

Q. 3—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ 9 2 ♦ K 10 7 6 ♣ A 5 4

What is your response?

A.—Two diamonds. This hand is too good for a mere single raise to two spades and yet not quite good enough for a jump to three spades which would be forcing to game. Of course, you can see at a glance the ideal response would be two and one-half spades but the law makers are too reactionary to let you get away with that sort of thing. You bid diamonds temporarily intending to support spades on the next round. What if partner passes? Don't be too much concerned with that. You'll probably never play with him again.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ 10 8 7 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ A J 9 5 4 ♣ K 7

The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South |
|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | 2 hearts | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. You've got to do something on the basis of your values and the thought of bidding three diamonds cannot be seriously entertained. You must not force your partner into that level. He'll just have to get along with a little bit less than normal trump support this time.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ 8 5 ♥ 8 4 ♦ A K 9 6 5 ♣ 7 5 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South |
|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | 2 hearts | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite your two honor tricks there is no safe action you can take and are obliged to pass. Remember that a bid of three diamonds forces the opener to speak once more and then anything might happen.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ 9 2 ♦ K 10 7 6 ♣ A 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 spade | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—This is the same hand as in problem three, but in this case it would be improper to respond with two diamonds, because you have no assurance that you will get another chance. Partner may have opened light to try for a part score and since you have previously passed he may leave you in two diamonds. The slight overbid of three spades is recommended, if partner has opened a mild hand he will recall your previous pass and not go on.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ 2 ♥ J 10 8 7 5 ♦ A 9 5 2 ♣ K Q 7

The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 heart | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Had you not previously passed the proper procedure would be a jump to three hearts forcing to game. But in view of your previous failure to bid, partner might not go on. He doesn't have to in this case. Even tho partner may have made a shaded third hand bid, you should be willing to gamble it out for game. Four hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold [vulnerable]:

♠ 6 4 ♥ 8 5 4 ♦ Q 10 8 7 5 ♣ A 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South |
|---|---|---|
| 1 diamond | 2 diamonds | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—East has announced a game going hand and while you might desire to interrupt communications between the opponents, you cannot afford to go very high because it might prove costly should they abandon their game and double you instead. However, partner should be advised that you have diamond support and some high card value. You may do this by doubling the two diamond bid, and leave the rest to him.

"IT'S HIGH TIME."

The Cast.

|---|---|
| Jimmie Adams | Allan Rich |
| Bessie Adams | Aileen Poe |
| Ted Adams | Wallace Lawder |
| Ben Williams | Paul Byron |
| Elizabeth Ann Adams | Adrienne Bayan |
| Margaret Williams | Elsbeth Hofmann |
| Virginia Saunders | Bernice Winters |
| Joe Bates | Hal Currier |
| Jerry Davis | Bruce Hall |
| Alan Sprague | William Weber |

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

"It's High Time," which went on hopeful exhibit at the Great Northern Saturday night, is an innocent domestic comedy which will never bring a blush to any damask cheek. It is frankly aimed at the family trade, and while not precisely a grade A specimen of its kind, may, considering Chicago's unpredictable taste in the theater, turn a profit for its producers.

If the show sometimes seems better than its script—which sprawls and is not heavily burdened with wit—it is because its players are a creditable and presentable lot, obviously not picked up from the remnant counter so shamelessly patronized by most of last season's producers. It may be a portent, and a welcome one, for the new season.

The narrative concerns the New England family Adams, consisting of a widowed and slightly silly mother, two voluble sons and a moon-struck daughter, an epigrammatic uncle, and a maiden aunt who was graduated from high school in 1923. Call them walkie-talkies and you have a pretty good idea.

On the lonely horizon appears a speck, which turns out to be the one time town menace, a reputed wolf now in the uniform of a lieutenant commander. News of his homecoming arouses violent palpitations of a romantic order in the bobby-socks daughter, Elizabeth Ann, and causes Aunt Margaret—played in a nice alto without spinsterish stridency by Elsbeth Hofmann—to revive memories and look critically at Joe Bates, her fiance for 16 years. Joe owns the Main street emporium with six windows, spends his evenings at the Adams' house listening to soap operas, tells his mother everything next morning and never gets around to whatever it is people get around to because he is too busy at the store.

Elizabeth Ann wangles the first date with the menace, but when Aunt Margaret also sets out in pursuit the niece hasn't a chance. The menace—who seemed rather a mild threat when he finally appeared in the person of William Weber after a terrific buildup—thinks Aunt Margaret hasn't changed a bit. When he urges her to fly with him and savor Life she accepts—tho he is honest and mentions that he is not a bachelor—and together they make an histrionic exit before an incredulous family. You couldn't blame her, if only to get away from the noise.

In the third act Margaret comes back, laden with pleasant rue, her exact status—maid or mistress—adroitly concealed. Mrs. Adams has married Joe Bates, who held out the inducement of a second bathroom for the family. The niece is reconciled to her puppy lover, who had staged an effective fake suicide on the front lawn, and for a few minutes it looks as tho Aunt Margaret, alone among the family, had loved and lost. Then the phone rings and the menace announces that his wife has patriotically gone to Reno that he might happily fight for his country, and, as the curtain descends—it's high time—Aunt Margaret is a happy woman with prospects of becoming an honest one.

Hal Currier does not overdo the babbitry of Joe Bates, which is more than can be said for Aileen Poe as the mother. Allan Rich and Bruce Hall are likable juveniles, and it is rather a pity that Wallace Lawder hasn't more to do. The rest are all right.

If it's your dish you may like it—but don't expect too much.

Pastors Voice Scepticism on Foxhole Faith

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Foxhole religion was not regarded as a very high grade expression of faith by members of the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand broadcast on W-G-N yesterday. One member of the discussion group, however, admitted that such religion "may be the beginning" of a higher kind.

Expressing that view was the Rev. John Huess, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Evanston. Dr. Charles W. Kegley, chairman of the university's board of religion and pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Evanston, however, quoted a Northwestern professor's definition of foxhole religion. He called it "scared stiff religion."

Rabbi Maurice Pekarsky, director of the Hillel foundation, third member of the panel which discussed war and religion under the moderatorship of Dr. James H. McBurney, head of the university's school of speech, called foxhole religion "a religion of crisis." The Rev. Mr. Huess, however, expressed greater fear over the growth of fatalism among service personnel. He asserted that virtually all fighting men are fatalists "to some degree." Others, he said, are extreme fatalists who take refuge in the belief that they will be safe "until our number is called."

"Fatalism," said Father Huess, "denies the providence of God. It is not religion. Its indications are not good."

While all three speakers admitted that church attendance has greatly increased since the war began, none claimed this as proof of a revival of religion. The Rev. Mr. Huess estimated that the increase had been from 15 to 50 per cent. When he cited the much more extensive use of prayer, and increased sales of religious books, however, he said these might add up to some sort of revival differing in nature from "historic revivals of the past."

On the other side of the ledger, war was charged by the panel with brutalizing effects. Dr. Kegley said that most Americans have become "dulled to destruction." They have passed the stage when they were shocked at the destruction and terror caused by bombing raids. Dr. Kegley added that pastors during this war are not "presenting arms" or glorifying war as such by "beating war drums in their pulpits."

White Collar GIRL

Digression.

We started to look up some facts concerning Labor day. But after gleaning two general highlights—that it was first suggested by Peter J. McGuire in 1882 when he was president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and that it was gradually adopted by the state legislatures until it is now observed as a legal holiday in every state, we were distracted by some fascinating material on working women contained in the fourth annual report of the federal commissioner of labor, published in 1888.

If you have any doubts that we have come a long way since then in establishing ourselves as an accepted part of the business world, we quote from the report:

"The honest working woman is entitled to the respect of all honest minded people. She should be welcomed in the churches of the cities, and should be drawn into the best associations, where social and moral surroundings would aid her in cultivating her own self-respect and in which mutual assistance could be rendered. At least, it should not be possible to class her as the 'forgotten woman,' for her struggle is too heroic, her hardships too painful, her lot too dreary, for Christian people thoughtlessly to pass her by."

Magnanimous Boss.

The other day the big boss told his secretary [who has been with the firm for years] to take the day off on her birthday. She, respectfully, asked if she could take the following day instead. Then the boss, being both a Latin and a generous soul, told her to take both days off!

Tip from Mid-Victorian.

Writes Old Mid-Victorian:

May I suggest that many of the youngsters who have flocked into the business world during the present emergency might show a great sense of fair play toward the firms from whom they receive their pay check?

Too great a number of them believe that being on time in the morning means being in the building. They beat the bell by a nose, then troop into the washrooms and remove various and sundry head wrappings, revealing hair just as it was when they stepped out of bed. Ten or 15 minutes are then spent making themselves presentable. Aside from the fact that they complete their toilets on company time, these very young WCGs should be told that really well bred, well groomed people are just that—well groomed—before leaving home.

Sally Seeking Encyclopedia for 5 Children

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A case worker has requested our assistance for a family of five very bright children. These youngsters have always been handicapped by poverty. During much of their lives, they have been on relief. The father is out of the home, but the teachers and case workers feel that the mother has done remarkably well with the youngsters under the circumstances. These children have frequently expressed a wish for the World Book or an encyclopedia, and if any reader has either to offer, they will be grateful for it.

Another case worker has requested a typewriter for a young girl who has been ill much of her life and is now handicapped by a nervous disorder. She was unable to start school until late in life and is now doing very well, but it is extremely difficult for her to write by hand. If any reader has a discarded machine, the case worker will call anywhere for it.

Mrs. B. is the mother of three small girls, ages 4, 3, and 2. She is living on a very small income which covers only rent, food, and other necessities. Her children have no luxuries, such as toys, and she would be grateful if readers could provide dolls or similar items for their amusement.

Thru the Looking Glass

The good coat of tan is indeed a thing of beauty at its most perfect stage. But when it begins to fade, as it inevitably will unless you follow the sun or crawl under a lamp every day, it can take on an exceedingly bilious tinge.

The fading tan imposes upon you a responsibility to compensate for the changes in your complexion tint by the correct changes in your makeup. As your deep chocolate tint turns to cafe au lait the powder you used during the pure brown chocolate stage is going to be much too dark. If you're wise you'll blend some beige powder with it, adding more and more of the latter as your skin tone requires it.

There will be another stage, when the last remnants of beige are disappearing and your natural fair skin tone is asserting itself. It's at this point that you must begin lightening your powder shade, blending creamier tints into the basic beige you've been using. Gradually, as your skin resumes its natural fairness, the tint of the powder you use should match it from day to day.

And if when you were deeply tanned you wore sultry red lipstick you probably wore it with great success. This may not hold when your complexion goes back to its peaches and cream tint.

Hastening the exit of the coat of tan isn't so simple. Use lots of cream for cleansing and lubrication, but be wary of any except the mildest of bleaching agents. Generally speaking, it's wisest to let nature, abetted by special skin coddling on your part, take its course.

A Moon Struck Gal Gets Quite a Solid Answer

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"About nine months ago, at a dance held here weekly, I met a boy whom I liked very much from the moment we met. He took me home from that dance every week after that and each time he asked me for a date. I had to refuse him because I am not allowed to have dates yet. Even tho I did refuse him time after time, he always danced with me the next week and always walked home with me. Now he is in the service and recently had a furlough. He walked home with me from the same dance and again asked me for a date. I refused him and explained why I couldn't go out with him and he was very nice about it all. He is gone now and I'm sure he would like to write to me, but he doesn't have my address or know my last name. It would be easy for me to get his address from one of his friends. . . . Would I be wrong in writing first?"

on the SOLID side

If Joe Blow walked home with you every week for nine months and still didn't ask your last name you two must have had a lot to talk about! And if he dropped you off on the same doorstep about 36 times in a row and still doesn't know the address he must have been in a wonderful daze! Shake the stardust out of your eyes and look at the facts. If you're sure he'd write to you if he knew where to send the letter drop him a note first. And if your G. I. friend is really interested he'll answer as soon as he can. But next time you strike up a friendship don't skip the simple formalities. No need to get out the calling cards, but at least let the Joe know with whom he's walking home!

Two Aprons

A yard of inexpensive material is all that is required for either of these apron designs. One apron is the shoulder strap type, with slim lines and a tie in the back. The other is fanciful, with a halter neckline, heart shaped top, and echoing heart pockets. Ruffling is the trim. Style No. 3605 and style No. 2527 both are designed for one size. No. 2527 requires 3 yards of ruffling. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents, 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Let Children Join in Talk at the Table

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Mother, I . . ." began Bobby, cautiously glancing at his father.

"Hush, dear," broke in his mother, hurriedly. "Just be still and eat your dinner. And you, also, Emily. Grownups must do the talking at the table. You'll have your chance after we go into the living room."

Bobby subsided, with a sigh.

Of course, when children are so young that they eat by themselves or where it has been the custom in the family for children of any age to have all their meals in the nursery, the conversational aspect of manners doesn't arise. It is only when children sit at the table with the grownup members of the family that it assumes any importance. Unless, of course, you feel the way the parents of Bobby do about childish conversation at meal time.

It appears to me that as soon as children are accorded that privilege, whether it is from necessity or desire on the part of the parents, they should be accorded the privilege of joining in the conversation that takes place about the table, also.

Especially in the evening, at dinner time, when the day's work is over, the meal becomes a sort of pleasant function, a reunion. No one is hurrying on to something else, every one is likely to be relaxed and sociable. Then there is time to talk.

Very often the dinner table conversation is completely monopolized by the older people. In some homes —such as the one mentioned above —the children are not supposed to talk much, if at all.

And often children are excluded from the conversation by virtue of the fact that the things that are discussed are those that have an interest only for grownups. There are clothes, and business, and "help," and theaters, and books, and dozens of other adult things that have no interest whatever for the small fry present.

When you think honestly about this sort of thing, it isn't very courteous, and since we are expecting courtesy of the children, we might give it a thought where our own actions are concerned. For instance, we don't think it considerate to talk with one or two people in a group which excludes the others. I think it's a good plan to see that some things of interest to the children come up in table conversation, so that they have a chance to enter into it and express themselves about subjects that concern them. You'll be surprised and delighted with their acumen.

Child's Toys

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A soft cuddly bunny and a soft crocheted ball are an appealing duet for the infant. These two items may be chewed, tossed about, and stepped on, yet they return to shape with uncomplaining resiliency. Hand crocheted of pink and white wool, the toys may be created at small cost and little time.

Inspect Those Winter Wool Garments Now

BY REA SEEGER.

This last, long, official week-end of summer is usually the signal for a roundup of repairs and replacements in a well cared-for wardrobe. Your pet wools, your very few and precious silk dresses, and equally hard to get zippers are inspected and may cause near panic unless a good repair shop is near-by. Look over your valuable wool suits and dresses, not only for cigaret ash burns and holes, but also for evidence of depredations by moths.

One of the best repair services in Chicago accomplishes downright magic with holes made by moths or burning ash. Your dress comes back complete, so expertly mended as to defy eagle-eyed inspection, threads are rewoven, colors matched exactly, and you have a completely rejuvenated costume with which to face winter. Silks receive the same skilled attention. You can take a dress almost in a state of tatters and have it rewoven.

Best, and unquestionably the most valuable of the services, is the one reserved for those zippers that look all right but balk half way up, those that have gone off the track or groove, and those that just won't operate. All such grief can be fixed in this repair shop.

GASOLINE—Coupons 12 in A books expire Sept. 21.

FUEL OIL—Coupons 4 and 5 may be used now or exchanged after Sept. 30 for class 3 coupons, good indefinitely.

WASTE FATS—Each pound worth 2 red ration points and 4 cents.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Concord grapes are in, so it's time for grape jams, jellies, and grape juice. For grape pie, too.

One of the best of grape pies is this one, deep purple in color and tasting of fresh grapes.

Concord Grape Pie.

4 cups stemmed, washed grapes
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon margarine
Pastry for double crust

Press pulp from grape skins with fingers. Place pulp in saucepan without water; bring to boil, cook gently until seeds are free, and press thru sieve to remove seeds. Combine strained pulp with skins. Mix sugar, salt, and flour. Sprinkle a little of this mixture on the bottom of the pastry lined pie plate. Mix remainder with grapes. Add lemon juice. Fill pie shell and dot top of pie with margarine. Add lattice top crust, or whole, gashed crust. Bake the pie at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, 350 degrees for 30 minutes longer.

When you're canning grape juice, save a pint of juice to make another kind of grape pie—a smooth, purple filling topped with snowy meringue.

Grape Juice Pie.

1 pint grape juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon margarine
Baked pie shell
¼ cup sugar for meringue

Scald grape juice in the top of a double boiler. Mix cornstarch and sugar with 1 whole egg and 2 yolks, beaten together. Add to grape juice with margarine and cook in the top of the double boiler until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Cool slightly and fill baked shell. Beat two remaining egg whites with ¼ teaspoon salt until stiff and fold in the ¼ cup sugar, gradually. Spread over top of pie and brown lightly in a 350 degree oven.

Most markets now offer the little Damson plums which make such beautiful jams and jellies. In addition, there are the fat green gage plums, nice to can for sauce next winter or to eat fresh right now. Several varieties of red and yellow plums of large size also are available, and the sweet Italian plums are here, too. The purple Italian plums are least desirable for jams and jellies, for they haven't enough pectin and tartness. They're good eating, tho.

Women often call to ask where they may obtain lessons in beginning cookery. A downtown cooking school has scheduled a bride's course beginning Sept. 11 and 12. There are 12 lessons for $10. Classes are held in the loop between the hours of 6:30 and 8:30. You go once a week. Lessons cover baking and broiling many foods, biscuit making, cakes and frostings, vegetable preparation, oven dinners, quick meals, breakfasts, and many other phases of beginning cookery.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES.

Legion in Lake Bluff to Install M. S. McCarthy

Martin S. McCarthy will be installed as commander of Lake Bluff post of the American Legion in a ceremony at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the village hall. He is succeeding Allan Percy. New board members will be busy the next few days selecting Christmas gifts for Lake Bluff service men and women. Purchase of the gifts has been made possible thru a benefit games party held last Saturday night at the Lake Bluff public school.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Beginning Nov. 1, the army will cease recruiting WACs for specific jobs and initial assignment at specific stations, a directive from the war department, received by headquarters of the 6th service command, states.

After Nov. 1, three alternatives will be open to women enlisting in the army:

1. General assignment without choice of branch of service, and without recommendation for specific type of duty.

2. Branch recruiting with a choice of duty in the air, ground, or service forces.

3. Application for duty as medical or surgical technician with the medical department.

The war department explained that the change in recruiting policy has been made to insure that a recruit will be assigned to a job consistent with her classification, and in accordance with the priority needs of the army.

Only 175 vacancies remain in approved Illinois schools of nursing for September, October and November classes of the United States Cadet Nurse corps, Mary Elizabeth Falk, state recruitment officer for the corps, has announced.

"Even if hostilities should cease in some areas before the end of the year," Miss Falk said, "we still shall have to fill the 1944 quota of 60,000 student nurses to meet military and essential civilian requirements. Of this number, Illinois must supply approximately 4,500."

Last year the state reached 96 per cent of its quota of cadet nurses set by the United States Public Health service. Information regarding the cadet program in this state may be obtained by writing to the Illinois State Nurses' association, 8 S. Michigan av., Central 9708. A list of approved nursing schools with fall vacancies is available, as are data about the subsidies which the Bolton law provides for such students.

Surveys made at the Great Lakes Naval Training center of incoming WAVES training in the service schools to become anti-aircraft gunnery instructors indicate that the women reservists are versatile and accomplished, and came into the navy from various professional fields.

Ten of the women are college graduates. All were students or working before enlistment. One of them, Frances K. Latecka of Overland Park, Kas., was in an internment camp in Germany for a year and a half. Five of the WAVES' trainees formerly were teachers.

Another was a metallographer before joining the navy. A hospital dietitian and a newspaper woman also are included among the students of gunnery, as are a clerk, an advertising employe, and a shipyard worker.

While students they are rated seamen 2d class. Upon completion of training, they will have the rank of specialist G.

54 Militiamen Drop Sword to Try Frying Pan

They are making cooks and bakers out of shipping clerks, brokers, statisticians, farmers, machinists, and salesmen at Fort Sheridan, where 54 members of the Illinois reserve militia are taking a short course in army field cooking and baking.

The men may be unable to whip up a fluffy seven minute icing for a layer cake when they complete the two weeks course, but they will have learned how to prepare savory and nutritious meals in large quantities under simulated field conditions.

The instructors are from the Fort Sheridan cooks and bakers school and before the course is over, Sept. 9, each student will have had 24 hours of practical cooking experience with the mobile kitchen units, plus six hours of theory daily.

Mysteries of cooking by definite plan were introduced to the volunteers the first day. Mess sanitation and the use and care of equipment completed the first lesson. By the third day, definite culinary talent had been discovered in a score of the students, according to WAC Corp. Geraldine Acker, instructor.

Within a few days the embryo cooks had picked up a lot of common sense knowledge about food and its preparation. They knew that dehydrated foods had to be kept in dry storage so they wouldn't begin to reconstitute themselves with moisture from the air. They learned that refrigeration is not always available in the field and in such cases a hole in the ground, lined with burlap, is an acceptable storage substitute. They acquired enough knowledge about basic dough to turn out rolls, coffee cake, quick bread, and pie crusts.

Packing house technique was quickly picked up by the volunteers, who learned how to cut up pork, lamb, beef, and veal. The do's and don'ts of sandwich making, salads and their preparation, spices and flavorings were introduced in turn.

Men in the group represent the 1st, 2d, and 8th regiments, all from Chicago, and the 3d regiment composed of units from the northern portion of the state. A second school, including downstate members, will start next.

Catholic Woman's Club to Meet on South Side

Board members of the South Side Catholic Woman's club, of which Mrs. W. Ray Dolan is president, will meet on Thursday in the Southmoor hotel, 67th st. and Stony Island av., to complete program plans for the coming year.

Gamma Phi Beta Group Will Meet on Wednesday

Mrs. Stephen R. Truesdell, 1830 Sheridan rd., Evanston, will open her home at 2 p. m. on Wednesday to the Gamma Phi Beta alumnae association. Mrs. H. Allan Volkmar of the educational publicity committee of the Community fund will be guest speaker.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

UNNATURAL KILLING.

Carol looked disturbedly at the dwarf, who had resumed his place on the broken stool and sat blinking at them with his amiable blank expression.

"What about him?" Carol nodded toward the gnarled little creature.

"We can't take him along. Too conspicuous."

"We ought to do something about him," she said in distress. "Poor faithful thing. It's awful to just leave him here."

But there was nothing to be done about Georges. Carol talked earnestly, telling him to go to his mother's in Castellaine, and giving him a handful of francs. But the dwarf only blinked at her. His grotesque hand closed over the money about which he seemed to have some vague understanding, but he gave no sign of obeying her instructions. Instead, his eyes became reproachful, like those of an animal which is being ordered to do some task it is reluctant to perform. Georges either could not or would not understand that he should go away.

In the end they were obliged to leave him there sitting amidst the wreckage exactly like a dog watching over his master's possessions.

The streets of Nice, once they had left the old city behind and were making their way toward the sea, were far more deserted than Carol had expected. Yes, even here where every step could lead into a trap, she began to feel that somehow, between the two of them they might manage to break thru. The two of them. That was the answer. Alone, she had been terribly frightened. Now she began to have the strength and courage to believe again—and when one believed, things happened.

"It's strange there's nobody on the streets," she said, "only a couple of gendarmes. Why haven't we seen anybody else?"

"They've already got the assassin," Bright pointed out. "But that won't satisfy them, you'll see. Probably they've called their cats off hoping the mice will come out of their holes. Meaning us, perhaps."

Above the Corniche a few fine houses hung upon the mountainside overlooking the port while below the road, fringing a portion of the ugly commercial basin, were a few wretched little houses backed up against the cliffs into which they seemed to have grown. Bright led the way thru the tangling dimness and halted in front of one of the small houses. In answer to his signal the door opened and Bright pushed her ahead of him into a tiny foyer where there was no light of any kind.

"This is she," Bright said briefly.

Then the door clicked behind him and the man who had admitted them opened the door to an inner room. Against the light Carol could see that the fisherman, Andre, had a twisted leg. The giant figure moved aside so that she could enter and Carol let out an inarticulate cry. Lita was standing under the lamp with Papagol grinning from the shadows behind her.

"So you broke fences and got out!" said Carol, choking.

"Shut up about it, or I'll cry." Lita retorted sharply but with soft eyes. "I got the note Bright sent you. That's why I'm here. I had to see you before I go."

"Let's have it!" said Carol briefly.

Then she listened while the old clown and Lita spread the picture of what had happened before her.

Pagagol had finished his first act, the one he did with the professor and the two men had left the ring together, Rosenblum going to his tent to lie down for a few moments. Papagol remained outside, keeping calculating eyes on the crowds which patronized the few small booths. It was then that the messenger from Les Services had accosted him—a poor lout of a peasant to all appearances but in reality one who played an important role as a go-between for the underground. This time he had a startling message.

Papa Brochard had been taken to a concentration camp which had newly been set up a few miles outside of Grasse. He sent word that Jacques Cassard had been in the same camp, but that M. Jacques had managed to escape the night before. How the escape had been managed was not stated, but it seemed highly probable that the small Services agency at Grasse had been instrumental. And it was evident that Brochard, thru his companions in the prison camp had come to an understanding of Cassard's real position.

Once he had delivered this information the messenger had vanished into the crowd and Papagol, breathless with excitement, had hurried to Lita's wagon. She was there alone, reading the note Bright had sent to Carol. The news Papagol brought almost made her forget the letter in her hand. What was she to do? The circus would swing south in the next day or so. Should she go with them? Jacques, she knew, had originally intended making for England and had already laid his plans for an escape. He would expect her to follow the route they had so often discussed together. Lita, if she was to have any hope of joining her husband, ought to leave the circus that very night, right after the performance, and head for the first rendezvous with Jacques, on that he and Papagol were agreed. Then remembering Bright's note she gave it to the old man and began preparations for a hasty flight later in the evening.

It was a lucky thing she had done so because when the assassination occurred Lita was ready. She had only to throw off the white wig and golden shoes and her costume. Even the photographs which were too bulky to carry, now had been destroyed. Papagol had come to her at once and they had got out in time.

"I took the note to the professor, where he rested on his blanket," Papagol explained, pulling at his long nose. "He promised to deliver it to Mees Carol. Then he got the dancing dog, Gogol, and the two of them went into the big top to do their act together. I have not seen him since."

"I have," Carol told them. "They got him."

"And my note along with him, I'll bet!" Bright added bitingly.

"No," said Papagol. "I think he would have swallowed it first. But that Baroni." The old man shook his head slowly from side to side. "I never did like that man! None of our own people would do a crazy thing like assassinating some one from a circus ring. From an ambush, possibly. But from a circus ring in full sight of an audience? Never!"

"I suppose Baroni was a patriot," said Carol. "In his way, at least!"

"I tell you, there is something unnatural about that killing!" the clown insisted. "Perhaps Janner was not really such great friends with his Fuehrer, after all. But poor Janner is killed and a little French circus is to blame!"

ROCKET TO HURL PLANES INTO AIR BUILT BY ARMY

Use in War Time Limited, Says Col. Talbott.

Detachable rockets, capable of assisting a heavily laden plane into the air from a short runway, have been successfully developed by the army air forces technical service command, it was announced here yesterday by Col. Nelson S. Talbott, commanding officer.

After the plane is airborne, the rocket units, which are attached under the wings, can be dropped by parachute and salvaged for reuse. Experiments also have been conducted at Wright field, near Dayton, O., on permanently affixed rocket units for use by fighter planes.

Found of Limited Use.

Despite the successful nature of the tests, however, Col. Talbott said, technical service command engineers have found their use extremely limited. For one thing, front line reports indicate that short runways are hazardous for planes returning from a mission, not because of load, but because crews were fatigued and planes ofter were shot up or crewmen wounded. Consequently, longer runways were planned from the first in an effort to cut down the number of landing accidents, thus obviating the necessity for rocket boosters on take-offs.

The Germans are reported to have placed such take-off units in tactical use. A possible explanation lies in the high altitude propeller used by the Luftwaffe. This propeller, designed for flight at high altitudes, hampers take-offs.

Carries Own Oxygen.

As opposed to jet propulsion, which takes its oxygen from the air, a rocket carries its own supply, making rockets theoretically capable of flying above the oxygen level. Rockets carry both fuel and oxygen. Early experimenters used gasoline and pure liquid oxygen.

Materiel command experts faced two major problems—suitable fuels and oxidizers, and a nozzle which would stand the terrific heat of the ignited gas. This latter problem has been solved. Better combinations of fuels and oxidizers still are sought.

FIVE EDUCATORS TO STUDY NEED FOR UNIVERSITY

St. Joseph, Ill., Sept. 3 [Special].—Sen. Everett R. Peters [R., St. Joseph], chairman of the Illinois higher education commission of the general assembly, today announced that the question of whether a University of Southern Illinois is needed will be explored by a special committee of five educators. Their services have been obtained by Dr. George A. Works, a retired educator of the University of Chicago, who was named director of study by the commission.

Members of the special committee are President Edmund E. Day, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; Clarence A. Dykstra, president of University of Wisconsin; William L. Myers, head of the department of agricultural economics and farm management in Cornell university; Fred J. Kelly, chief of the division of colleges and professional schools in the United States office of education, and Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo.

The committee and Dr. Works will visit Southern Illinois Normal university at Carbondale, proposed as the nucleus for a second university, Nov. 8 and 9 and the University of Illinois campus Nov. 10 and 11. The commission is expected to complete its work and report to the 64th general assembly in January.

EXPECT BATTLE TO DISCARD OLDS AS COMMUNIST

Assailed for Grant of Monopoly to Dall.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3. — A storm may break on the senate floor this week over confirmation of President Roosevelt's reappointment of Chairman Leland Olds of the federal power commission, it was learned today.

Leland Olds.

Olds has been under fire in congress as a Communist. He was a keynote speaker at the Communist dominated New York state convention of the American Labor party in 1938 and his first appointment to his present post in 1939 was assailed as a political payoff to the ALP which cast the 417,000 votes which swung New York state to Roosevelt in 1940.

Senate confirmation of the President's reappointment of Olds as FPC chairman has been delayed for three months and the agency has been technically without a head since June 23. The nomination came up in the senate last week but was put over when Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] announced he wished to discuss the case but would not do so until a quorum of senators is present.

Hits Grant to Dall.

A letter to Sen. Taft [R., O.] from Michael M. Lucak, president of the Cleveland, O., city council, charging Olds with the arbitrary granting of a monopoly on natural gas pipe lines into the Ohio area, was made public today.

The favored company was the Tennessee Gas and Transmission company, headed at that time by Curtis Dall, first husband of the President's daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall Boettiger.

"The issue is simply this," Lucak wrote. "Shall competing applicants for permits to build natural gas pipe lines be assured full and adequate hearings on their competing applications before decisive action is taken by the power commission?

"Peddled" Its Monopoly.

"Or, as in the present instance, shall the FPC be permitted to exercise a discretionary power where, by arbitrary action, it may deny to any competitor a hearing on his application for a certificate and may grant such a certificate to a rival applicant?"

The Tennessee company, headed by Dall, Lucak said, was given "a 60 day period in which to peddle its monopolistic right to its own financial advantage and to the disadvantage of the consumer."

The Chicago corporation, which secured the monopoly from Dall's company, Lucak recalled, then negotiated a loan of $44,000,000 of tax payers funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

With high hopes for the early freedom of their tiny country, Chicagoans of Luxembourg descent yesterday began a two day observance of their annual harvest festival, the schobermesse, at Old Limits picnic grove, Pulaski rd. and Devon av. The two day festival, which will continue today, is a short version of a two week celebration in Luxembourg where games are played and prizes given for vegetable and flower exhibits.

7½ MILLION USE CITY OPERATED BEACHES IN 1944

When city operated beaches close today for the season, more than seven and one-half million persons will have used them without a single drowning and at a cost of 7.2 mills per person, Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said yesterday. The figures exclude park beaches.

Under Supt. Walter Wright, the bureau of small parks and playgrounds, which operate the beaches, has supplied beach patrol, bathhouses, lifeguard protection, and sanitation control at a cost of $54,446, Hewitt said.

The service was provided at two large bathing beaches and at 27 street-end beaches whose combined length is about three miles. The large beaches are at the foot of Touhy av. and between 75th and 79th sts. Open air band concerts were provided on Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons at both beaches. Attendance in 1944 was not as large as in 1943, but Hewitt pointed out that the 1944 figure was high in view of the large number of persons in the armed forces.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday lost their season final with the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 1, but won the entire season series, 14 victories to 8.

Inasmuch as the Sox have lost 69 games and are wallowing in seventh place, the news of another loss may not be as significant as the fact that the long smoldering feud between Manager Jim Dykes and some of his players was revealed as about ready to flame forth publicly. There was a sharp exchange of repartee between Bill Dietrich and Dykes after the Indians had scored two runs in the fourth inning of yesterday's Comiskey park contest which ended when Dykes ordered Dietrich "to go upstairs [to the bath house] and dress."

Patrons Overhear Clash.

The clash was overheard by patrons in boxes near the Sox bench. While a public quarrel was something of a surprise, the fact that there was a flareup between Dietrich and Dykes did not amaze those familiar with the sorry internal state of the Sox.

Dykes' hold on the team and the general morale of the team did not increase, as President Grace Comiskey had expected, when, on the night of July 24, she announced she had signed Dykes to manage the team in 1945 and 1946. Prior to this announcement, some of the players who are not awed by Jim's reputed genius for leadership, had been willing to stick it out. While they have not been rebellious, exactly, they have not been too secretive about their opinions of Dykes and the handling of the team.

Contrasts Dykes and Mack.

Dietrich is not a noisy dissident. He has, at times, it is said, confided to intimates that he never has considered Jimmy a leader entitled to pose as a sort of Connie Mack Jr. Dietrich played on Mack's Athletics before he came to the White Sox and the comparison or contrast, in the allusion to Connie Mack, is obvious to those who have played for both Dykes and Connie Mack.

When asked to comment on the public hollering between him and Dietrich, Jim said, "You saw him work for four innings today. That ought to be answer enough."

In Dykes' Dog House.

At least one other of the Sox's best known pitchers has been in Dykes' dog house since the team last was in New York, but so far there has been no public yowl similar to the one which took place yesterday in the hearing of boxholders.

In yesterday's game, the Indians made three of their four runs before the Sox made the first of their four hits off Steve Gromek. They made two off Dietrich in the fourth, and YOUNG LENNY MUNNA of the Holy Cross nine of New Orleans is hailed as a second Luke Appling by the baseball fans who saw him play in the American Legion tournament games in Charleston, S. C. . . . In addition to his sure fielding and his timely hitting, Lenny has Luke's shambling gait. . . . Herc Alley, former Vanderbilt player, has been added to Carl Voyles' staff at Auburn. . . . Charles A. Comiskey, 18 year old grandson of the late owner of the Chicago White Sox, is in boot training at Great Lakes. . . . Mike Hines, marine corps lieutenant who was a substitute tackle on the undefeated 1941 Notre Dame football squad, has come home to Kewana, Ind., on leave after two years in the African-European theater of war. . . . Bernie Moore is starting his 10th year as head football coach at Louisiana State university. . . . None of his predecessors lasted more than five. . . . Iowa Seahawk football opponents still will have to deal with Ensign Art Guepe, former Marquette star who scored the first touchdown against Notre Dame last fall. . . . A member of the football instructional department, Guepe has been named by Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher to assist with the coaching duties. . . . Max Lanier, the Cardinal southpaw, was a right hander until he suffered a broken arm early in his career. . . . Poison oak infection kept Ty Cobb from attending Connie Mack's golden anniversary celebration. . . . Cliff Dapper, former Dodger, is catching for the San Diego navy nine. . . . Miami, Fla., hopes to land a berth in the Southern Baseball association when the teams take to air travel after the war. . . . Miami business men are interested in the Chattanooga franchise. . . .

Fifty-six is a magic number in sports. . . . Joe Di Maggio hit safely in 56 consecutive games, Ben Hogan finished in the money in 56 straight golf tournaments, Walter Johnson hurled 56 consecutive scoreless innings, and Greg Rice won 56 races in a row. . . . The Dade Park race track near Owensboro, Ky., is owned, operated, and managed by one man, James C. Ellis. . . . Pete Coorlas, who sparked Kelvyn Park High school to the Chicago basketball championship in 1943, is playing third base for the strong Camp Maxey [Texas] baseball team. . . . Larry Gilbert, Nashville manager, says his star southpaw, Boyd Tepler, who has struck out 119 men in 100 innings, would be a bargain at $50,000 if placed on the open market. . . . Tepler, a Chicago boy, is on option from the Chicago Cubs' Los Angeles farm. . . . The North Dakota Retriever club will hold its first American Kennel club licensed field trials in Fargo Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 21 and 22. . . . ## AAU SWIMMING TITLE CAPTURED BY LAKE SHORE

The Lake Shore Club of Chicago scored 47 points to win the Central AAU junior swimming meet yesterday at the Hinsdale Golf club. The host team finished second with 22 points, Medinah Club was third with 16, and Beilfus Natatorium placed fourth with 11 points.

Ann Bresnahan of the Hinsdale team won the 50 yard free style in :30.6, and the 50 yard breaststroke in 1:26.9. Jeanne Wilson of the Lake Shore squad captured the 150 yard individual medley race in 2:02.8, and was a member of the winning medley relay team.

YANKS WIN TWO; TRAIL BROWNS BY HALF GAME

Detroit Falters in St. Louis, 4 to 1.

New York, Sept. 3 (AP).—The New York Yankees won a double header from the Washington Senators today, 6 to 5 and 11 to 3, to cut the St. Louis Browns' American league lead to a half game, despite St. Louis' 4 to 1 victory over Detroit in St. Louis.

Nick Etten's 16th and 17th home runs proved enough to help the Yankees win the opener, altho Floyd Bevens had to be relieved by Johnny Johnson to get the Senators out in the ninth.

A big fifth inning in which 12 men batted and six runs were scored highlighted the Yankees victory in the final. In this game George Stirnweiss stole bases Nos. 45, 46, and 47 and every Yankee regular drove in at least one run.

BLACK BARONS, PAIGE WIN TWO FROM CLOWNS

The Birmingham Black Barons increased their chances for a second straight American Negro Baseball league championship yesterday by beating the Cincinnati Clowns in Wrigley field, 8 to 0. In a second game, not counted in the league standings, the Barons won a seven inning decision from the Clowns, 6 to 4, with Leroy [Satchel] Paige pitching the first four innings for Birmingham.

IRISH ALREADY OUT OF TICKETS FOR ARMY GAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 3 [Special].—Herb Jones, athletic business manager at Notre Dame, today announced that all of Notre Dame's allotment of tickets for the annual game with Army in Yankee stadium, New York, had been sold and that his office will start making refunds immediately to those whose orders were received too late to fill.

CUBS BEAT REDS, 5-1 AND 6-2; 30 FOR NICHOLSON

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 3.—The Cubs put on a little Rhineland blitz of their own this afternoon by routing the third place Reds in a double header before 11,617 customers.

The Chicagoans slipped over a four run opening inning in the first game, the decisive factor in an eventual 5 to 1 score. They skidded into an early two run deficit in the second game, but with the help of Bill Nicholson's 30th home run with one on, they wound up their day's work with a 6 to 2 margin.

Nicholson's previous high mark for homers in one season was set in 1943 when he hit 29. His homer today, which broke a tie in which Claude Passeau and Ed Heusser were involved, was merely one of several features contributed by the Cubs. After stunning the Reds with those four opening runs, the Cubs made a triple play, which was so encouraging for Henry Wyse that he breezed thru without again being seriously threatened.

Grimm Bounced for Clowning.

And for a climax, Manager Charley Grimm, who was feeling pretty good, was bounced from the second game for a new low in the umpires' silly season.

Grimm's removal came in the eighth inning when the Cubs were happily fixed with a 4 to 2 lead and Passeau was going strong. The manager was doing his pantomime stuff at third and the crowd was having fun. But umpire in chief, Georgie Barr, suspected he might be the cause of Grimm's antics. Anyway, he was 90 feet away when he ordered Grimm to leave and an umpire who was only 20 feet distant saw nothing objectionable.

Nicholson's Bat Booms.

A pass to Hack and a single by Hughes started off the Cubs on their four run first inning in the opening game. Cavarretta fanned, but Nicholson doubled to left for two runs. When Secory singled to score Nicholson, Konstanty replaced Carter. Johnson and Merullo singled, Secory scoring. Dewey Williams walked, filling the bases, but Wyse grounded into a double play.

The Reds still were reeling from the four run jolt when the Cubs slugged 'em again with the triple play. Arrangements for the happening were made when White and Tipton singled in the home half. Walker slapped a liner high above Merullo, but Lem leaped and the ball stuck in his mitt. Merullo tossed to Johnson at second and Johnson passed the ball along to Hack for the third out.

In the Cubs' second Secory singled again to score Hack who had walked. In the seventh an error by Merullo after singles by McCormick and Mueller enabled the Reds to escape a shutout.

Passeau Gets Behind.

Passeau walked Woody Williams in the second inning of the second game and the Reds took advantage of the gift when Mesner doubled to score Williams. In the next inning Passeau's troubles were far more complicated, seven men bat-

Nelson Leads by 3 Strokes at Nashville

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 3 (AP). — Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., recent winner of the Tam o'Shanter open in Chicago, today shot a four under par 67 to lead the $10,000 Nashville invitational golf meet with 131 at the half way mark. This put him 11 under par for 36 holes and a three stroke lead over Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., the Professional Golfers' association champion.

The 72 hole tournament record of 264, set in 1940 by Craig Wood in the Metropolitan Open, would fall if Nelson continues his pace.

Mike De Massy of San Jose, Cal., today matched Nelson's 67, but he had shot a 77 in the first 18 holes. Hamilton had a 68 today. Tied for third with 136 were Toney Penna of Dayton, O., and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Philadelphia. McSpaden matched his first round 68, while Penna shot 69 today, two strokes above his first day total. Other leaders:

Sgt. E. J. Harrison, Wright field, Dayton, O., 137; W. A. Stackhouse, Sequin, Tex., 138; Gene Kunes, Philadelphia, 138; Jimmy Johnson, Detroit, 139; Sammy Byrd, Detroit, 139.

Hostess II. Is First to Reach Michigan City

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 3 (AP). —Hostess II., a class A cruiser owned and sailed by K. G. Stanford of Chicago, was the first boat across the finish line here in the second leg of the annual Tri-state holiday sailing event today as 30 of the 32 original starters reached Michigan City at the end of a 34 mile jaunt from St. Joe, Mich.

Official times had not yet been announced and were not expected before tomorrow, when the field heads for Chicago in the final lap of the week-end race.

Times were slow today, however, due to adverse winds.

SHOSTROM, VASH TO PLAY TODAY FOR TENNIS TITLE

Charles Shostrom of Hamilton park will meet Gene Vash of Garfield park this afternoon in the men's finals of the Chicago District closed tennis tournament at the Fullerton Tennis club.

Shostrom defeated Eugene Quinn of the home club, 6-3, 6-2 in a semi-final match yesterday, and Vash triumphed, 6-0, 2-6, 6-1, over James Gates of Fullerton. Other results:

Women's Singles, Second Round.

Leone Balke, Lawchester, beat Vivian Greenberb, Eugene Field park, 3-6, 6-3 6-4.

Semi-Finals.

Marian Hart, East End park, beat Helen Bartavis, Lawchester, 6-3, 6-4.

Men's Doubles, Semi-Finals.

Gene Vash, Garfield and Henry Balaban, Fullerton, beat Ila Adler and Bob DeBlois, Fullerton, 6-2, 6-2.

Boston Yanks Defeat Sampson Eleven, 14 to 0

BETZ TAKES 3D NATIONAL TENNIS CROWN, 6-3, 8-6

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 3 (AP).—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, queen of American tennis players since the abdication of Alice Marble, won the national women's title for the third straight year today, but the semi-final round of the men's competition saw the bid of Ecuador's Francisco Segura end in the same spot for the third successive time.

Miss Betz, overcoming her opponent's challenge from the net in the second set, defeated Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 6-3, 8-6 at the West Side tennis club. Before Pauline won permanent possession of the trophy, Bill Talbert of Indianapolis ended the threat of top-seeded Segura, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3.

Talbert, Parker Meet Today.

Talbert, who lost in the 1943 tournament in the semi-final round, will meet Sgt. Frank Parker for the men's crown tomorrow. Parker entered the championship bracket yesterday by beating Lt. Don McNeill of the navy.

Miss Betz had much her own way in the first set after breaking Miss Osborne's service in the first game, but she met stern opposition in the second, after dropping her own service in the fourth game. Margaret deserted the base line and from the net made a real battle of the match, taking advantage of the champion's erratic play. Miss Betz, however, rallied and, after missing three game points in the 13th game, finally broke thru Margaret's service and held her own service in the 14th.

Backhand Weakness Is Costly.

Segura got away fast in his match with Talbert and held command thru the first six games of the second. Talbert, however, found the weakness in Segura's backhand and, with a strong net game, won the next 11 games before Pancho held his service.

From there on it was an exchange of services until Segura broke thru in the 13th game. The South American dropped behind again in the fifth set but rallied and held his own until a lucky net cord shot gave Talbert the deciding point.

Talbert and Segura, after their five set match, dropped the men's doubles championship to Lt. Donald W. McNeill of Norfolk, Va., and A/C Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, Cal., 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

THREE CREWS REMAIN TIED IN R BOAT SERIES

Tied with four points each at the conclusion of Saturday's two races in the annual R boat series off Belmont harbor, the Chicago, Cleveland and Rochester, N. Y., sailors finished yesterday's second set of events still tied, this time at eight points each.

The two final races will be sailed today, with a triangular event at 10:30 a. m. and the windward-leeward final at 2:30 p. m. In the event a tie still exists, quarter points will be used to break the tie.

Thru yesterday's events, Chicago and Rochester have accumulated their eight points on two firsts and two thirds each, while Cleveland has the same total with four seconds.

Conclude Play Tonight in State Chess Tournament

Finals in the semi-division of the Illinois state chess tournament will be played tonight in the Garfield Park conservatory, following afternoon semi-final rounds. Milton Ellenby, who won the junior championship yesterday by defeating Arnold Tuckler, opposes Sam Factor, defending champion, in the semi-finals of the senior division. In the other semi-final Albert Sandrin meets Elnor Michelsen.

GEORGIE DRUM, SIRDE TOP FIELD AT WASHINGTON

War Relief, Charity Get Net Proceeds.

Handicap Field

TWELVE handicap stars were nominated overnight for the mile and one-quarter, $50,000 added Washington Park handicap today. The field, in post position order, follows:

| Horse. | Wt. | Jockey. | Prob. Odds. |
|---|---|---|---|
| *Daily Trouble | 103 | F. A. Smith | 6-1 |
| Valley Flares | 100 | No boy | 20-1 |

| Welcome Pass | 108 | J. Higley | 20-1 |
| Some Chance | 109 | J. C. Gilbert | 15-1 |
| *Equifox | 113 | A. Bodiou | 6-1 |
| Happy Issue | 104 | No boy | 12-1 |
| †Sirde | 113 | No boy | 2-1 |
| †Georgie Drum | 126 | C. Corbett | 2-1 |
| Pensive | 109 | No boy | 4-1 |
| Take Wing | 100 | F. A. Smith | 20-1 |
| Valdina Foe | 104 | O. Grohs | 20-1 |

*Wells, Straus entry.
†A. Drumheller entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Georgie Drum, Allen Drumheller's Washington bred candidate for national all-age honors, and his stablemate, the fast breaking 3 year old Sirde, top a field of 12 named to start today in the climatic feature of the Washington Park meeting, the $50,000 added Washington Park handicap.

The 17th running of the Homewood fixture will be the last of the five $50,000 added stakes which were major factors in making the 70 day coördinated Arlington-Washington Parks' meeting, which closes Thursday, the richest in the history of the American turf.

Proceeds Go to Charity.

The net proceeds of the Labor day program of nine races will be contributed by the Washington Park Jockey club to charity and relief organizations. The first race will get under way at 2 o'clock before a crowd which is expected to be even larger than at the track for the July 4 program, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., during which a new state betting record of $1,740,293 was established.

Last year the Labor day attendance was 34,000 and the mutuel handle $1,503,279 when Thumbs Up and Royal Nap wound up in a dead heat for first in the handicap.

Worth $42,950 to Winner.

The race today will have a gross value of $61,300 if all 12 start and pay the running fee of $750. Net to the winner will be $42,950 with $10,000 to second, $5,000 to third, and $2,500 to fourth.

Opposed to Georgie Drum, winner of the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes on Independence day and the $15,000 Sheridan handicap recently, and his running mate, Sirde, will be Pensive, the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner from the Calumet farm; B. R. Paton's Valley Flares; David Straus' and Howard Wells' entry of Equifox and Daily Trouble; Miller and Burger's Traffic Court; A. S. Hewitt's Some Chance; Happy stable's Happy Issue; Clyde Troutt's Take Wing; John Marsch's Valdina Foe, and J. J. L. Powers' Welcome Pass.

Georgie Drum, which has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds, will be ridden by Charley Corbett. The rider for Calumet's Pensive is a matter of conjecture. Pensive has lost his last seven races since winning the Preakness. There is the possibility that Buddy Haas may be aboard Pensive today.

With the Drumheller entry a 2 to 1 favorite, the second choice may be Pensive or the Straus-Wells entry with F. A. Smith on Daily Trouble and Al Bodiou on the 7 year old Equifox. Otto Grohs, Marsch's contract rider, will have the leg up on Valdina Foe, winner of the $10,000 Grassland.

CARDINALS LOSE DOUBLE HEADER TO PITTSBURGH

Pirates Win First, 6 to 5; Take 2d, 8 to 2.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates today became the first team to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals a double header and also the first to take a four game series from the National league champions this season. They accomplished this by taking the first game, 6 to 5, and the second, 8 to 2.

Rip Sewell won his 16th game in the opener, thanks to a home run by Jim Russell, and Nick Strincevich coasted nearly all the way in the second game after the Pirates scored eight runs in the first two innings.

ting, but the veteran was able to limit the damage to one run. White singled with one out and Tipton walked. Criscola fanned, but McCormick doubled to left to send in White. Mueller then was purposely passed and W. Williams popped out.

A pass to Cavarretta, a single by Nicholson, and Dallessandro's fly put the Cubs into the scoring column in the fourth. In the fifth they tied it up on singles by Merullo and Williams and Hack's fly. Everthing then was quiet for Heusser until the sixth when Cavarretta doubled and Nicholson followed with his homer into the right field bleachers. The ninth began with a pass to Hack. Singles by Cavarretta and Johnson did the rest.

AGENDA TAKES TUMLAREN RACE; FINALS TODAY

Agenda, sailed by Lou Emmerman of the Columbia Yacht club, won the second of a three day series of Tumlaren class yacht races yesterday off Grant park harbor by a margin of 48 seconds.

The final race will be sailed at 2:30 p. m. today, with three of the four yachts entered holding a chance for the trophy. Besides the Agenda, they include Willis Ware's Viking, second in each of the first two races, and Sam Clark's Svek, first Saturday but third yesterday.

Match Team Loses, 2-0, in Softball Regional Meet

Athletics Get 16 Hits; Whip Red Sox, 5 to 1

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox lost ground in their race for the American league pennant today by dropping a 5 to 1 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics. Jesse Flores limited the Red Sox to seven hits while the A's were accumulating 16 off three Boston hurlers.

Sox Lose, 4-1; Dietrich and Dykes Clash

Mickey Rocco, who with two homers drove in all the five runs with which the Indians won, 5 to 2, Saturday night, greeted Buck Ross in the fifth with his No. 12 of the year.

Dietrich was able to hold the Indians to one single and no runs in the first three innings. But the fourth was different. Lou Boudreau beat out a single to deep short and scored on Roy Cullenbine's triple to the right field corner. Then Cullenbine scored while Webb was tossing out Ken Keltner.

Sox Avert Shutout.

Jake Wade pitched the ninth and he, too, got his feet wet. Buddy Rosar tripled and scored on Ray Mack's double.

The Sox averted a shutout in the eighth when Skeeter Webb doubled and scored on a single by Wally Moses.

DETROIT SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS SCHWABENS, 5-4

The United German Americans of Detroit, with Walter Vanetti scoring three goals, yesterday defeated the Chicago Schwabens soccer team, 5 to 4, in Lane Tech stadium. Maxie Jordon scored two times for the Schwabens and it was his goal, after five minutes of play, which gave the Chicago team a 1 to 0 lead.

Then the scoring duel between the pair started. Vanetti, five minutes later, booted one in from 10 yards out. Jordon came back with a goal from five yards after eluding three opponents. Fifteen minutes later Vanetti slipped past two Chicagoans to make the score 2 to 2.

The Schwabens had the lead a third time when Ali Mueller took the ball from Kurt Jotzat and scored on a 20 yard maneuver. Just before the half Ewald Hilbert scored for Detroit. Jotzat's goal early in the second half gave Schwabens a 4 to 3 advantage. They held it for almost 30 minutes. Then Vanetti, after a 50 yard breakaway, sent home the tying score. Bill Blackman scored the winning goal in the final two minutes.

KEY FIGURES IN NEW PRO LEAGUE

Sam Cordovano. Buffalo Contractor.

Mrs. Lou Gehrig. New York Co-Owner.

John L. Keeshin. Chicago Freight Line Head.

Arthur McBride. Cleveland Taxicab Magnate.

Don Ameche. Film and Radio Star. Los Angeles Co-owner.

Comdr. Gene Tunney. Baltimore Owner.

A. J. Morabito. San Francisco Lumberman.

L. T. Shaw. First Coach Appointed.

Here are eight of the key figures in the All-America Football conference, new major professional league which will begin operations next year and whose organization was perfected in Chicago last week. Franchises already have been granted for teams in Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cleveland, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, and applications have been filed by three other cities. All except Shaw in the above group are full or part holders of franchises already granted. Shaw, former star tackle at Notre Dame and later head coach at Santa Clara, is the first coach hired in the league. He will direct the San Francisco squad.

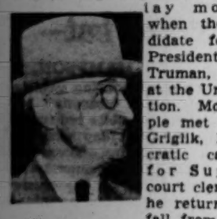
FORGOTTEN MAN STOPS HERE; HIS NAME IS TRUMAN

You'll Hear a Lot of Hooey from Now On, He Says.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Official Democratic greeters stayed away in surprising numbers yesterday morning when their candidate for Vice President, Sen. Truman, arrived at the Union station. More people met Casimir Griglik, Democratic candidate for Supreme court clerk, when he returned last fall from buying a goat in Marengo.



Sen. Truman.

There were no Mayor Kellys, no party leaders, no ward committeemen, not even a precinct captain. In fact, welcome was extended by one reporter, one photographer, one red cap, and a discouraged looking pigeon.

"I didn't expect any one," said the senator. "I didn't arrive officially."

"You'll Hear a Lot of Hooey."

Sen. Truman, who was on his way to Detroit to make himself a speech, said things looked all right to him, altho he hadn't had much chance to case the political situation.

He was asked about charges in the senate against the use of the Hillman-Political Action committee slush fund.

"I didn't think it had been used," he said. "I thought it was only in prospect. That's just politics, I guess. You'll hear a lot of hooey from now on. I don't know anything about it and I don't talk about things I don't know."

Not Much of a Surprise.

Of politics, the Missourian said he had only one meeting so far since the convention and didn't have any ideas on developments in the campaign. He said he wasn't much surprised when he was notified of his nomination last week in Lamar, Mo. Knew about it before, the senator said.

"I was surprised tho at the number of nice people who turned out," he continued. "There were 12 senators at the meeting."

He paused a moment to consider this phenomenon.

"That's more," he said, "than I ever saw together outside Washington except at a funeral."

R. F. POTTER, 75, LAWYER HERE 50 YEARS, IS DEAD

Ralph Farrington Potter, 75, prominent Chicago attorney, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 925 Chestnut av., Wilmette. He had practiced law in Chicago for 50 years and was a member of the law firm of Cassels, Potter and Bentley, with offices in the Wrigley building. Mr. Potter, a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan university and Kent College of Law, was born in Bloomington and came to Chicago when he was 25.

In 1924, he was appointed special assistant to the United States attorney in the prosecution of Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans bureau. He was a trustee of Illinois Wesleyan university and a member of the American Bar association, the Illinois State Bar association, the Chicago Bar association, and the Union League and Shawnee Country clubs.

Survivors include his widow, Harriet Norton Potter; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Eleanor Bunje of Los Angeles, Cal., and a son, Staff Sgt. Norton Ralph Potter, now with the army in China.

MRS. M'GOORTY, WIFE OF JUDGE, IS DEAD AT 68

Mrs. Florence E. McGoorty, 68, wife of Judge John P. McGoorty, head of the chancery division of Superior courts, died yesterday in their home at 929 E. 45th st., after a two year illness.

Mrs. McGoorty would have celebrated her 23d wedding anniversary on Thursday. She and Judge McGoorty met as children in Berlin, Wis., where they attended school. Mrs. McGoorty was a member of the Chicago Women's Bar association, the Catholic Women's league, the St. Ambrose Women's club, and the ladies auxiliary of the American Hospital association.

She attended John Marshall Law school, was admitted to the bar in 1910, and practiced law for many years with offices at 3600 Irving Park rd.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Ambrose church, 47th st. and Ellis av.

BRITAIN HOUSES REPATRIATES IN 'FREEDOM CAMP'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Homeless repatriates who arrived in England on the Swedish mercy ship Drottningholm are living in a "freedom camp" while jobs and homes are being found for them.

Many have no traceable relatives here and some are the French or Polish wives of British subjects still interned, or fighting with the allied armies.

Where necessary, the repatriates are provided with funds from the public assistance board. They pay the equivalent of $2.80 daily for room and board.

CHAMBER CALLS MEETING ON WAR ENDING PROBLEM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—A distribution conference to lay the foundation for more jobs after the war and to develop "a better understanding of the economic needs of all distributors" has been called by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It will be held Oct. 23 and 24 in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York City.

Ralph Bradford, chamber general manager, said President Eric A. Johnston will make a major address at a dinner meeting the night of Oct. 23 on the subject, "Distribution—A Key to Prosperity."

Charles M. Isaac, manager of the chamber's domestic distribution department, said the conference will be built around the main themes of reconversion and demobilization; disposal of surplus government property; price control and civilian supply; post-war unity in business, and consumer credit and taxes.

AGENCY TANGLE HELD MEANS OF EVADING CURBS

Sidestep Restraint of Constitution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—The joint congressional committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures reported last month that there are 44 New Deal fostered corporations within the federal government. These lending and spending agencies have nearly 70,000 employes and officials scattered thruout the United States and foreign countries.

The large corporations include the Commodity Credit corporation, the Tennessee Valley authority, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Others, not so well known, are the Disaster Loan corporation, Virgin Islands company, and Cargoes, Inc., a lend-lease agency. Cargoes, Inc., originally a private corporation, was purchased outright two years ago pursuant to a Presidential directive under Reconstruction Finance corporation "authority" to create corporations.

Would Avoid Restraint.

The congressional investigating committee, headed by Sen. Byrd [D., Va.], concluded that the purpose of government corporations appeared to be "to avoid the ordinary restraints placed upon regular government establishments and to create a reservoir of capital."

Closer examination of the mushroom-like development and complex functionings of these instruments is said to reveal that they have been organized for the purpose of evading constitutional restrictions on federal financing, which stood in the way of pet government and economic schemes.

The Byrd committee learned that the 44 government corporations operated at an expense of 1 billion, 857 million dollars in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1943. For the same fiscal period, total net loss was $202,959,000, but the committee said that profit and loss mean little at present because it will be years before final results of operations are known. Similarly, the committee reported that the value of assets covering the corporations' liabilities "will not be known for years to come."

Up to Date Data Lacking.

The committee statement was issued last month, but financial data for the New Deal corporations were for the year ended June 30, 1943. A committee investigator explained that it was impossible to obtain up to date information.

The constitution requires regular statements of receipts and expenditures of federal funds. Expert accountants have reported themselves baffled in their search for accurate information showing clearly how corporation money is obtained and spent and to what extent the agencies have pledged the credit of the United States.

The investigating committee said that it was struck by the diversity of provisions in the creation and control of the federal corporations and that many seem to have been organized with little thought to advantages or disadvantages. Some have capital stock and others do not; many are subject only to perfunctory control from their so-called supervisory agencies; the administrative expenses of several are not under the scrutiny of either congress, the budget bureau or the general accounting office.

Some Chartered by States.

The committee said it failed to understand why some of the federal corporations should be chartered under state laws. The primary objections raised were that under a state charter of incorporation, the federal government subordinates itself to a state; that a government corporation so chartered assumes state liabilities and obligations, and that frequently powers granted under a state charter may exceed the powers congress intended the corporation to have.

The administration advisers who dictated the charters of many of the corporations did not have any such objections, it was said, and as a result, at least 17 corporations have charters issued by Delaware, New York, Maryland, Alabama, Tennessee, Washington, or the Virgin Islands.

Pennsy Puts Record Coal Load on Ships in August

The Pennsylvania railroad shattered all previous records at Sandusky, O., in August when a total of 2,066,286 tons of coal was transferred from railroad cars to ships, J. M. Symes, vice president, reported yesterday. He said the new record was 236,356 tons in excess of the best previous mark of 1,829,930 tons set in September, 1943.

Plane Firms Prepare for Order Ending

Approximately 65 per cent of aircraft contractors in the Chicago district have prepared for the prompt filing of their own claims and for the processing of their subcontractors' claims in the event of contract terminations, it was learned yesterday.

Lt. Col. Evan A. Mattison, readjustment executive for the air technical service command of the army air forces in Chicago, said the estimate is based on pre-termination interviews held with all the air forces prime contractors in the midcentral procurement district, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa. The remaining 35 per cent were among the smaller contractors.

These air forces prime contractors not only are ready to handle any cutback that may result on victory in the European theater, but many are prepared to pre-determine and agree on several of the questions that must be resolved to effect a prompt settlement, it was said.

Every air force prime contractor will be assigned to a specific termination team consisting of a contract termination officer, a property disposal officer, and an auditor, so that if the contractor does receive a cutback or termination on V-day he will be prepared, Col. Mattison said. The teams are proceeding with "dry run" termination conferences with contractors to pre-determine and agree on as many factors as possible. By so doing, every contractor will know exactly how to file his inventory and claim and will, in turn, be able to instruct his subcontractors.

VENEZUELA OIL PROFIT.

What is the explanation of the unusually large increase in profit reported by Creole Petroleum corporation for the first half of 1944?—G. H.

Answer: Creole, one of the largest oil enterprises in Venezuela, has profited from war time demand and prices for its products. The company's gross crude oil production for the first six months of 1944 averaged 351,000 barrels daily, compared with 215,000 barrels daily in the same period last year for both Standard Oil Company of Venezuela, its wholly owned operating subsidiary, and Lago Petroleum corporation. Current output exceeds 400,000 barrels a day.

In August last year, Creole acquired all the oil properties and certain other net assets of Lago Petroleum, more than 99 per cent of whose capital stock was owned by Standard Oil of New Jersey. Standard of Venezuela was then dissolved.

Creole's net income for the first half of 1944 amounted to 31.8 million dollars, or $1.19 a share, compared with 10.6 million, or 40 cents a share, a year ago, as adjusted to include Lago earnings. Excluding Lago's profit, Creole's operations during the first six months of 1943 had shown a net loss, reflecting in part a low level of shipments from eastern Venezuela, caused by transportation shortages.

People and Events

Appointment of Victor H. Petersen as special representative, passenger traffic department, Rock Island lines, with headquarters in Chicago, was announced yesterday by I. C. Bruce, general passenger agent. Peterson formerly was with the National Broadcasting company.

Arnon N. Benson has become associated with the Byrne Marcellus company, specialist in trade association management, Byrne Marcellus, president, announced. Benson formerly was general manager of the National Automobile Dealers association and then assistant to the president of the National Dairy council.

Employes of six repair shops of the Pullman company worked 823,398 man hours in July with only one lost-time accident, Harry Guilbert, safety director, said.

Paul J. Wimsey, general tax attorney for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, has been appointed by Gov. Green to serve as Illinois' delegate at the annual conference of the National Tax association in St. Louis, Sept. 11 to 13.

Garfield R. MacDonald has announced his resignation as chief of WPB's clothing, knitgoods, and equipage division to become merchandise manager of Chicago Mail Order company.

J. H. Scatterty, president, New York Cotton exchange, announced that Fred P. Lordan had been appointed assistant to the president. Lordan formerly directed public relations of the exchange.

VOTE THIS WEEK ON STRIKES AT 47 MORE MINES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 3 (AP).—The coal mine supervisors' campaign for recognition of their newly organized union, which has led to strikes closing 16 Pennsylvania mines, will spread this week with strike votes scheduled at 44 mines in West Virginia, two in Kentucky, and one in Pennsylvania. About 8,000 miners already have been made idle by the dispute.

Ten of the closed mines, seized by the government Aug. 31, are expected to resume production tomorrow, Labor day, but supervisors at 14 other pits have voted to join the strike movement to enforce their demands. Eight of these are in Pennsylvania, six in West Virginia. At the same time, supervisory workers at four pits voted yesterday in Pennsylvania against a strike.

The back to work movement tomorrow at the 10 mines under government control was upon instruction of John McAlpine, president of the United Clerical, Technical, and Supervisory union, a branch of the United Mine Workers.

Bus Travel Is Resumed in Indiana After Tieup

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3 (AP).—Travel on Indiana railroad buses to many Indiana cities, held up for 24 hours by a dispute over the safety of equipment, resumed today as drivers and company agreed to have the five buses in question inspected impartially. The company called in all buses when several drivers, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes, refused to load the five buses. Labor day week-end travel was affected from here to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Anderson, Muncie, Peru, Wabash, and Fort Wayne.

Powerful New Jungle Mortar to War on Japs

Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., Sept. 3 Special].—A powerful new weapon designed particularly for the war against the Japs, a "jungle mortar," was demonstrated by the army here today with other new war material.

The jungle mortar, a 60 millimeter mortar weighing 20 pounds, can be carried easily by one man thru thick jungle cover.

It can be based on any stable object and provides rapid fire against pillboxes, machine gun emplacements, and other strong points.

It weighs one-third as much as the standard 60 millimeter mortar, and can be fired at greater angles of elevation.

New Lightweight Tanks.

Despite indication that the mortar was aimed particularly at the Japs, demonstration of a new light tank and similar heavy motorized armament showed that battles on the hard surfaced fields of Europe had not been forgotten.

The new tank, the M-24, was described by ordnance officers as "a significant trend in army ordnance in that light tanks now pack the wallop of a medium tank while medium tanks now have the punching power of heavy tanks."

A new type air borne light tank, which made its appearance on the battlefields of Normandy, is carried by gliders and is known as the "Locust."

Exhibit Gun Carriages.

Two new gun motor carriages, the 76 mm. and 90 mm., were shown in an exhibition run. Featuring low silhouettes and comparatively light-weights, these pieces are able to out maneuver enemy tanks and their heavy gun power has a decided advantage over opposing tanks, officers explained.

Col. J. W. Cave, chief of the arms and ammunition division at Aberdeen, said these new gun carriages can defeat any axis tank yet captured and are proving more than a match for the vaunted panzer divisions of Germany in France.

Field commanders now can accompany advance units of allied motorized columns in the newly developed armored utility car, known as the M-20. Carrying a crew of six, it can reach high speeds over almost any terrain. Each of its six wheels is power driven.

NEW PROXY ROW IN ALLIED MILLS UP FOR DECISION

The second Allied Mills, Inc., proxy battle within a year, will be decided tomorrow at the annual meeting of the corporation. William H. Shane II., Philadelphia stockholder who last November was defeated in his efforts to force the company to offer stock of the Century Distilling company to Allied stockholders instead of selling it to National Distillers corporation, again is seeking proxies, this time to elect two directors to Allied's five man board.

Shane's candidates, William S. Wasserman and Edward B. Hodge Jr., both of Philadelphia, are "pledged to work for" Shane's proposal that the company use about 16 million dollars of its more than 22½ million net current assets to buy up half of the stock outstanding. Shane said in his letter to stockholders soliciting proxies that the large working capital was not needed or being used by the company and such use would increase per share earnings.

New Schedules Improve Air Connections in West

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3 (AP).—Western Air Lines announced today that plans have been completed for new schedules in Los Angeles to provide direct connections with other air lines to Latin America points and at Lethbridge, Canada, for direct connections with Trans-Canada Airlines for Canada and Alaska. New schedules also have been arranged at Salt Lake City, Utah, for addition transcontinental connections.

TELL DETAILS OF 3 TRACKED ARMY VEHICLES

New Weasel Can't Fly Yet, but—

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Details of three fighting vehicles—erstwhile "secret weapons" produced by the automobile industry—were disclosed yesterday with the sanction of the army. These machines, which have demonstrated their war qualities to the enemy, are the Studebaker corporation's newest version of its utility carrier, the Weasel; Buick's Hellcat tank destroyer; and Fisher Body's M-36, a gun motor carriage mounting a 90 millimeter gun. All are track laying vehicles.

The new Weasel will do

SLOAN PREDICTS PRICE HIKE ON POST-WAR AUTO

Expects No Revolution in Its Design.

America's post-war automobile will be streamlined, but it will not be revolutionary or sensational in design, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, said yesterday in Chicago on his arrival on the Santa Fe Super Chief.

Mr. Sloan, who paused here en route from the west coast to his home in New York, said the post-war automobile probably would be lighter, more attractive, and more economical.

The first automobiles to come off of the production line, he said, will be revamped 1942 models. "I think," he added, "that there will be no revolutionary changes in design, but the post-war car should show several years of natural progress."

Prices Probably Higher.

"Prices," said Sloan, "will be no lower, and the chances are they will be somewhat higher. It will depend chiefly on labor and material price levels." He declined to hazard a guess as to how much higher the retail price will be increased.

As soon as war time restrictions are lifted and a "go ahead" signal is given by the government, Sloan indicated, General Motors is ready to tackle the huge task of reconversion.

"After the O. K. is given," he explained, "it will take our company four months to get production started and in six months we should have production up to our pre-war capacity level."

Expansion to Create Jobs.

Sloan said one of the chief post-war objectives will be "the great question of providing jobs for people," and, with this in mind, he added, his company plans to expand to some extent after it returns to normal production.

He said his company planned to take back as many returning service men as possible. He asserted that the company has 500,000 employes in its present war time production setup, but he did "not know whether the company can employ that many after the war."

General Motors, he declared, will continue to produce the same five makes of automobiles, Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, and Chevrolet, as it manufactured before the war.

Looks for Greater Volume.

He said he hoped production after the war would exceed pre-war volume.

No airplanes or airplane parts will be made by the company after the war, he said. At the present time, he explained, all of General Motors' vast production resources are devoted solely to production of war materials, including airplane motors, airplane parts, guns, and other equipment.

Of the war, Sloan said: "It looks as if everything is going well for us in the war with Germany. I am of the opinion that with Germany it will be a case of total disintegration rather than an armistice."

BURGLARS GET $1,427 LOOT.

Burglars who forced a basement door stole an accordion, a man's gold wristwatch set with diamonds and rubies, a woman's wristwatch similarly trimmed, and a .32 caliber revolver, all valued at $1,427, it was reported yesterday to police by Stanley Niedziowski, 4141 W. 57th pl.

3 BILLION ROAD BILL PASSAGE IS SOUGHT AT ONCE

Part of Reconversion Program for U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3 (AP).—A $3,375,250,000 road construction program, one of a series of weapons being fashioned in congress to combat post-war unemployment, was put on the list by administration leaders today for pre-recess action in the senate.

One of the most ambitious public works programs under consideration as part of the reconversion machinery, its consummation would require the approval of state legislatures. State funds would be necessary in most instances to supplement proposed federal expenditures totaling $2,075,250,000.

Since 45 legislatures meet in January, Senate Majority Leader Barkley told sponsors he will join in an effort to obtain passage during the next fortnight of a bill authorizing the federal contributions. They would be spread over three post-war years.

Barkley assured Sen. Hayden [D., Ariz.], who has charge of the measure, that he knows of no obstacle to its consideration as soon as a quorum of members returns to put the final touches on post-war demobilization and surplus property disposal bills.

The major provision of the highway bill calls for a federal contribution of $650,000,000 annually for three post-war years, $200,000,000 of which would go for urban highways, $250,000,000 for the federal-aid highway system and $200,000,000 for farm-to-market roads.

This money would be allotted on the basis of a federal expenditure of 60 per cent and a state contribution of 40 per cent.

A congressional recess starting about Sept. 15 and extending until after the November election appeared probable today as senate and house conferees reported progress in composing differences holding up reconversion legislation.

Final agreement on two reconversion bills is expected the latter part of this week. Senate-house conferees already have agreed to a compromise setting up a four man board to determine policy and a single administrator to supervise disposal of surplus property. Still to be settled before the property disposal bill goes to the White House are whether publicly supported institutions shall be allowed to buy surpluses at a discount and whether stockpiling of strategic minerals shall be continued after the war.

Another set of conferees, seeking a common ground on unemployment and demobilization legislation, reported "satisfactory" progress after a brief meeting yesterday. The group will meet again Tuesday. Major hurdles involve unemployment compensation for some 3,500,000 federal workers and a program for retraining war workers and sending them back home at government expense. The bills before them leave unemployment benefit rates to the states.

ELECTROCUTED BY LIGHT CORD.

Livinston, Ill., Sept. 3 [AP].—Leo Philippi, 30, was electrocuted at his home yesterday when he came in contact with an electric light cord while working under the building.

AL, BABY ALPACA, SCORNS SLUR ON HIS FUNNY LEGS

Pipestem legs are no novelty at the Brookfield zoo, what with storks, cranes, and assorted spindly shanked animals sporting them, but Al, the newly born alpaca, has limbs that resemble pipe cleaners.

The resemblance was noted yesterday by Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoo, who viewed the youngster on its second public appearance. He said Al's legs looked just like pipe cleaners that had been run thru a well smoked pipe.

Al, who was born Sept. 1, paid no attention to Bean's observations. After all, hadn't nature endowed him with a coat of the second finest wool known? No. 1 in the wool parade is sheared from the backs of vicunas, but Al wasn't worried about vicunas either. He was perfectly content with mama alpaca, who looked pretty smug about Al, too.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & BOB BECKER

A HIKE thru the farm fields and woods during these first days of September furnishes proof that nature is right in tune with the calendar. As is always the case at this season of the year, the hickory trees seem to try to look their worst. The leaves of this useful tree are yellowed and shriveled and many are falling to form an untidy looking carpet in the woods. There are few trees which manage to look so uninviting early in September as the shagbark hickory. Due to the battering the trees received from a recent storm they seem to look even worse than ever at this season of the year.

The display of goldenrod on the farm continues to attract attention, and the deep azure blue of the chicory plants that are spread all thru Chicagoland still have many blossoms, which rival the color of the clearest September sky. These flowers are as beautiful as any that grow during the summer months. The small but bright blue flowers of the asters also can be seen in most fields, but they are hardly able to compete in color or numbers with the goldenrod.

Nighthawks on Move.

This is the time of the year when the farm residents have only to take a look at the sky [especially around evening] to see one of the most remarkable bird migrations of the season, for the nighthawks are on the move. The first small flocks [these birds travel in what might be called "aerial convoys" of varying size] were seen during the last few days of August. From now on we may expect many more large and small flocks from the north, feeding on the wing as they pass over Chicagoland, and then continuing toward their winter grounds.

The nighthawk in some respects is a wonderful bird. It wanders in its migrations from lands 'way up near the Arctic down to southern South America. It seems to be able to catch flying insects either during the day or after dark. Its mouth [like that of the whippoorwill] opens far back under its ears to form a large trap that engulfs unwary insects, while its long and extremely powerful wings enable the bird to sideslip, turn on the speed, or perform other tricks on the hunt for food.

On Way to Argentina.

Right now the nighthawks going over the farm are traveling just a few miles a day on their way to Argentina. They usually rest during part of each day. The other morning we saw one small flock flying not more than 30 feet above the ground about 9 o'clock. As a rule the largest number of birds can be seen late in afternoon up to dark. Altho the nighthawks are leaving for warm lands thousands of miles south of us, we still have one group of efficient night flying insect catchers on the job at the farm. These are the bats, which appear just before dark to get their meals of flying insects.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have staked tomato plants can take several steps at this time of the year to lengthen and increase their tomato harvest. One trick used by the gardener on the Wheaton farm is that of pruning the tomato leaves which are shading clusters of green or partially ripened fruits. Now that the weather has moderated there is little chance of sun scald, and by giving the sun direct access to the fruits their ripening is hastened. Early harvesting of these large fruits enables the plant energy to go into the development of the smaller fruits on the vines, thus improving their chances of reaching maturity before frost time.

If the main staked tomato stem holds few fruits, gardeners should examine sucker growths emerging from the main stem just above ground level. In some cases these suckers hold more fruit than the depleted main stem. If so, the main stem can be cut off and removed and the sucker lifted and staked.

Inquest Set for Tomorrow in Killing of Father of 4

A coroner's inquest will be held in the county morgue tomorrow morning into the death of Carlo Cima, 48, of 701 Miller st., who was found shot on the street a few doors from his home early yesterday. Cima, the father of four children, died shortly after reaching County hospital. Cima's widow, Rose, told police her husband had been threatened by a man who accused him of relationship with his estranged wife.
